ROOSEVELT AND HOOVER TO TALK DEBTS TUESDAY

Twelve Leaders of Congress Next.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The conference between President Hoover and President Elect Roosevelt on the war debts will be held at the White House next Tuesday afternoon.

On the following morning the three ranking Republican and Democratic members of the senate finance committee and the house ways and means committee will meet with the President at his request to discuss the debt question.

Gov. Roosevelt called the President by telephone shortly after noon today to inform him that he would arrive in Washington next Tuesday at 3:30 o'clock and planned to go to the White House immediately for the conference to which the President had invited him.

Disarmament on Program.

In addition to the war debts, Mr. Hoover and his caller are also expected to talk of what may be done to achieve world economic stability through the coming international economic conference, and to discuss the future of the disarmament program. As explained in his telegram of last Saturday to the President elect, the President believes these topics must also be taken up in any discussion concerning the debt situation.

It was announced at the White House that the talk would be "informal." In his acceptance of President Hoover's invitation Gov. Roosevelt requested this informality and suggested that the discussion be private. It was evidently agreed during the telephone conversation that each principal might have one second; for the White House statement said that "the President will be accompanied by Secretary Mills. Gov. Roosevelt will be accompanied by some one interested in the subject."

Announcement that the President had asked the congressional committee members to meet with him on the morning following his conference with Gov. Roosevelt was made at the White House late this afternoon.

Dozen Are Summoned.

Those included in the invitation are: For the senate finance committee—Senators Reed Smoot of Utah, chairman; James E. Watson of Indiana and David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, Republicans; and Pat Harrison of Mississippi, William H. King of Utah and Walter F. George of Georgia, Democrats. For the house ways and means committee—Representatives James W. Collier of Mississippi, chairman; Henry T. Rainey of Illinois and Robert L. Doughton of North Carolina, Democrats; and Willis C. Hawley of Oregon, Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts and Isaac Bacharach of New York, Republicans.

While these preliminaries were being arranged the situation with respect to the debts remained at a standstill. The French and Belgian ambassador called at the state department, to be informed there that the United States is not yet ready to make reply to the French, British, and Belgian notes asking that the Dec. 15 payments be postponed pending a reexamination of the funding agreements.

It was clear that President Hoover would make no formal announcement of his position at least until after his talk with Mr. Roosevelt and his conference with the leaders of the two congressional committees which would pass on any legislation respecting the debts.

Suggests World Court Action.

Evidence of the hostility of congress to any effort to cancel or revise the debts was further reinforced by a statement issued by Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] in which he suggested that use might be made of the world court if the debtor governments decline to pay or are unable to pay. If they do not meet their Dec. 15 payments, he said, he would present a resolution requiring the secretary of state to present the case to the world court and there seek to have the foreign governments adjudged insolvent and bankrupt.

"President Hoover and President Elect Roosevelt may confer on the European war debt situation," said Mr. Britten, "but congress will decide that Europe should now stop its secret bickering against the United States and pay its honorable obligations.

"France has the largest per capita gold supply in the world and can undoubtedly pay, without the slightest

Well, After All, the Deer Was No Imitation

The 150 pound deer which Charles O. Taylor, president of the Pollshers Supply company, sent from Wisconsin to his friends at the South Shore Country club, supposedly as evidence of his hunting skill, was stopped en route yesterday, thereby causing Mr. Taylor, possibly, a slight reddening of the ears.

Mr. Taylor's troubles were of an absentee sort, however, the immediate sufferer being one Anthony F. Erro, 30 years old, of 2525A 5th avenue, Milwaukee. Erro was driving his automobile serenely along in Waukegan road when Sergt. Paul Jensen and Policeman Joseph Yore of Lake Forest, spied him. His automobile, they noticed, sagged heavily.

Guess Is Partly Right.

"Bootlegger with contraband," guessed the sergeant, and forthwith he and Yore halted the serene Mr. Erro. They found in his car not alcoholic contraband but hunting contraband in the form of the 150 pound deer. The hunting of deer is not legal until Nov. 21, the policemen informed him, and took him to the station where they booked him for illegally transporting a deer.

"Why lock me up?" protested Erro. "This isn't my deer." The policeman asked Erro to address his remarks to the judge, which Erro did while Justice of the Peace Samuel Sorenson listened.

Erro said he met Mr. Taylor several days ago at Eagle River, near where the Chicago business man has a home. Mr. Taylor told him, Erro said, that he wanted to treat some friends at the South Shore Country club to a deer dinner.

Hunter Hunts by Proxy.

"All Mr. Taylor needed was the deer," said Erro. "He asked me if I would get him one, and I said I would. He gave me $50 to buy a deer, but told me that I was to understand that he had shot him. So I took the $50 and bought the deer, but I only paid $15. I was bringing it in when I was arrested."

Justice Sorenson fined Erro $100. Erro telegraphed to Mr. Taylor and the latter shortly afterward wired back the amount of the fine which Erro then paid, making a total cost to Mr. Taylor of $150 for the 150 pound deer.

Moreover, Mr. Taylor's friends at the South Shore Country club will not get their venison dinner. Game Warden Henry Kern of Waukegan ordered the deer confiscated and its meat distributed to the needy.

PRISONER FLEES FORT SHERIDAN WITH WIFE'S AID

James Pierce, a private at Fort Sheridan facing court martial, assisted by a woman believed to be his wife, made a daring escape from the military reservation yesterday before the eyes of an armed sentry.

Pierce, with two other prisoners, was doing fatigue duty near the rifle range and gradually edged his way toward the north-south road. A small automobile driven by a woman, later described by fort authorities as Pierce's wife, drew up.

The prisoner ran to the road, jumped into the slowly moving car and a moment later was driven northward at high speed. The surprised guard ran after Pierce and fired one ineffective shot at him.

Pierce is 23 years old and comes from Harvey, Ill. He entered the army three years ago. The charges against him are fraudulent enlistment and embezzlement, based on the fact that he stated he was single when he enlisted and on alleged minor peculations from the quartermaster's corps. His wife's last known address was in the 4600 block in Ferdinand street.

Body of Murder Victim Is Found on South Side

The body of an unidentified man about 35 years old, clad only in a shirt and underwear, was found late last night in an alley in the rear of 3217 South Dearborn street. The man had been shot through the heart.

Cantacuzene Hurt in Hunt at Onwentsia

Prince Michael Cantacuzene, great-grandson of President Grant and prominent in Chicago social life, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he was thrown from his horse at the Onwentsia Hunt club at Milburn.

He was taken to the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest where physicians last night were attempting to determine the extent of his injuries. While admitting the prince's condition was serious, they said that he was in no great danger.

Ground Slippery from Rain.

The prince is 34 years old and lives at 900 North Michigan avenue with his wife, Princess Clarissa, the former Miss Clarissa P. Curtis, of Boston. He is the son of Prince and Princess Michael Cantacuzene, the latter [Julia Dent Grant] the granddaughter of the former President. He is also the grandnephew of the late Potter Palmer.

The accident in which Prince Cantacuzene was hurt occurred during the regular Thursday hunt. Among others following the hounds were Wolcott Blair, James Simpson Jr., and Mrs. Merrill Hubbard.

Because of the rain and snow of the day before the ground was slippery. This placed an extra burden on the horses to keep up with the hounds. The prince, who learned to ride in Russia when he was a boy and is considered one of the finest horsemen at the Onwentsia club, kept pace with the dogs.

Horse Collides with Barrier.

He was in the lead throughout the chase and his horse was clearing the hurdles easily enough. Just before the accident the horse went over three short fences in succession and approached a fourth fence.

Apparently the horse was galloping too swiftly for it made no attempt to jump, but crashed directly into the barrier. Prince Cantacuzene was tossed over his mount's head and the horse somersaulted and fell heavily alongside him. It is probable, physicians said, that one of the horse's hoofs struck the prince in the back in the fall.

The prince was unconscious when other riders reached his side, but was revived at the clubhouse. Dr. Theodore Proxmire of Lake Forest said the extent of the injuries will not be known until today when X-ray pictures are taken. Dr. Proxmire added that a hunting derby hat protected the prince's head from more serious injury.

The "mystery suit" which James G. Clark of Mount Kisco, N. Y., filed last summer against Norman W. Harris, son of the chairman of the board of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, is a mystery no longer. Attorneys for the two litigants brought the story to light as they argued all day long yesterday before Circuit Judge John R. Caverly on preliminary motions in the case.

The arguments showed that Clark charges that he returned to his home in Madison, Wis., near midnight one night in July, 1931, and found Harris there with Mrs. Clark and a piece of luggage which contained, among other things, Harris' pajamas, toothbrush and a change of underwear.

Clark charges further, it was disclosed yesterday, that on that embarrassing occasion Harris agreed to settle $200,000 in trust for the two Clark children, $500 a month for life upon Clark himself, and to leave the children $200,000 more in his will.

Denies Any Contract.

Clark's original suit against Harris asked damages of $300,000 for an alleged breach of contract to pay Clark $500 a month for life. It was alleged further that Harris stopped payments after three months. In a formal answer Harris denied existence of any contract.

The matters before Judge Caverly yesterday were three motions, on which, he announced at the end of the hearing, he will rule Dec. 8. The first motion, by Attorney Lloyd Whitman, representing Clark, was to file an amended declaration setting forth in ten counts the alleged illicit friendship between Harris and Mrs. Dorothy Funk Clark. The second, by Attorney Jay Fred Reeve, representing Harris, was to deny filing of the amended declaration. The third, also by Attorney Reeve, was to dismiss the whole suit, as "against public policy, against the interests of society in general, and corrupt."

Wife Divorces Clark.

Harris is the son of Albert W. Harris. Clark was a student at the University of Wisconsin when he met Dorothy Funk, daughter of a Des Moines, Ia., educator, and married her. She divorced him several months ago at Reno, Nev., on charges of cruelty. Clark has custody of their daughters, Judith, 6 years old, and June, 9.

Neither of the principals was in court yesterday, which circumstance probably saved both a profusion of blushes. Attorney Reeve referred to his own client as "a fool, appearing here for atonement." Clark he termed "a complacent cuckold . . . asking this court to procure him the price of his cuckoldry."

The white haired judge was a rather unwilling auditor of the charges of scandal aired before him. Once, as he walked into his chambers during a recess, he was heard to murmur, "Tach, tach, tach. This is a terrible thing," and then he glanced absently at a pair of antlers which form a part of his wall decorations.

Appears for Atonement.

Attorney Reeve pointed out to Judge Caverly that the defense is not admitting the truth of the charges contained in the amended declaration, but that he was merely assuming them true for purposes of argument.

"We do not deny, however, that my client has been a fool," he continued. "He wouldn't want me to deny it. He is appearing here for atonement. He is going through to the end. His appearance here is not that of a hero. He is penitently admitting his foolish acts. Perhaps such confession is good for the soul."

"I want to tell the court that the statements made about Mrs. Clark were forced upon us by the man who should have kept them silent by all the vows. The least that I can say is that Clark was a complacent cuckold. What he is doing is asking the court to procure him the price of his cuckoldry."

Opposes Amended Declaration.

The hearing opened in the morning with Attorney Reeve's twin motions opposing the filing of the amended declaration and asking dismissal of the suit. The amended suit contained the ten counts which described in detail the alleged illicit relationship between Harris and Mrs. Clark. Judge Caverly indicated that he would hear the attorney's arguments in favor of his motions.

Papen Gives Up German Rule; Cabinet Is Out

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Pictures on Back Page)

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—Germany's aristocratic and militaristic "monocle" cabinet is out. Chancellor Franz von Papen and his ministers, who ruled the nation with the toleration of President Paul von Hindenburg by a series of emergency decrees for nearly six months, resigned today "in the best interests of the fatherland."

The end, which was not unexpected in informed quarters, came after Chancellor von Papen realized the impossibility of continuing in office with the support of only two small parties, representing about 10 per cent, in the new reichstag, elected Nov. 6.

The Von Papen régime, with the approval of Von Hindenburg, twice dissolved the reichstag. Neither time did his cabinet muster sufficient additional strength in the subsequent elections to govern the country without making a travesty of the Weimar constitution.

Discard Dictatorship.

The alternative to resignation—a declaration of an undisguised dictatorship—was discarded as inadvisable at a cabinet meeting.

Von Hindenburg tonight is calling up party leaders to form an "authoritative cabinet of national concentration" on the platform advanced by the Catholic Centrists—"an alliance of all constructive forces in the national emergency."

Adolf Hitler, as leader of the mighty National Socialists, assumes that he will be the next chancellor. He is holding a conclave in Munich tonight with lieutenants from all parts of the country. Up until late tonight he had not received an invitation to visit Von Hindenburg, but it was announced here that a conference between the two men is scheduled for Saturday.

Until a new cabinet is formed Von Papen will carry on. His supporters believe that the party leaders, who forced his resignation because they feared for the safety of the German republic, will quarrel over the formation of a new cabinet. They hope that such a dispute will make it impossible to form a new government along the lines demanded by Von Hindenburg and that he then will be ready to make use of his absolute dictatorial power to reinstate Von Papen.

Willing to Aid Hitler.

The Centrists, who were the ringleaders of the opposition against Von Papen, have been negotiating with other parties to form a cabinet. They are fully prepared to cooperate with Hitler if the Nazis insist that their leader be named chancellor.

"We want to form a cabinet willing to respect the democratic principles of the constitution," Dr. Heinrich Vockel, Centrist leader, said tonight. "The question of personalities is unimportant—we will cooperate with any one who is willing to work on a platform uniting all the constructive forces of the land."

Von Papen Gives Statement.

Von Papen, when interviewed tonight, said:

"In this serious hour my associates and I decided to resign to make it easier for the president to form a new cabinet. We are not abandoning the principle of authoritative government. We are withdrawing to facilitate its enforcement."

Berlin political leaders interpret this statement to indicate clearly that Von Papen still expects that he or one of his henchmen will be summoned by Von Hindenburg next week to help enforce "authoritative rule."

Von Hindenburg has invited Dr. Karl Goerdeler, mayor of Leipzig and former price dictator, to a conference tomorrow noon. The president may offer his visitor the chancellorship.

TYPHOID FEVER HITS CUBA STORM VICTIMS; 168 DIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 17.—Typhoid fever, dreaded aftermath of disasters, broke out yesterday in the storm devastated regions of Cuba, especially Camaguey province. Today 168 persons had died and 600 are seriously ill 24 hours after the first cases were reported.

Practically all drinking water in the district is reported to be polluted. Hospitals and first aid tents are filled to capacity and unable to care for new cases. Patients lie by the scores on streets, which have been converted into emergency wards.

President Gerardo Machado today appealed to the nation, frankly admitting the country's finances are inadequate. Tonight all available doctors and nurses were entrained for Camaguey.

BROTHER TELLS YOUNG MANIAC'S CRIME CAREER

James Varecha, 17 years old, a mental defective, was hunted last night as the youth who shot and killed a motorist in a holdup the previous night, then within an hour kidnaped a niece of former Police Commissioner John Alcock with her escort, held the couple captive for five hours, and twice ravished the girl before he fled early in the morning.

Distraught after her experience, the girl, Miss Lillian Henry, 20 years old, a telephone operator, was under a physician's care at her home, 5720 South Lincoln street, while Alcock, now a deputy police commissioner, and two of her other uncles on the force, Lieuts. Michael and Patrick Alcock, led the search for the killer-rapist. Her cousin, Sergt. Thomas Alcock, also was in the hunt.

Meanwhile the body of the slain motorist, Frank Jordan, 38 years old, 6239 South Winchester avenue, a widower, lay in a morgue at 1844 West 63d street, awaiting burial on Saturday. Friends were caring for his orphan son, Kent, who is 12 years old.

Raid Home of Suspect.

Early last evening a squad led by Sergt. Michael McFadden raided the suspected killer's home at 2015 West 62d street and there discovered enough of his family history to convince them that young Varecha was a dangerous paranoic who should have been behind bars at least a year ago. Once, in a fit of rage, they were told, he attempted to kill his mother and three of his brothers.

Early in a career of truancy, larceny and assault with intent to kill, he became a ward of the Juvenile court, the policemen were told, and was sent successively to the parental home, the juvenile detention home and the state school for epileptics at Dixon. From this last institution he escaped last August. Twice before he had run away.

As the squadmen entered the home the mother, surrounded by her seven normal children, fell to her knees and began praying in a foreign tongue. Her prayer, one of her daughters explained, was that James might be arrested before he killed again, and that her other sons might be spared from arrest.

Oldest Son Is Questioned.

Nevertheless the policemen arrested the oldest son, Frank, 22 years old, a young man of clean cut appearance, and took him to the Chicago Lawn station for questioning. There he told the story of his brother, a story which the Juvenile court records and the statement of authorities at the Dixon institution confirmed.

"Iggy," he began, using his brother's nickname, "first got into trouble at the age of 13 when he was a truant from school. The truant officer had him sent to the Parental home, but he escaped and the Englewood police caught him in a robbery."

As a result the truant went before Judge Mary Bartelme, who, in March, 1928, committed him to the Juvenile Detention home. Released from there, he was arrested the following October for attacking a Mexican schoolmate with a crowbar, fracturing his skull.

Tells Threat Against Judge.

"Then the doctors examined him and said he was wrong in his head," the older brother explained. "Judge Bartelme sent him to Dixon, and before he went away he said he would get her for it. I visited him out there last June, and a few hours after I was there he ran away. They said I gave him money to escape, but it isn't true. We would all have been glad to see him kept there.

"He came home. We used to search him every time he entered the house. This time he had a gun. When my mother begged him to go back to Dixon he pulled it out and was going to fire when the rest of us jumped on him. We called the police and he was booked for assault with intent to commit murder."

Again the Juvenile authorities took jurisdiction, the record disclosed, and young Varecha was returned to Dixon on July 26. On Aug. 3 he and three other inmates cut through a screen window and escaped, the record showed. Since then, according to Frank, the family had heard nothing from him except that they had received a postal card six weeks ago from Mexico.

Descriptions of the killer-rapist, as given to police by Miss Emma Dahnke, 25 years old, 162 West 74th street, who was with Jordan when he was killed, and by James Guisinger, 20 years old, 6006 South Kolmar avenue, the escort of the ravished girl, fitted young Varecha. They said he was about 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing about 120 pounds, light haired, with small gray-green eyes and a sharp nose. He wore a light suit, a black pullover sweater and a dirty gray cap.

Girl Tells of Murder.

An account of Jordan's murder was given at an inquest in the Chicago Lawn station by Miss Dahnke, whom Jordan had been courting, and by Policeman William Grund of the Deering district, in front of whose home at 6153 South Lincoln street the shooting occurred.

"Frank wanted to see a movie last night," Miss Dahnke told the deputy coroner. "We drove around to several, but I had seen the pictures, and we stopped in Lincoln street to decide what to do.

"We had been there only a few minutes when a man came to my side of the car and put up a little black gun. I was afraid Frank would resist, so I shoved my purse to the man, but it was too late. He said, 'This is a stickup,' Frank said, 'The hell it is,' and started to get out.

"The man reached over me and fired into Frank's shoulder. Frank opened the door, got out, and was trying to run around the car when he fell in a heap. The gunman ran away."

Policeman Grund said he was in his living room awaiting the arrival of a doctor to visit his daughter, who was ill, when he heard the shooting. He ran outside to find Jordan dead and the girl about to faint, he said. The killer was not in sight.

Story of Miss Henry.

Here Miss Henry took up the story.

"My boy friend and I were sitting in his car at 57th and Lincoln streets," she said, "when a man came up and said, 'This is a stickup.' He told us to keep our eyes away from him and ordered my boy friend to drive when he was told.

"We came to 57th street and Hamilton avenue, where there is a prairie. I was sitting between them. He told James to get out. He took my handkerchief and 60 cents from my purse and ripped the linen collar from my dress. He blindfolded James with the handkerchief and tied his hands with the collar. Then he told him to get in the rumble seat, which James did.

"He told me I'd better do as he wanted me to if I knew what was good for me. Then he attacked me. This was about 10:45 p. m."

They remained there an hour and a half, the girl went on, and then the rapist took the wheel, driving around the district which the police supposedly were searching for Jordan's killer.

Refuses to Let Her Go.

"I asked him if I could go home," she said. "He said he didn't think I knew what it was all about and told me to be careful of strange fellows at parties. He said he wouldn't let me go then, but would later."

The rapist became concerned about the discomfort of her escort crouching in the rumble seat, she said, and stopped to let Guisinger join them in the coupe. About 1:45 a. m., she said, he stopped the car near Guisinger's home and told him, "Scram, now. You've been a pretty good guy or I would have killed you like I did that other fellow that I plugged in the windpipe. He was coughing blood, so I guess I killed him all right."

Guisinger, according to the police records, immediately reported the kidnaping at New City station. The rapist continued his drive, stopping in an alley at 48th street and Campbell avenue, where he attacked the girl again.

Vanishes in Railroad Yards.

"A Yellow cab came by," the girl concluded. "I guess he mistook it for a squad car. He got out of the car, waved his hand and said 'I'll be seeing you.' Then he walked over to the railroad tracks and disappeared. I drove home to tell my mother what had happened."

That the killing and the rape were committed by the same gunman was established by Sergt. Alfred Mulvaney. Comparing the bullet found in Jordan's body with bullets dropped in Guisinger's car, the sergeant discovered them to be identical ammunition designed for a Lueger pistol.

LAUNDRY DRIVER SHOT TO DEATH BY AUTO GUNMAN

Police Believe Racketeers Ordered Killing.

Joseph Fishman, 39 years old, 1342 South Kedvale avenue, a laundry wagon driver, was shot and killed by a bullet fired from an automobile yesterday afternoon in Division street near Clark street.

Investigation by the police brought the conclusion that racketeers in the laundry business had decreed the death of Fishman because he persisted in trying to take and hold customers that had been patronizing another laundry group.

He was employed by the Kleen Wet Wash company, 1711 Milwaukee avenue. This company has as a customer the Oak Beach laundry, a smaller concern at 49 West Division street. Fishman was calling on the Oak Beach for a bundle when the shooting occurred.

Steps from Auto.

Daniel Davis, 18 years old, a nephew of Fishman, was nearby when the latter was shot down. He said that a man stepped from a Ford coupe at the curb and spoke to his uncle, then called to a second man in the car:

"Shoot this fellow!"

Only one bullet was fired and Fishman fell dying. The killer and his companion fled. Fishman died soon after reaching the Henrotin hospital.

Davis told Lieut. John O'Malley of the Chicago avenue police that Morris Rothman, a driver for the Snow White Laundry company at 1238 South Crawford avenue, had threatened to "punch Fishman's nose unless he laid off the Oak Beach account."

Motive for Slaying.

They discovered that the Claridge hotel at 1244 North Dearborn street had until recently sent its laundry work to the Olympic Hand Laundry at 1011 North Clark street, which in turn patronized the Snow White concern, a wet wash plant. The Oak Beach was given this contract. The transfer deprived Snow White of business and turned it over to the Kleen Wet Wash company.

Rothman was taken to the station for questioning, but was released when he proved he was not in the vicinity. He denied knowing anything of a plot to kill Fishman. The police plan to call in the heads of all the laundries concerned in the fight over the Claridge patronage.

DRY AGENTS TAKE TOO MANY DRINKS; PRISONER IS FREED

After eight drinks of whisky a prohibition agent is in no condition to testify regarding the purchase of the drinks, Federal Judge George A. Carpenter ruled yesterday in dismissing dry law violation charges against Lester Tiffany of Aurora.

At an earlier hearing the agents testified that they had purchased four whisky highballs from Tiffany, but admitted that they had had four drinks of straight whisky in another saloon. Judge Carpenter expressed doubt that a prohibition agent who had had eight drinks could be certain of his facts.

EX-ENVOY SAYS MINISTER TOOK IMPORTED RUM

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—(AP)—On the busy desk of the American secretary of state was unfolded today a little diplomatic drama. The plot was brief. In a sad note, the unrecognized chargé d'affaires of the El Salvadorean legation complained that the recognized minister of that little republic had skipped with half a dozen cases of his imported whisky.

The complaint was aimed at Dr. Carlos Leiva, still recognized by the state department as minister, although his president—Araujo—has long since fled El Salvador and Leivia has devoted himself to the study of medicine in New York.

In the rôle of complainant was Roberto Melendez, who represents President Martinez, but whom the state department scratched off its diplomatic list a few months ago.

It was Leiva who gained prominence last year when he surprised liquor thieves in his legation and received injuries that sent him to Europe to recuperate.

Melendez in his letter to Secretary Stimson indignantly set forth that he ordered the six cases of whisky in June, while still recognized as legation secretary, and paid for them in advance. By the time they arrived, on an English boat, the department had dropped him from the diplomatic list.

Dr. Leiva, Melendez set forth, went to Baltimore on Sept. 23, identified himself as the Salvadorean minister, and took the shipment, which was consigned to the legation.

CONFESS DRUG STORE ROBBERIES.

Oak Park police said yesterday that they had solved many drug store burglaries in Chicago and Oak Park through the confessions of Frank Paluch, 19 years old, of 1057 West 32d street, and Fred Brechman, 21 years old, of 2632 North Malvina avenue.

A. C. BURCH, TRIED AS KENNEDY SLAYER, SAVES MOTHER'S LIFE

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. William A. Burch, widow of a former minister of Evanston, Ill., was recovering today after being saved from death in a garage back of her home here yesterday.

She was rescued by her son, Arthur C. Burch. She had been overcome by carbon monoxide gas. He summoned aid from the fire department and she was revived. Because of the condition of her heart she is not out of danger.

Ten years ago Burch was tried three times on charges of having killed John Belton Kennedy, a wealthy young man, on the porch of a rustic bungalow owned by Kennedy.

Burch was divorced by his wife, Allie Quayle Burch, a daughter of Bishop William A. Quayle of the Methodist Episcopal church, formerly a Chicago pastor.

Burch's co-defendant was Madalynn Obenchain, who as Madalynn O'Connor of Evanston had been one of the noted beauties of Northwestern university, where Ralph Obenchain had gained reputation as an athlete.

Obenchain became a lawyer and Madalynn's husband. He helped her all through her trials with Burch. The Burch family sold their Evanston home and moved to South Pasadena. There the father died.

ROBBER GETS LIFE TERM AS HABITUAL FELON

CRIMINAL COURT.

Bill Robinson, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Emil Stum, rape, sentenced to 7 years in the penitentiary; Stanley Skustvich, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John Prystalski.

Charles Rassler, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Walter Dryjanski, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry A. Lewis.

Carl Stepina, 35 years old, whose criminal record dates back to 1915, was sentenced to life in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge John J. Sullivan who acted in accordance with the verdict of a jury under the habitual criminal act. The sentence marks the end of Stepina's crime career, the police said, if prison walls a prison make for the four foot bandit, who in the past has escaped both from the penitentiary and from the police.

CARL STEPINA.

The crime of which Stepina was convicted yesterday occurred last July when Stepina and a companion, who escaped, robbed Herbert Strope, mechanic in a garage at 4731 Harrison street. Carl Berg, another mechanic, seized Stepina before he could flee.

Mother Shouts at Jury.

The sentence came at a court session mixed with tears and maledictions. The defendant with tears in his eyes begged for mercy while his mother shouted her disapproval of the jury verdict. Judge Sullivan threatened her with contempt of court, but this quieted her only until she reached the corridor where she resumed her tirade against the jurors and Prosecutors Mal Coghlan and Frank Mast.

Though Stepina was in the Bridewell twice between 1915 and 1920 he first gained notoriety in the latter year when he and a companion made a sensational effort to rob Horace Odell, chauffeur for Deputy Chief of Police John H. Alcock. This occurred in front of Alcock's home. During an exchange of shots John Bumbaugh, Stepina's companion, was killed and Stepina was wounded. He escaped while under a police guard at the county hospital.

Sentenced to Prison.

After his recapture he received his first penitentiary sentence from the same judge who sentenced him yesterday. Stepina did not stay in prison long. He escaped, was recaptured and later paroled.

In 1925 he was convicted of the $18,000 robbery of a bank messenger and returned to prison but was released three years later at the request of the Illinois Bankers' association. The association officials announced that they were convinced that Stepina had been wrongly convicted.

Stepina's latest escape attempt occurred soon after his arrest for the robbery of Strope. He sawed through bars in the Fillmore street police station and got out of his cell but was caught in the station.

Wounded War Veteran.

Stepina, a world war veteran who was gassed and wounded in France and was decorated by three nations, pleaded his war record in several courts, but this failed to avail him yesterday.

"You have been given every opportunity," Judge Sullivan told him. "You are completely anti-social and no good. The community must be given some consideration. The habitual criminal act was made for fellows of your type, who just will not reform."

Stepina's mother cited her son's war record and told the judge that he didn't realize how good he was to his family and friends.

"That is just the trouble; I know too much about him," retorted Judge Sullivan.

LIBBY HOLMAN MAY GO BACK ON STAGE AFTER BABY IS BORN

Winston-Salem, N. C., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Freed of a charge of husband murder, Libby Holman Reynolds was pictured by her attorney today as troubled by a lack of funds, and with no definite plans, except a probable return to the stage after the birth of her baby, expected in February.

The attorney, Benet Polikoff, returned to Winston-Salem from a conference with the one-time Broadway favorite. At the conference he gave her a detailed account of the dropping of the murder charge preferred against her and Albert Walker, 19, after her husband was fatally shot here July 6.

When Libby Holman secretly married Smith Reynolds, a year ago this month, she was reported to be earning from $2,500 to $4,000 a week as a blues singer.

Polikoff said Mrs. Reynolds "is considering" a return to the stage after the birth of her child, but in the meantime, he asserted, aside from financial worries, her chief thought is to live in seclusion "without being bothered."

FATHER ACCUSED IN $100,000 SUIT BLAMES SECRET 6

Steel Magnate Tells Story of Extortion Arrest.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

For more than two and a half hours yesterday William Van Doren Wright, steel company official, parried efforts of attorneys for William S. Kuhn Jr. to prove to a jury in Judge Peter H. Schwaba's court that he had maliciously prosecuted and caused the false arrest of young Kuhn as the author of extortion notes received by Wright's daughter, Marion. Kuhn, a former broker's clerk, is asking $100,000 damages from Wright and five co-defendants.

All through the questioning by the plaintiff's counsel, Frederic Burnham, the name of Edgar Dudley, Secret Six operative, kept cropping up in Wright's story of the extortion incident of two years ago. It was Dudley who investigated young Kuhn, Dudley who took him into custody and detained him for ten hours. Dudley who got a warrant and who took the Wrights, father and daughter, to the state's attorney's office when Judge John Lyle refused to accept a complaint signed by a policeman instead of by Miss Wright, the steel man recited. Dudley is one of the defendants in the suit.

Just Led Around.

At the end of the long session the voice of the witness was a weary mumble, trailing off into a reiteration of his protests at various points of the proceedings, that "I wasn't trying to frame anybody; I don't know anything about laws and courts; I was just led around."

His replies were vague to queries about the episodes of the arrest of the youth, who had been an acquaintance and an escort of his daughter to a few social affairs. Burnham tried in vain to make him admit that at any time he had taken the offensive, or that his daughter had pursued the affair actively. His replies indicated that Miss Wright signed the complaint at the direction of Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks, who later nol prossed the case.

Girl Mentions Wright.

Q.—How did it happen that Mr. Kuhn was selected as the possible writer of these notes? A.—Dudley came to my house and discussed the letters with Marion and myself. He went over all her list of acquaintances and her actions for weeks past, and the only person she could think of who had acted queer was Kuhn. She mentioned him, and Dudley began his investigation.

Q.—Did he make any report to you later? A.—He told me he didn't know whether he had the right man, but that we certainly had a queer actor. He had gone to some speakeasies where Kuhn was well known and had been told in one that he had been barred from there because of his actions, and at another they said he would buy a highball and sit for half an hour and talk to it as though it were a person.

Q.—When you went to the state's attorney's office, who told Mr. Brooks the facts in the case? A.—I can't recall what each one said. Together, Dudley, Marion and I related the details to him.

Can't Recall Conversation.

There followed an exhaustive examination by Burnham and repeated denials from Wright that he could recall a single item of the conversation.

Q.—How did Marion happen to sign her name to this complaint? A.—Mr. Brooks drew a line through the policeman's name and told her to sign it.

Q.—Did you tell her to sign? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you ever ask that William Kuhn be arrested? A.—I never did.

Q.—Did you know that a warrant had been issued? A.—Not until he was in custody at the St. Clair hotel.

Q.—How did you happen to go to court on Dec. 10, 1930, when the case came up? A.—Dudley called me and told me to be in court.

Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel, was summoned to the stand at the morning session to give his opinion as an expert on the fee charged the plaintiff by the firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt, of which Burnham is a member. The move was in connection with the proving of damages done Kuhn.

In response to a summary submitted to him by Burnham, of legal services in behalf of young Kuhn after his arrest and in preparation for the trial, Busch stated that he would consider a fee of $1,500 to $2,000 as fair remuneration. The total of the bill sent Kuhn was $2,500, it developed later.

"You think that's fair—even in these days of depression?" he was asked by Edward Everett, chief counsel for the defense.

"I think so—one must live, in any kind of times," was the reply.

Wendell Kuhn, older brother of William, had testified earlier to a conversation with the plaintiff while he was detained at the St. Clair hotel in custody of the Secret Six. He advised him then, he said, "Don't confess to anything you didn't do."

Judge Schwaba denied a formal motion of Everett at the close of yesterday's session to find the defendants not guilty on the ground that malice had not been proved.

Suit Against Singer Is Settled

DESIRE DEFRERE AND HILDA BURKE.

For $100,000 Balm

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 17.—(Special.)—The $100,000 alienation of affection suit filed against Desire Defrere, husband of Hilda Hopkins Burke, grand opera star, by William S. Burke, former husband of the singer, was marked "agreed and settled" on court dockets today by attorneys representing the parties. The amount of the settlement was not revealed.

In filing the action, Burke claimed the defendant had "broken up" his home and alienated the affections of his wife. The suit was filed Oct. 13, 1931.

Burke and the opera singer were married in 1921 when she was 17 and before she had begun her operatic career, she obtained a divorce during the summer of 1931 and married Defrere a week later.

Defrere, who is a baritone with the Chicago Civic Opera company, denied the charges of his wife's former husband in an answer filed last December, stating that "he did not commit the wrongs alleged."

BOOZE PRICES ADVANCING AS DRY ERA WANES

New York, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Sharp increases in liquor prices were reported today. Racketeers moved to reap what may be their last harvest.

Scotch and rye whisky were up $5 to $8 a case, gin $6, and other liquors in proportion. A 20 per cent rise over the entire range has been scheduled, it was learned. If the demand is great enough during the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year holidays, prices may go higher.

The increase is wholly artificial, the World-Telegram has learned. Liquor is more plentiful than ever before, larger amounts of the "real stuff" are being brought in daily and enforcement has not become more stringent.

The increase was forecast several days ago, following a report of a meeting, in a midtown hotel, of representatives of various gangs controlling hard liquor distribution. The report met with denial in many quarters.

CHICAGOANS GET CHARTERS FOR 12 NEW BREWERIES

Pick Names Similar to Old Companies.

Several forehanded Chicagoans yesterday sent the necessary fees to Springfield and obtained articles of incorporation for twelve brewing companies so that when better beer is made they will be in a position—nominally at least—to make it.

In each case the incorporators were the same: Benjamin Starr of the Canterbury Apartment hotel, 1320 North State parkway; Edward Dutzloff, 2421 North Newland avenue, and Roy Anderson, 2040 North Spaulding avenue. However, it was requested that the twelve certificates of incorporation be sent to Leonard Boltz, 1135 Fair Oaks avenue, Oak Park, who is said to be the prime mover behind the new bulge in the brewery market.

Boltz West Side Hoodlum.

Boltz is fairly well known in gang circles on the west side. He was indicted in 1923 on a charge of conspiracy connected with the alleged formation of a slot machine syndicate. Dutzloff, according to those familiar with the underworld, is a truck driver, and Anderson is a salesman.

In the articles of incorporation several names of the projected breweries were similar to those of companies now operating. The proposed Schoenhofen Brewing company might, for instance, be confused with the existing Schoenhofen Company, Inc. Or the new Seipp Brewing company might be mixed in identity with the Conrad Seipp Brewing company, also a going concern. The Miller Brewing company has a certain similarity in name to the existing Miller High Life company, and the new Northwestern Brewing company, if formed, doesn't sound a great deal different from the North American Brewing company, which is doing business now.

One Address for All 12.

Headquarters of all the newly incorporated breweries, according to the articles, are in room 1406 at 160 North La Salle street. This is the office of John B. Boltz, a brother of Leonard, and an insurance broker. John Boltz once was a member of the legal staff of the sanitary district, was a Deneen worker in Republican party affairs and tried to get the G. O. P. nomination for clerk of the Probate court in 1930.

Yesterday he denied blandly that he had anything at all to do with the new breweries. In fact, he said, he had never heard of them and could not understand why his office was mentioned in the Springfield documents.

Officials of the existing Seipp, Schoenhofen, and North American companies all declared that their firms had nothing to do with the incorporations and added that they would investigate to determine whether an attempt to steal the advertising value of their names was being made.

May Be Gamble for Riches.

Aside from those mentioned the names chosen by the incorporators included: Beronoff Brewing company, Citizens' Brewery company, Eagle Brewing company, Fortune Brothers Brewing company, Hoffman Brothers Brewing company, Independent Brewing company, Manhattan Brewing company, and Old Style Lager company. All have relationships in sound to past or present operators in the brewing field.

Those familiar with the underworld believe that Leonard Boltz and his associates are merely taking a long chance on being able to compete with the established brewing companies now making prohibition drinks, when and if congress legalizes brew with a kick.

"They really don't believe they can get away with it," said one who was familiar with the plan before it became public. "But it doesn't cost much to incorporate. If things should shape up so they could get a finger in they'd get rich."

Expect Beer Shares Boom.

In La Salle street recently there have been numerous rumors that syndicates to exploit the foaming stein in the form of stock issues were being formed and that stock promoters who have been languishing during the depression have elaborate plans for gathering in sheaves of money selling beer shares.

High pressure literature already has been sent out from offices in New York urging the public to "get in on the ground floor" of the new, although as yet illegal bonanza. One of those mentioned as having designs on the American investor, is John (Jake the Barber) Factor, who sold stock so cleverly to British investors that the crown is struggling to get him to come back and tell before a judge how he did it.

NEW JERSEY DRY LAW OFFICIALLY IS DEAD ON DEC. 6

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 17.—(AP)—New Jersey state police were advised by Attorney General William A. Stevens today to cease enforcement of the Hobart state prohibition act on Dec. 6. The act was repealed by vote of the electorate on Nov. 8, but the attorney general ruled the vote ineffective until it is officially certified by the board of canvassers. The police were also advised by the attorney general that they were without authority to enforce the federal prohibition laws.

Wants Beer Bill Hearings Before Next Congress Session

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Prospects for beer at this session of congress gained new impetus today. House leaders prepared to call the ways and means committee into special session ahead of time to take up a bill legalizing beer to raise revenue.

Representative James W. Collier [Dem., Miss.], chairman of that committee, announced he had begun a poll of the committee to determine whether a majority of them would be willing to come to Washington a week or ten days early to begin hearings on beer legislation.

This announcement followed a conference between Representatives Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], majority leader, and John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], ranking member of the all important rules committee. The proposal for a pre-session meeting of the ways and means committee received the unanimous approval of this group.

Would Block Borah Tactics.

Early hearings on a beer bill would assure the fact that congress would get beer legislation soo nafter it convenes, Dec. 5. That action would lessen the chances for a successful senate filibuster by Senator William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho], last of the outstanding dry leaders. Confidence was expressed that a majority of the ways and means committee members would agree to the early hearings.

Leaders are unanimously of the opinion that the important obstacle in the path of swift adoption of legislation legalizing beer and light wines is the necessity for determining an alcoholic content both palatable and constitutional in the view of the United States Supreme court, pending repeal of the 18th amendment.

Scientific experts are to appear before the ways and means committee to testify about the toxic effects of alcohol on the human system. It was said scientists generally hold that beer up to 4½ per cent is not intoxicating.

More Drys Change Front.

The drive behind the movement to get rid of the prohibition problem this winter continued today to gain strength from former outstanding drys. Senator Cordell Hull [Dem., Tenn.], who has a clear dry record, announced he would stand by the Democratic platform, calling for outright repeal and for beer, pending such repeal. Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] said that while he would not vote for repeal he would vote to strike out all appropriations for prohibition enforcement.

"My state has been dry for 25 years," Senator Thomas said. "There was an indication in the election two weeks ago that opinion there had changed.

"Under the circumstances, I may memorialize the legislature to tell me what position the state wants me to take. Unless my instructions are otherwise, I must continue to vote against repeal or nullification."

MERRIAM MAPS UNION OF 1,700 CHICAGO UNITS

Seven roads out of the "jungle" of 1,700 governments of the Chicago metropolitan region are presented by Prof. Charles E. Merriam, political scientist of the University of Chicago, in his study of the governmental problems of the area. The study, which occupied Prof. Merriam and his assistants for several years, has just been completed, and the section dealing with possibilities of consolidation was made public last night, when it was sent to Governor Elect Henry Horner and Representative Schnackenberg, chairman of the legislative committee which is considering possibilities of consolidation.

Some of the seven alternative plans presented in the report require little or no additional authorization; some of them may be accomplished with the aid of statutory action by the Illinois legislature; others will require amendment of the Illinois constitution; others will require the concurrent action of two or more of the regional states, and others would call for the consent of the United States congress.

Requires "Will to Act."

"More than all, however, there is needed a developed regional consciousness, a realization of the possibilities in reorganization and the will to act," Prof. Merriam says. "If, as, and when the five million people of the Chicago region are really in earnest about setting up a different form of regional government, they will find the difficulties disappearing."

In making the study, Prof. Merriam was acting merely as an impartial student of the governmental problem presented, and his report seeks merely to present possible lines of action. He points out that the area outside the actual city limits is now growing faster than the city itself.

Lists Seven Solutions.

The seven solutions for the elimination of the multiplicity of overlapping governments of the Chicago region presented in the report are:

1. Consolidation of the governments of Chicago within its present limits.
2. Annexation of adjacent territory to Chicago.
3. Federation of adjacent territory with Chicago.
4. Consolidation of Chicago with Cook county and the sanitary district.
5. Formation of special metropolitan districts by Illinois statute or by interstate agreement.
6. Home rule.
7. Independent statehood for Chicago corporate or Cook county area, or metropolitan area within Illinois, or the region entirely.

Consolidation of the government within Chicago would permit unification of the corporate city, the eight ring government of the city with its smaller rings being centralized in one compact organization, less expensive to operate and easier to control, Prof. Merriam says in the report.

Union of Park Districts.

An important step in the unification of Chicago would be the consolidation of the three large and the twenty small park districts within the city, in which case the overhead services of these districts, including law departments, police forces, engineering staffs, purchasing offices, and management would be combined and permit substantial savings as well as a unified program which would take into account the interest of all sections of the city.

Direct union of the board of education and the public library board might also be accomplished, and responsibility thereby centered squarely on the municipal government. If the mayor were given the power to remove as well as appoint the board of education the responsibility for school policy would be placed directly upon him, the report points out.

Calls Expansion Logical.

With a unified Chicago, the next logical step in the development of the region would be the annexation of adjoining territory contiguous to Chicago, or to a contiguous municipality. Ninety-six such municipalities, which are except in the technical legal sense, integral parts of the greater city, will find it difficult to resist the tide of expansion, the study predicts.

Organization of areas into boroughs which are made a part of the city while retaining their local autonomy in strictly or largely local affairs would be an alternate method to annexation, permitting handling of city-wide problems on a city-wide basis and local problems on a local basis. Such a system is roughly similar to that of Greater Berlin and London, and comparable to the New York borough plan. Administration of such a federation, the report suggests, might be conferred on a compact central metropolitan board.

Another possible move toward unification might well be the annexation or absorption of the sanitary district, a government which, the report says, "has no valid governmental reason for separate existence at the present time, unless it be that of the desire to obtain a larger borrowing power than is possible upon merger with the city." Passage of a statute would be sufficient to permit absorption of that part of the district within the city.

Interlocking directorates would permit of a large measure of unification, and Governor Elect Horner could make such appointments without any additional authority, in the judgment of Prof. Merriam.

In discussing home rule, the report says:

"The City of Chicago is placed in a position where it is deprived of its constitutional right of equal representation in the legislature, refused the degree of home rule urgently required, and granted in many states of the Union, and deprived of any advantage arising from supervision of its activities by some administrative superior.

"This is a state of governmental degradation not matched elsewhere in any country. This situation greatly increases the difficulty of government in the Chicago region, enhances its costs, and impairs its quality."

Map 40 Per Cent Cut in Iowa State Government's Expenses

A 40 per cent reduction in government expenditures for the state of Iowa through the consolidation and elimination of bureaus, commissions and other "vermiform appendices" was the program mapped out at a conference at the Chicago club yesterday by Clyde L. Herring, Iowa's Democratic governor elect, and Louis Murphy, United States senator elect, who is also a Democrat. "It will be a substitution of state needs for politicians' needs," said Murphy in summing up the plans.

"The picture now is that of 53 boards, created in almost 73 years of uninterrupted government of Iowa by one party," Herring explained. "In 15 years Iowa's state expenditures mounted from $9,000,000 to $40,000,000 a year. The per capita cost of our state government rose from $5.13 to $17.43 a year over a period of 11 years."

53 Boards to Be Cut to 15.

The governor elect declared the staggering rise in governmental costs represented "political patronage encroachments on state revenues" and the "destruction of checks and balances by one party domination." He said he would dedicate his energies to reducing the 53 boards to 15 departments, placing the responsibilities on constitutional officers. The plan, he pointed out, will be similar to the simplification of Illinois' government by former Gov. Frank Lowden.

In addition to his advocacy of repeal of prohibition, Senator Elect Murphy said he would devote himself to an attack on bureaucracy and needless expenditures by the federal government. He is also a champion of a lower tariff and reciprocity as an aid to the farmer.

"Paying prices made higher by protection, the farmer nevertheless was able to get by because he had a market in which to sell," said Murphy. "It was not until they took away his market that they began to take his farm away. Our Iowa farmers have a greater mortgage indebtedness than the farmers in any other state because they have been deprived of a profitable market.

Foreclosures Occupy Courts.

"The tragic consequence is that actions in foreclosure are the principal business of our courts."

At the conclusion of the conference Governor Elect Herring departed for a tour of the states of Maine, Virginia, North Carolina, and Georgia, where he will make an extensive study of their simplified state governments. Senator Elect Murphy left for a 10 day rest in Michigan.

GOVERNOR ACTS TO FREE STATE RUM PRISONERS

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Gov. James Rolph Jr. proceeded today to put into effect his announced plan to free "all victims of the Wright act [state prohibition enforcement measure] and other than those convicted under circumstances which aggravated their offense."

Letters were sent from his office to all district attorneys of California requesting information as to the number of persons incarcerated under the Wright act, which was repealed in the Nov. 8 election, and details of each case.

Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan has informed the governor the official count of votes cast repealing the Wright act is expected to be completed about Dec. 17, and that five days thereafter the law will be considered legally repealed.

Meanwhile a resolution saying Gov. Rolph should be "recalled by the indignant and outraged citizens of California" if he carries out his plan was disclosed by the Los Angeles County Women's Prohibition club.

H. K. CHAPIN JR. MADE DEFENDANT IN DIVORCE SUIT

Henry K. Chapin Jr. of 2430 Lake View avenue was made the defendant in a suit for divorce filed in Superior court late yesterday by his wife, the former Ada Josephine Bruce of Boston, through her attorney, Henry K. Urion. The bill charges cruelty.

The Chapins were married on Oct. 24, 1930, in Boston, and separated last Oct. 1. Mrs. Chapin went to the home of her grandfather, Edward Lake, 413 Wrightwood avenue.

Mrs. Chapin charged her husband "disgraced her with conduct of his and her affairs," used violent language, twisted her arm on several occasions, and once threw a telephone at her.

"Through the greater part of his life the defendant has enjoyed the luxury provided by wealthy parents and a result he has become irresponsible and unmindful of obligations, including the support of his wife," the bill continues. There are no children. Chapin is secretary of the Lake Coal and Dock company.

COURT ACCEPTS PASCHEN'S OFFER IN BANKRUPTCY

A composition offer in bankruptcy made by Christian P. Paschen, former building commissioner now under sentence to prison for income t... fraud, was confirmed yesterday by federal Judge George A. Carpenter.

Under the composition, approved by Harry A. Parkin, referee in bankruptcy, Paschen agrees to pay claims amounting to $299,550 in full, the settlement to be made with three year noninterest bearing notes. The referee's report points out that Paschen has assets of considerable value that are subject to mortgages and that would, if liquidated on a present market, leave no equity. In the time allowed, the report states, Paschen probably can realize enough on his holdings to pay off all creditors.

McKEE LEADS REVOLT AGAINST TAMMANY RULE

New York May Default on Pay Rolls.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A civic crusade against waste and municipal extravagance, with Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee as the leader, took shape today following Mr. McKee's open break with the Tammany controled city government.

Meanwhile the municipal government appeared to have reached an impasse in its financial difficulties. The postponed preelection money problems piled up anew until grave fears were expressed that the 21 million dollar December pay rolls would go unpaid.

Features of Crisis.

The city government this afternoon faced the following threats:

Unwillingness of banks to make any further loans, unless the previously demanded, drastic economies are actually put into effect.

Concerted and growing public campaign, in which many of the city's leaders have joined, to the overthrow of the present municipal rule.

Proposed filing of a taxpayers' suit to eliminate from the 1933 budget an item of more than 17 million dollars representing interest and amortization on securities for new subway construction.

Bankers Are Cautious.

Although the bankers who have been financing the city let it be known there would be no more money forthcoming until after a municipal housecleaning, neither Winthrop W. Aldrich of the Chase National bank nor Charles E. Mitchell of the National City would comment on the situation.

Controller Charles W. Berry, who says he has worked out a plan whereby the city could "use its own money without having to go to the bankers, was declared to have gone to Albany this afternoon.

In his absence Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial declared emphatically that he "could see no reason why the December pay rolls could not be met." Mr. Prial, however, either could not or would not disclose actual figures on the city's financial condition.

Praise McKee Tactics.

Business leaders who have been clamoring for municipal ecomony for more than a year were enthusiastic today in their praise for Mr. McKee and his attack last night at the state chamber of commerce dinner on "the present wasteful government."

Tammany's leaders were inclined to discount the importance of "the uprising."

OFFICIAL FALLS 22 FLOORS TO DEATH IN MICHIGAN AVE.

Theodore A. Peterson, 45 years old, vice president and treasurer of the S. Ward Hamilton company, specialty manufacturers of Harvey, plunged to his death yesterday from a window on the twenty-second floor of the Stevens hotel. His body struck the pavement in 8th street.

Peterson, who resided at 6862 Paxton avenue, had registered at the hotel a short time before. He carried no baggage and paid in advance for the room. Several notes which he had started to write and torn to pieces were found in a waste basket. One of these was to his wife, who is visiting in Peoria.

It was learned that Peterson had deposited $500 in a south side bank a few hours before his death. S. Ward Hamilton, president of the company which employed Peterson, said that the latter had been in poor health for months and was subject to spells of dizziness. He added that he knew no reason for suicide.

Peterson is survived by his wife and a daughter by a previous marriage, Mrs. Jay Case of Peoria. He was a member of the Medinah Country club.

SUSPECTS MAID AS AID OF LINDY BABY KIDNAPERS

Officer Believes Suicide Sign of Guilt.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 17.—Police Inspector Harry W. Walsh in the third of a series of copyrighted articles in the Jersey Journal today asserts he is convinced that Violet Sharpe, maid in the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, was the "informant, the agent, of the kidnapers" of the Lindbergh baby.

Miss Sharpe committed suicide during the investigation.

"I am convinced," Walsh writes, describing his part in the investigation, "that Violet Sharpe deceived us, and that she did so deliberately.

"I believe she committed suicide in panic, fearing her guilt had been discovered, or overburdened with her guilty knowledge after news of the baby's death."

Outlines His Reasons.

Walsh, who was in charge of the questioning of the employés at the Morrow home, said he arrived at these conclusions from the following facts:

"She was the recipient of the phone call at 10:30 Tuesday, March 1, that ordered Betty Gow [the baby's nurse] to Hopewell. This gave her knowledge that the baby would be in Hopewell that night.

"She insistently refused to reveal the identity of the person she was with on March 1.

"Her physical condition changed for the worse after it became known the baby was dead. I attribute this change to the working of her conscience. I believe that previously she had been buoyed by the hope that the baby would be returned safely. She would get a cut of the ransom money and no one would be the wiser.

Believes She Feared Quiz.

"She ended her life just before she was to be questioned again by the police and, as I believe, when she feared the screws of detection of her guilt were getting tighter and tighter."

Walsh says that the persons with whom Miss Sharpe spent the night of March 1 later were located and exonerated of any suspicion.

Walsh denies any "third degree" was applied to Miss Sharpe, stating that she was questioned only twice subsequent to the original questioning together with the other members of the Morrow household. These last two periods of questioning, he writes, lasted six minutes and three minutes, respectively, and both were done in the presence of agents of the United States department of justice, state troopers, and members of the Newark police department.

Walsh also reveals that Dr. John F. Condon of the Bronx, the "Jafsie" who paid over $50,000 to the supposed kidnapers, reported to Col. Lindbergh that "John," the man to whom he paid the money, told him there were five of the kidnapers, divided into two groups, the first composed of two men and a woman and the second of a man and a woman.

Tells of "Ernie" Search.

"In my mind was the suspicion," Walsh states, "that the woman in the second group might be Violet."

Describing the search for the "Ernie" Miss Sharpe said she was with the night of March 1, and who she said she believed was a bus driver, Walsh states that the name of every bus and taxi driver in the states of New York and New Jersey was obtained and that every "Ernie" on the list was questioned.

INSULL LAWYERS MAP BATTLE IN GREEK COURTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 17.—With Andrew J. Vlachos and Charles A. Bellows, assistant state's attorneys of Cook county, Ill., expected in Athens from Rome Saturday and with the request for the extradition of Samuel Insull signed by President Hoover, a war council was held here today by the Insull defenders. Arthur Douglas Page, Insull's young British attorney, and Cristos Ladas, Greek deputy and Insull's Greek lawyer, met this afternoon. Tonight Page consulted with Harry Hills, British director of the American Express company, which handles Insull's mail.

According to local legal authorities, the United States will not have to argue its case before the Greek courts. The papers are merely presented and the courts interpret them as conforming or not to the regulations of the extradition treaty. There appears no reason for great delay once the papers are presented, since the Court of Appeals has already ruled that the extradition treaty is retroactive and covers Insull's case.

One source of delay appears to lie in the possibility of Insull entering an appeal to the high court. This matter is being threshed out by Insull's lawyers.

British press reports reaching here still maintain that Insull is a British citizen, since he was born there, and it is not known now to what extent this contention may enter into the case in the final extradition pleadings.

EXTRADITION OF INSULL IS ASKED BY PRESIDENT

Signs Papers, Which Are Sent On to Athens.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—President Hoover today signed the request for Samuel Insull's extradition from Greece. The papers tonight were on their way to the American legation at Athens, which in turn will transmit them to the Greek government.

The request of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois, asking that Insull be returned to Cook county to stand trial, and court records of the indictment were received at the state department this morning. They were approved by the department, and on their showing the President signed the final extradition demand.

Meanwhile it was announced that the Insull utilities smashup would be one of the first cases investigated by the senate banking and currency committee upon the resumption this fall of its investigation of the stock exchange and high finance.

Ready for Senate Hearings.

Chairman Peter Norbeck [Radical Rep., S. D.] said today that the committee's investigation of the Insulls is virtually complete and that the hearings could go ahead any time. He was of the opinion they would begin immediately after congress convenes.

According to Chairman Norbeck, both Samuel Insull and his son, Samuel Insull Jr., will be called by the committee if their presence is considered necessary during the inquiry. The South Dakota radical Republican said, however, that the committee's inquiry into the Insull affair had yielded plenty of information on which the investigation could go ahead.

Chicago Investigator Reports.

The Norbeck announcement was made on the return from Chicago of Christopher Stewart, the man sent by the committee to Chicago some weeks ago to look into the Insull affair. After this conference, Chairman Norbeck said that while he could not speak for the full committee at this time, he was satisfied committee members would go ahead with the investigation once they had looked over the Stewart report.

CORNSTALK FURNITURE LATEST IOWA METHOD OF ATTACKING SURPLUS

Jamestown, N. Y., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Iowa's cornfields are producing "cornstalk wood," hard as teak and almost as strong as steel, for use in the manufacture of furniture.

Furniture made from such "wood" is part of an exhibition by Iowa State college at the convention of the wood industries division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Prof. O. R. Sweeney of the college said there is no natural wood that cannot be imitated in the cornstalk product. The types on exhibit range down to synthetic cork, made from cornstalks. It looks like cork and has all of cork's properties, Prof. Sweeney said.

EMBEZZLEMENT WARRANT ISSUED FOR C. L. STRAUSS

A warrant charging embezzlement was issued yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden for the arrest of Charles L. Strauss, missing president of the securities concern of C. L. Strauss & Co., 33 North La Salle street. Bond was fixed at $50,000. Strauss, who disappeared the day after his license was withdrawn by the secretary of state on Nov. 2, was the object of an unsuccessful search yesterday.

The warrant was obtained on the complaint of Ray Telfer, 2357 Shakespeare avenue, who testified that he had given Strauss $2,000 for the purchase of stocks and received nothing in return. Other complainants appeared at the Criminal court building and Assistant State's Attorney Edward C. Duffey said the failure of the Strauss company may entail a loss to investors of $1,000,000.

The possibility of federal prosecution in the case arose yesterday with the statement of Mrs. Virginia Donelson, wife of a Great Lakes naval officer, that she had carried on transactions with Strauss through the mails. She said that she had sent Strauss $2,000 for the purchase of stocks. Postal Inspector Vernon E. Albertie said yesterday that he received several complaints and was investigating.

Strauss' attorney, Harold Chayes, with offices at 100 North La Salle street, said yesterday that he had last seen Strauss two weeks ago. At that time, Chayes said, Strauss said that "he was going to get some money somewhere."

"That was nothing unusual for Strauss," the attorney said. "One day he would be broke and the next time you saw him he would have plenty of money. I expect to hear from him in the next few days."

Search was also continued yesterday for Strauss' secretary, Miss C. Cohn, 5400 Woodlawn avenue. A visit to her home brought the information that she was in a Chicago hospital after suffering a nervous breakdown two weeks ago.

Lawyer Assails Bargain Over Lost Love.

tery suit which has been proclaimed in the press for so many weeks," announced Attorney Reeve. "There really is nothing mysterious about it. It is just a repetition of the old game. They even made a deal to take this man's clothing from him.

"The only difference between this and thousands of other cases is that even though his father is the chairman of the board of one of the most important banks in town, Norman Harris has distinguished himself from thousands of other men by coming into court and facing the music. Of course we deny the truth of the allegations in the declarations, but I'll go over them."

The Story Boiled Down.

The whole story when "boiled down," the attorney said, began with a woman named Dorothy Clark carrying on an illicit affair with another man. Early in July, 1931, she wrote to her husband telling him that the other man was "paying personal amorous attentions" to her, and pleading that she divorce her husband so that she might marry him. The letter, the attorney said, indicated that Mrs. Clark was favorably inclined toward the other man.

"Two weeks later," Attorney Reeve went on, "the husband returned to his home in Madison at 11:50 in the evening, unannounced. He discovered his wife with the other man. Immediately he drove a hard deal while the man stood amid his personal baggage, change of underwear and night clothes which were in Clark's home."

The declaration, according to Attorney Reeve, contains charges that Harris and Mrs. Clark had clandestine meetings in Winnetka, Madison, Lake Forest, and Chicago. It asserts that the bargain between Harris and Clark was driven under Clark's threats to sue Harris for alienation of his wife's affections, the lawyer charged. This threat, he asserted, was made the day after the scene in Clark's home.

Agrees to $200,000 Trust.

"The bargain itself shows the effort Clark made to cash in on this case," the lawyer said. "At the witching hour of midnight, while Harris shivered amid his changes of underwear, he is forced to agree to put $200,000 in trust for Clark's children, June and Judith. The principal of this trust was to belong to the children and upon Clark's death was to be divided equally between them.

"At the same time Harris agreed that he would pay at least $500 a month to Clark for an indefinite period. He also promised to execute his will and testament providing that he would bequeath at least $200,000 additional to the children for added security."

"On Aug. 4, 1931, following the scene in Clark's home," Attorney Reeve continued, "the defendant signed and delivered a letter to Clark. A true copy of this letter is incorporated in the declaration, according to Clark's attorney. In the letter was a copy of Harris' will which, the letter says, has been signed, sealed and executed."

Confirms Agreement.

The attorney quoted the purported letter as follows:

"Dear Mr. Clark: I wish to confirm our verbal agreement of the other morning and my intention to contribute $500 a month to June and Judith Clark. It is understood that there will be no change in this agreement except by mutual consent of we two. I enclose a copy of my will."

"It is evident," said Attorney Reeve, "that the plaintiff wished that the wicked debauching and carnal knowledge of his wife should redound to his benefit. Not directly to his benefit either, for he seemed to take a broad view of the situation. He decided that his children should profit, not he.

"But the limit of the plaintiff's broadmindedness has not been reached. The will included provisions which indicated that the plaintiff, after reading of his wife's naive letter telling of her adultery, had decided that she had some rights as well as the children.

"The will gives the defendant's farm at Williams Bay, Wis., with its furnishings, its automobiles, farm implements, silverware, etc., and even including the defendant's clothing, to Mrs. Clark upon his death.

"You see this defendant was even losing his pants, his wearing apparel. Now a quotation from the will provides that 'my dear friend Dorothy F. Clark, to whom I am greatly indebted,' shall receive the income from a trust fund composed of the two-thirds of the defendant's estate after his widow's share had been withdrawn. This trust is to be divided equally at Mrs. Clark's death and the shares held in trust for her children until they each are 25 years old. Then they receive the principal.

"There is no explanation of what the defendant's 'great debt' to Mrs. Clark is unless the explanation of the declaration is to be assumed as true. Apparently the defendant is indebted to Mrs. Clark because of her charming little peccadillo.

Disinherits Own Wife.

"A further article of the will effectively disinherits the defendant's own wife. We see that the whole thing has broadened out to include all the members of Clark's family, his children, his adulterous wife, and himself.

"Truly, it can be said of this man that he is a great provider. But since the extent of the defendant's estate is not set out in the will or the declaration, it is impossible to say who gets the most, the plaintiff or his wife."

Attorney Reeve then charged that the circumstances as described by the amended declaration indicate connivance between Clark and his wife. He charged that the suit was against public policy and was shocking to public decency because it disinherited the defendant's own wife and settled his property on his paramour. The suit tends to promote two divorces, those of Harris and his wife and Clark and his wife, the lawyer charged. It shifts the responsibility of support for Clark's children from Clark's shoulders to those of Harris, and rewards Mrs. Clark's adultery, the lawyer asserted.

"On all these grounds this suit is shocking and revolting," declared Attorney Reeve. "Particularly so since in the declaration there is no mention of the fact that either Clark or Harris had left his wife. In law it is presumed that if no mention of such a fact is made, then there has been no change in the marital relationship."

Clark's Attorney Speaks.

Here Judge Caverly adjourned the hearing until the afternoon session, when Attorney Whitman made his arguments.

"From the defendant's point of view," said Attorney Whitman, "every alienation suit is an attempt by a man to sell his wife's relations and it is viewed as blackmail by the defendant. But, as a matter of fact, when a man comes into court for an alienation suit the horse has been stolen from the stable.

"A man has lost the coöperation of his wife in the maintenance of their home and, in the eyes of the law, damages are due him for that. If Mr. Reeve's contention is true, every alienation suit is against public policy, as he says this one is.

"The damages which are scorned are an effort by a husband to acquire the means whereby he can replace the loss of his wife in his own life and those of his children. This man Clark had been living in Madison for many years before this thing occurred. The scandal might well drive him out of that town.

Education of His Children.

"At this time the most vital thing to him is the education of his children. Perhaps he cannot supply this, when he is forced to make a fresh start somewhere else.

"Mr. Reeve refers to Clark's provisions for Mrs. Clark as against public policy. Those provisions are in Harris' will and are entirely separate from the agreement he had with Clark.

"When a woman has been branded as an adultress and sent out into the world the man who caused it, if he is big enough, usually provides for her, food for her stomach, clothes for her back.

"Mr. Reeve charges connivance. As a matter of fact he has the cart before the horse when he says that the unannounced arrival of Mr. Clark at his home shows that there was any agreement between Clark and his wife. If Clark's return had been announced and Mrs. Clark had allowed her lover to be there with his pajamas and his toothbrush, then, indeed, it would have been connivance. It's all perfectly simple. The man seduces a wife. He was caught and made a settlement of the alienation suit against him.

Attempts at Settlement.

"During the summer, I understand, the parties to this suit attempted to settle it out of court and, although the effort was abandoned, only $20,000 separated the offers of the two parties. Any settlement they might have made last summer when the suit was on file would have been no more valid than Clark's settlement in Madison."

"Counsel goes outside the record when he says that only $20,000 separated the two parties," replied Mr. Reeve. "As a matter of fact, this is true. In the midst of the negotiations Mr. Fisher, who was handling them for Mr. Clark, went to Europe."

Mr. Reeve referred to Attorney Thomas Hart Fisher, who filed Clark's original bill in the case, but later withdrew.

"That settlement would have thrown the Clarks back together again," continued Attorney Reeve. "The Clarks agreed to settle for money and get married again. We decided that you can't settle to a finality with people like that. I have here certified copies of proceedings in Reno showing that Mrs. Clark divorced her husband on a sworn bill charging cruelty a few months after the scene in Clark's home."

"What's become now of your carefully built up presumption that the Clarks are still married?" demanded Mr. Whitman.

"That vanishes now," replied Mr. Reeve.

Protests Inference.

"I want your honor to know," said Mr. Whitman, "that I had nothing to do with these negotiations nor did I know anything of them. I want to protest against Mr. Reeve's inference that I attempted to settle this case with him. His reference occurred when he said that I had served him with a copy of these ten amended counts earlier than was necessary when I noticed the case for trial. He implied that I was giving him time to read the counts and reach some sort of a settlement."

"I didn't intend that this morning, but it's exactly what I believe now," retorted Mr. Reeve. "But I don't intend any criticism of Mr. Whitman.

"I can't believe that Mr. Clark is a normal husband. A normal husband would have gone up there to Madison with fire in his eye. I think he went up to Madison with business on his mind when he was able to drive as hard a bargain as this one immediately after discovering his wife's paramour.

"I can't believe that it is best for these children that they grow up to young womanhood while being supported and their father supported by his wife's paramour."

SEA, AIR SERVICE FROM LONDON TO N. Y. IS PLANNED

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—C. H. Clendining, chairman of the Trans-Atlantic Corporation, Ltd., announced tonight preliminary investigations had been completed for a combined sea and air port scheme that would bring New York 36 hours nearer to London.

It is proposed to build a great deep water harbor and airport on Galway bay, West Ireland, and thence to run 30 knot liners to Halifax, N. S., the trans-Atlantic passage taking about three days.

Direct air services then would convey passengers and mails to the principal cities in Canada and the United States, and air service also would link London and the continent with Galway bay.

MRS. ROOSEVELT RACES STORK ON BORROWED CASH

Arrives Just After Son Is Born to Daughter-in-Law

New York, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President elect of the United States, borrowed $10 from a secret service man in Albany this morning and dashed for New York in a race with the stork which was delivering her fourth grandchild.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

She lost the race by minutes, but arrived in time to be among the first to congratulate her second son, Elliott Roosevelt, and her daughter-in-law, and to greet the newcomer, an eight pound boy.

Mother and Baby Doing Nicely.

Both mother and baby are doing nicely, Mrs. Roosevelt said.

For several weeks past, she added, there has been a standing order at the executive mansion that any long distance telephone calls for Mrs. Roosevelt be put through at once, regardless of the hour.

"The state trooper, on guard downstairs with the secret service man, called me at 2:45 this morning, Mrs. Roosevelt said. "There was a train leaving at 3:18. I told him to get a car around to take me to the station, went in, and told Franklin I was leaving, dressed, and caught the train.

Loses Race with Stork.

"I was downstairs, ready to leave, when I discovered I didn't have any money. I was afraid Franklin had gone back to sleep and I didn't want to bother him, so I said to the trooper and the secret service man:

"'Has either of you got $10?'

"They both went through their pockets. The secret service man gave me $10 and I caught the train.

"I got into New York at 6:30 and the doctor met me in the hall and said the baby was here. He's a beautiful little boy and everything is all right."

Butler Gets Surprise.

"A funny thing happened," she added. "At 8 o'clock I called the mansion, reversing the charges, to tell Franklin the baby was here. The butler, unaware of the fact that I had left, thought some one was trying to put something over on him and refused to accept the call."

Besides the new baby, the President elect and Mrs. Roosevelt have three other grandchildren, Anna Eleanor Dall, 5, and Curtis Roosevelt Dall, 2, children of Mrs. Curtis Dall, the former Eleanor Roosevelt, and little Sarah Delano Roosevelt, born last March, the daughter of James Roosevelt, the President elect's eldest son.

Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt is the former Miss Elizabeth Browning Donner, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Donner of Camp Woods, Villanova, Pa. She married Mr. Roosevelt on Jan. 16, 1932, at Bryn Mawr.

DIVORCES SURGEON

MRS. SUZANNE DELITCH. (Acme Photo.)

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Mrs Suzanne Emery-Holmes Delitch known as the "silver queen," was granted a divorce today from Dr. Tiodvan Novelkov Delitch, Serbian surgeon. She testified to several acts of alleged cruelty by her husband, and said he greatly embarrassed her on the evening of Dec. 1, 1930, when he arose in the audience at a lecture and called out abusive words to the lecturer. One of her corroborating witnesses was her gardener, Joseph Feldman. She is the heiress to a Utah silver mine fortune.

MOTHER OF BABY 12 DAYS OLD KILLS HERSELF IN HOME

While her infant son, born twelve days ago, slept in an adjoining room, Mrs. Ione Lindley, 23 years old, 7120 Hillsdale avenue, ended her life yesterday by slashing her wrists and then driving a knife into her chest.

Police were told that Mrs. Lindley's mind apparently was unbalanced as a result of the birth of her child. She attempted to commit suicide with gas on Wednesday, they learned.

Mrs. Lindley told Frank Williams, a roomer, that she was taking a nap yesterday afternoon, and asked him to arouse her if she had not awakened by supper time. Williams found her unconscious when he went to her room, and she died on the way to a hospital. Her husband, Paul, a street car employé, was at work at the time.

DETECT EFFORT TO TONE DOWN W. PARK AUDIT

Report to Citizens' Group Still a Secret.

Representatives of west park commissioners were reported yesterday to be making efforts to gain a modification of a report on the park board's finances which was described as "too hot to make public." The report followed an audit of the board's affairs ordered by the citizens' committee on public expenditures, which is working for economy in the local governments.

The report is being suppressed pending the return to the city of Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railroad, who is chairman of the citizens' committee. President W. R. James of the west park board has a copy of the report and, according to a reliable source, he is now cutting his pay rolls so that when the report is given to the public some of the evils mentioned will have been eliminated.

Say Report Covers Seven Years.

President James and other park commissioners are said to have asserted that the report, prepared by the auditing concern of George Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce, covers more time than their tenure of office. They have been in charge of the west parks for three years, while the report, according to their assertions, censures the management of the park system for the last seven years, including the commissioners who held sway when Small was governor. Appointment of the commissioners is a function of the governor.

In the efforts to have the report toned down the commissioners are said to be desirous of not being chargeable with whatever happened when the late John Dill Robertson was president of the park board. It is their contention that they found certain conditions existing when they took control of the board and that their actions were because of those conditions.

Double Tax Levy Shown.

A previous audit was made of the park board's books last June. In the report of this audit is an explanation of why taxes of approximately $120,000 were levied in 1931 [under the present board] for the same purpose for which a levy was made in 1927 [under the old board]. It reads:

"The bond and interest levy of 1927 fell short of the amount paid by $111,000 and the above amount ($120,000) was included in the 1931 tax levy."

Privately, it was said the old board used the bond money for pay roll purposes. The same statement is made concerning the present board, the audit report saying: "On June 25, 1931, the board authorized the loan of $50,000 to the general fund by the 1929 tax levy fund." And again there is the statement that highway improvement bonds were sold and the proceeds loaned to the general, or pay roll, fund.

Bonds Are in Default.

Another item in the report is that loans to the general fund on Feb. 29, 1932, had reached a total of $1,360,271, with interest of $36,210, and that these loans were from all funds, including the special assessment fund. A consequence was, the report shows, that on Dec. 31, 1931, special assessment bonds in the amount of $180,700 were in default. The board was also in default on $300,000 of other bonds, according to the audit report.

On Sept. 1, 1930 (under the present board) a bond issue of $2,000,000 was sold and the proceeds used to pay liabilities against the corporate fund, the auditors declared, and this was said to explain why the deficit on March 1, 1932, was only $2,036,596 as compared with a deficit of more than $4,300,000 for four previous years.

On the advice of the auditor the board dismissed several hundred employés. The report of the Rossetter audit is said to have advised President James to get rid of many more.

British Parliament Session Ends; King's Speech Read

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The first parliament of the national government was prorogued today and the second will meet on Tuesday to carry on the unfinished work. The king's speech from the throne, which was not read in person, was a dull recital of accomplishments of the national government in the last year. King George will go to Westminster on Tuesday to open the new parliament and to outline what his cabinet proposes to accomplish in the coming year. He will be accompanied by the queen and probably by the prince of Wales.

Cut Price Dairy Concern Sues Rivals; Charges "Milk Trust"

Charges that a "milk trust" is operating in Chicago were contained in a bill in equity filed in the federal District court yesterday by the Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., a Chicago concern which sells milk at 9 cents a quart. The suit seeks legal redress for alleged business restrictions imposed by the Pure Milk association, the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, No. 753, and 77 dairy concerns in the city.

ARTHUR ALBERT. [Wallinger Photo.]

The bill of complaint, filed by Attorney Arthur F. Albert of Cook & Albert, charges that the Pure Milk association refused to sell the Meadowmoor concern milk which would be retailed at a lower price than that sold by other dairies using the association's milk. The suit is brought under the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts.

Further charges are that dairy equipment concerns refused to sell the plaintiff supplies "because of the general conspiracy to destroy its business." Instances of violence inflicted on those doing business with the dairy company are alleged.

Prepare to Vote on Scale.

The suit was filed as officers of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union were preparing to call for a secret ballot of its members on a proposal of the dairy companies to cut the wage scale of drivers from $45 to $40 per week.

A turbulent special meeting of the union in Car Men's hall, Ashland boulevard and Van Buren street, was adjourned on Wednesday night without a poll when it became apparent that the pay cut proposal would be defeated.

Yesterday the union officers were placing the blame for the boisterous session on a group of members of an outlaw organization, the Chicago Teamsters' union. These men, it was charged, have been attempting to incite the membership of 7,000 drivers into attempts to throw out the present officers or give them "every possible resistance" in conducting the union's affairs.

Price Cut Awaits Wage Vote.

The teamsters' union is supplying drivers for the Meadowmoor concern, requiring each driver to pay $50 membership dues and other costs. Meadowmoor dairies is getting its milk supply from a dairy plant at Lyons, Wis., which also supplies two other Chicago companies, the Renz and Model dairies. While all three pay the same prices for their products, one is retailing milk at 9 cents a quart and the other two at 11 cents.

Dairy companies yesterday were awaiting the outcome of the secret ballot of the drivers before announcing the exact share the farmers and companies would assume in effecting a reduction of all milk prices to 9 cents a quart retail. The pay cut means a loss of more than $40,000 per week to the drivers, it was said.

HORNER ACCEPTS EMMERSON'S BID ON STATE BUDGET

Starts to Springfield for Conference Monday.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

French Lick, Ind., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Henry Horner, governor elect of Illinois, has accepted Gov. L. L. Emmerson's invitation to a conference on the biennial state budget and will go to Springfield for that purpose next Monday.

Gov. Emmerson extended the invitation in a cordial letter several days ago, and today the incumbent and the incoming official talked by telephone and completed the arrangements for the meeting.

Invited to Stay at Mansion.

In his letter the governor said that his department heads are completing their estimates of expenses for the two year period starting the first of next July, and knowing of the desire of the governor elect to reduce governmental costs to a minmum urged him to visit the capital and suggest such changes in the proposals which will be submitted to the new assembly as he deems advisable.

Gov. Emmerson, who included Mrs. Emmerson in extending the invitation, urged Judge Horner to stay at the executive mansion during his visit, but his guest is somewhat in a quandary on that point as it has been suggested that his presence at the mansion would lead either to a premature invasion of Democrats to see him or to the creation of an appearance of exclusiveness that has not been apparent in any way since his election.

Judge Horner also was given another question to pass on when newspaper men asked him what his attitude would be if Gov. Emmerson asked him to state his wishes in reference to the state tax rate which is to be fixed soon by a board consisting of the present governor, State Treasurer Barrett and State Auditor Nelson.

So far as the law is concerned the incoming governor has no voice in this matter, but it has been the custom in the past to consult the wishes of the winner in November and in some instances those wishes have determined the action of the board.

Favors Cut in Taxes.

"I have no information that the subject is to be brought up," he said, "and therefore I am not in a position to discuss it. But it is well known that I favor a reduction in taxes and that means a reduction in the tax rate."

He pointed out that the budget submitted by the present administration is subject to reductions in the assembly, that the real savings will be started there and will be continued by holding down expenditures from the appropriations, but that if the tax rate is fixed at a point higher than is necessary to produce the amount to be disbursed there would be no immediate relief for the taxpayers from the economy program.

It is probable that, while it is only coincidence, Mayor Cermak may be in Springfield during a part of Judge Horner's visit there. He said today that if his municipal duties permit he intends to go for at least one of the legislative days next week in order to urge action on the unemployment relief program.

"I am told," he said, "that there is indifference on the part of some legislators, and I hope to aid in convincing them of the extreme seriousness of the crisis."

Surprise was expressed here that this week developed opposition to the Meents bill and the county sales tax bill in the house of representatives. Both are county option bills.

COURT CONFIRMS TWO RUM CASES, REVERSES ONE

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday reversed the conviction of Frank Proust, a Clinton, Ia., garage owner, for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. Proust, who was sentenced to a year and a day in prison and fined $1,000, was one of sixty defendants in the mid-west liquor conspiracy case tried several months ago in the court of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. The Appellate court opinion held that the evidence was insufficient to connect Proust with the conspiracy.

The court affirmed the convictions of two other defendants in the case, Mike Meyers and his brother-in-law, Dave Dolf, both of Aurora. Meyers was sentenced to serve a year and a day and fined $3,000; Dolf was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $2,000.

BUSINESS MEN MEET BOYS THEY "BOUGHT" AT "Y"

A hundred or more business men met at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, yesterday to have luncheon with the boys they "bought" as an investment in the education of future business and professional men. The boys are all students of the Central Y. M. C. A. college.

The "buy a boy" movement was started among business men under the direction of Dr. F. H. Farrington, enlistment secretary of the schools. It was the outgrowth of an experience of Dr. Farrington, who once asked a prominent citizen to assist in helping boys continue their education who could not have done so without assistance. The man replied that he would "buy a worthy boy, sponsor his education, and welcome an opportunity to view this investment."

Many of the men attending the luncheon talked with their "investments" for the first time, and the boys responded by confiding their plans for the future. Among the business men were J. E. Callender, vice president of the Columbia Casualty company, and O. C. Brodhay, assistant vice president of the First National bank.

Argentina Reveals Text of Proposed Anti-War Pact

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentia, Nov. 17.—The foreign office today made public the text of Argentina's proposed South American anti-war pact, designed to fortify the Kellogg-Briand pact and other efforts to bring about peace. The pact requires all signatories to condemn any form of armed aggression. The agreement would create an international board of conciliation to which signatories would submit disputes which they were unable to solve among themselves.

LINCOLN'S TOWN OF NEW SALEM GIVEN NEW LIFE

Governor Lays Berry Store Corner Stone.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Salem, Ill., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—This old village, which housed Abraham Lincoln in the days of his young manhood a century ago, stirred with new life today. Its restoration as a state park, which eventually will contain reproductions of the twenty-five log cabins, stores and inns there when the Emancipator made it his home from 1831 to 1837, began, fittingly enough, when Gov. Emmerson laid the corner stone of the Berry & Lincoln store, the dramshop and tavern operated by Lincoln and William Berry in 1833.

The Town that Died.

The scene was a beautiful yet desolate hilltop above the Sangamon river, two miles from Petersburg. As a surveyor, Lincoln laid out that hamlet in the late 1830's and it must have been a good job. Petersburg is now the seat of Menard county with 2,300 persons. New Salem died, not long after Ann Rutledge was laid in her grave and Lincoln left to become a legislator at Vandalia, then the state capital. By the early forties New Salem's cabins were almost deserted.

So when the governor, most of his cabinet, and Dr. W. A. Evans of THE TRIBUNE, representing Governor Elect Horner, came for the corner stone laying in the winter dusk this afternoon, there was almost nothing left of the sprawling pioneer settlement. Dr. Evans is the author of a recent book about Mary Todd Lincoln and Mr. Horner has a notable Lincoln collection.

Hoover's Regrets Read.

There was word from President Hoover's secretary regretting that Mr. Hoover could not attend, and Dr. Evans read a message from Mr. Horner. In it he told Gov. Emmerson that he hoped "to pick up the same thread of your Lincoln effort and carry on with it."

Mr. Horner's message was interpreted as meaning that, if possible, he would see that the restoration continues. The state appropriated $50,000 for the project and this will complete 13 of the buildings on the 60 acre tract spreading over the hill and its slopes.

As Lincoln Knew Store.

The messages and some printed matter dealing with New Salem were placed in the corner stone by Gov. Emmerson. Above it will rise the crude 20 by 22 foot log building containing exact reproductions of the long counter where they say Lincoln stretched his gangling length to read a borrowed volume of Blackstone when business was slack, the shelves, and the great stone fireplace with its brick hearth.

Behind the business room will be the supply room and the lean-to braced against the outer back wall. The plank floor and the log joists and ceilings will go up when the walnut logs forming the outer wall have been put in place above a stone foundation. The Old Salem association intends that the store shall be a close a replica as can be devised.

The reproduction of the store lived, however, only on the architect's plans today. A large tent covered the snow filled hole which marks the store location. In one corner was the new corner stone. By another was a pile of large, smooth rocks. Some contend that these formed the original foundation, others are doubtful. However, they will be stacked in front of the completed building behind a brass identifying plaque.

Hard Days, Hard Liquor.

Legend, backed by history and Sangamon county documents, tells that the principal sales made by Lincoln and Berry in their emporium were wet goods—hard liquors. Potent beverages such as brandies, gin, whisky and rum were sold by the barrel, the jug or in single snorts from a big tin cup. Their price list is awesome for contemporary observers. It was made out by the Sangamon county commissioners in the tavern license granted Lincoln and Berry on March 6, 1833.

The New Salem storekeepers were allowed these rates for half pint portions: French brandy, 25 cents; Holland gin, 19 cents; domestic gin, 12 cents; wine, 25 cents; rum, 19 cents, and whisky, 12 cents.

Meals were 25 cents and lodging 12 cents, but it is not believed that Lincoln and Berry took care of many transients.

Across the street was the Rutledge tavern, operated by Ann's father. A reproduction stands in place of the original cabin which shows it to have been a crude two room affair, with a rickety ladder leading to the attic.

Adjacent on the west of the store is another snow filled hole. From it will rise a rival concern, the Hill McNamara store. Across the narrow lanelike street will stand the residence of Dr. John Allen and next to it that of Peter Lutkins.

Only Surviving Building.

About two city blocks to the westward of the store site is the only building left of the original settlement, Onstett's cooperage and barrel factory, and it has not stood there all of the last hundred years. More than fifty years ago it was taken down, carefully, and the logs and materials stored in Petersburg. A few years ago it was brought back and erected on its original site, which is now surrounded by a stout fence.

Here, says legend, Lincoln lay on the hearth of evenings, read borrowed books and studied surveying by the light of the wood fire. Others of the thirteen buildings which will be erected from the present appropriation include the residences of Martin Waddell, Dr. Francis Regnier, the Onstatts, Miller Kelso, Robert Johnson, and Sam Hill. The latter reproduction must carry a touch of pioneer swank, for Hill had a porch. Then there will be the Clary grocery and Denton Offutt's store. Lincoln worked there until he went into partnership with Berry.

In New Salem the martyred President was successively store clerk, proprietor, surveyor, postmaster, and state legislator. The town was started in 1828; it did not last long after Lincoln left it in '37.

There is a Lincoln museum not far from the store containing, among other relics, the piano played at his wedding and the auger he used to bore a hole in his flatboat—"to let the water out"—when it was stuck on New Salem dam. The museum, which is not a reproduction of any of the original buildings, looks down upon the Sangamon winding its tortuous course in the valley below.

It will not be many months until the village is remade into a lasting shrine. Two miles away in Petersburg, on another high hilltop, blanketed with snow today, lies Ann Rutledge in her grave.

NOVA SCOTIA RUM ACT'S LEGALITY IS UP TO HIGH COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TRURO, N. S., Nov. 17.—The constitutionality of the Nova Scotia liquor control act will be referred to the full bench of the Supreme court, composed of at least five judges, in January. This was decided in Halifax today.

Justice Humphrey Mellish of the Supreme court in a case yesterday said that he seriously questioned the constitutionality of the act and of all the liquor control acts of the different provinces of the Canadian dominion. He claimed that powers were given beyond the province of provincial legislatures because the acts authorized the crown to go into the liquor business and sell it at a profit.

Justice Mellish added that he considered this was an interference with trade and commerce, and that it enabled the crown to buy rum for 65 cents a gallon in Demerara, British Guiana, and retail it for $12 a gallon in this country. In this respect the judge said he thought it was radically different from a prohibition act that sought to stop the selling of liquor as a matter of local control.

FORMER BIG TEN TANK STAR KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

VICTORIA FALLS, Rhodesia, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The airplane Spirit of Fun, in which Arthur Loew, American film producer, has been touring the orient, crashed near here today. The pilot, Capt. James B. Dickson of Culver City, Cal., was killed and Mr. Loew and a companion, Joseph Rosenthal, were injured. The plane hit a tree as it was taking off.

Mr. Loew took the plane to Sydney, Australia, by steamer in October, flew across Australia, then to China and Egypt. He and his companion were on the way to Johannesburg when the ship crashed. Capt. Dickson had intended to try for the Cape Town to England record as soon as Mr. Loew's trip was over.

To be rid of a Cold

ABORT

(with lemon juice)

Often a cold that you thought all gone—comes back! That's because the remedy used does not drive the cold symptoms from your system. Try cold abortion and you'll find those stubborn colds broken-up and gone within a few hours. To abort a cold, squeeze two full-sized lemons in a glass of very hot water, to be taken preferably at bedtime. Two hours before, start taking a tablet of Pape's cold compound each hour. After the third tablet take the lemon juice and hot water without sugar, and go to bed, well-covered. Sound sleep will follow, and the cold will be aborted by morning. The lemon juice treatment never fails, but you must have the cold compound to clear the head, dry the nasal passages, and allays any fever. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound; it is perfectly safe, and a tablet will check a cold at any time.

FIND SEVEN LOOP PROPERTIES OWE $235,698 TAXES

2d Tribune Map Lists Unpaid Parcels.

Seven parcels of property, upon which no 1930 taxes have been paid, were found in the two square blocks surveyed and shown in the second of the series of maps presented by THE TRIBUNE this morning. A total of $235,698 taxes remain unpaid on these seven parcels.

The map shows the area bounded by State street on the west, Wacker drive and East South Water street on the north, Michigan avenue on the east, and Lake street on the south. The shaded areas show those parcels of property upon which the taxes have been paid partially or in full. The white areas reveal the properties upon whic hno taxes have been paid.

From Treasurer's Records.

The facts and figures given on the map and in this story were gathered from the county treasurer's tax books. The names given are those to whom the tax bills are addressed. These persons and corporations in many instances are merely the agents of or lessors to the persons who are actually liable for the bills. The records are as of Nov. 14.

Taxes totaling $175,586 remain unpaid on the Pure Oil building at Wacker drive and Wabash avenue, the records show. The Riverside Plaza corporation, 79 West Monroe street, is listed on the books as owner.

Other Unpaid Parcels.

The other six parcels of property found in the area upon which the 1930 taxes remain unpaid, according to the records, follow:

Tax bill sent to—	Amount owed.
Ill. Merchants Trust Co., now Cont. Ill. Bank and Trust Co.	$10,141
J. W. Grace and Ursula Lavender, 2306 N. Clark-st.	15,029
Hambleton Realty Trust Co., 111 W. Washington-st.	11,453
No owner listed	5,313
Cont. Ill. Bank and Trust Co.	4,015

In the square block bounded by Wabash avenue, East South Water street, Michigan avenue, and Lake street the following taxpayers had paid the following amounts upon parcels of property in the block:

Chicago Title and Trust Co., Tr., property at S. E. cor. South Water and Wabash	$50,098	$50,098

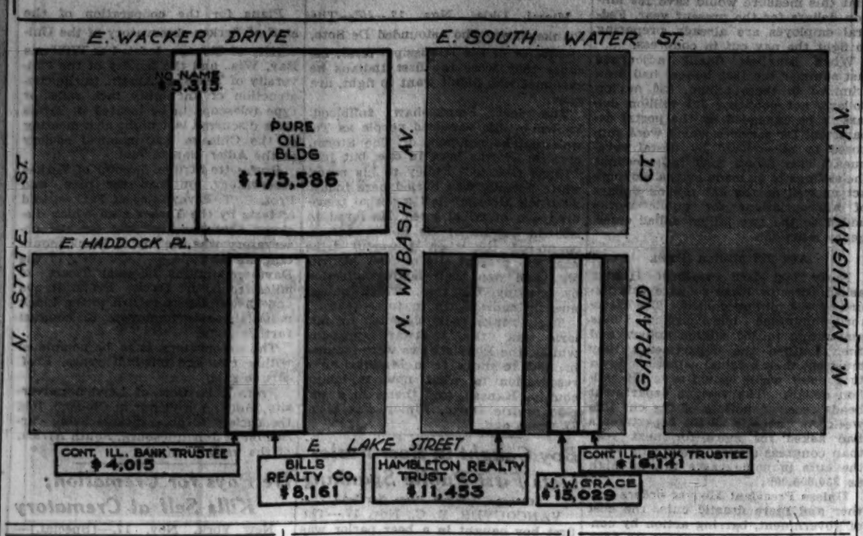
On many of the pieces of property upon which only partial payments have been made objections have been filed in court, asserting that the taxes are excessive.



GRAND RAPIDS PLAN TO RELIEVE IDLE ABANDONED

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 17.—(AP)—The so-called "Grand Rapids Plan" for relief of the idle was scrapped today by the city commission.

The latter voted to abandon the use o. scrip in paying workers on municipal projects and to close the municipal store which redeemed the scrip. Hereafter city workers will be given cash, and cash also will be given to persons on the welfare rolls for whom no work can be found.

In the place of the municipal store there will be several smaller "commissaries," but those receiving relief will be under no obligation to trade with them.

The commission estimates $200,000 will be saved in overhead expenses by abandoning the plan which received national publicity and was adopted by many cities.

Fire Attacks Englewood Building; Loss $20,000

Fire attacked a two story building at 6656 South Halsted street this morning, wrecking the first floor quarters of the Marquette Drug company, Inc., and doing approximately $20,000 damages. The dental offices of Dr. John A. Kirchen on the second floor were also wrecked and a barber shop on the ground floor was damaged. Chief Howard Andrews of the 12th battalion said that the fire was probably caused by spontaneous combustion.

APPEAL TO R. F. C. TO RUSH LOAN TO SANITARY BOARD

Sabath, Rothman Hope to Remove Snags.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—New efforts to speed action on the Chicago sanitary district's application for a 36 million dollar loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation were begun today by Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] and William Rothman, attorney for the district.

Mr. Sabath and Mr. Rothman held a lengthy conference with officials of the finance corporation's legal department, in an effort to iron out certain difficulties which are understood to have arisen in connection with the sanitary district's loan request.

Formal application for the 36 million dollar advance was filed by Mr. Rothman on Sept. 16. Since then it has been under the scrutiny of the finance corporation's engineering and legal experts, who must pass on the legality of all loans sought from the corporation.

Build Three Disposal Plants.

The 36 millions sought by the sanitary district would be used to construct three sewage disposal stations in the Chicago river, which were ordered built by the Supreme court of the United States in the lake diversion case.

Prior to today's conference officials of the finance corporation have intimated that the sanitary district loan would not be granted on the ground that the sewage disposal stations would not be "self-liquidating projects," under the meaning of the relief law. Mr. Rothman said, on leaving the corporation, however, that he believed the sanitary district would be able to meet the objections of the corporation in this regard. He declined, however, to say when final action on the application will be taken by the board of directors of the federal loan agency.

Meanwhile today the corporation granted emergency relief funds to six states, in aggregate amount of $1,042,925. The day's advances brought to $70,257,968 the total thus far advanced by the corporation from its 300 million dollar fund for direct relief to states and municipalities.

The six states receiving loans were: Michigan, $225,000; North Dakota, $50,680; Washington, $190,000; West Virginia, $213,891; Alabama, $123,774, and Virginia, $239,580.

Each of the states has received previous relief loans from the finance corporation. Including today's advances, they have obtained the following total amounts:

Autoist Shot When Car Blocks Escape of Bandits

Leonard Baer, 22 years old, 7200 South Shore drive, was shot in the arm yesterday because he was slow in getting his automobile out of the way of the car of two robbers fleeing from a holdup. Baer unwittingly parked his car in front of that of the bandits before the store of Ben Lichtenstein, 4757 North Kedzie avenue. The bandits, after taking 30 suits and 15 overcoats from Lichtenstein, ran to their car. One of them ordered Baer to move him. When he disregarded the order, he was shot.

MAY DISCONTINUE FAIR.

Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—With a large deficit facing the county from this year's county fair there is strong indication that it will be abandoned until economic conditions improve, and possibly forever.

STOCK EXCHANGE AND PIT MEMBERS SUE J. L. JACOBS

Seek to Prevent Assessment of Memberships.

Injunction suits to restrain County Assessor J. L. Jacobs from assessing as personal property the memberships in the Chicago Board of Trade, the Chicago Stock Exchange, and Chicago owned memberships in the New York Stock Exchange were filed in the Circuit court yesterday. The plaintiffs were a group of members of each exchange.

Three separate suits were filed. In each it was asserted that the memberships "are not 'property' within the meaning of the constitution and revenue laws of Illinois." The suits declared that the memberships are "personal privileges."

The bills also alleged that "many club memberships and memberships in other exchanges owned by Cook county residents on April 1, 1931, for which their owners paid considerable sums of money" were not being assessed as personalty by the assessor. It was charged that only the three exchanges were being assessed.

List Assessment Figures.

The bills stated that the New York Stock Exchange memberships were to be assessed at $111,000 each, the Chicago Stock Exchange at $7,400 each, and the Board of Trade at $4,875 each.

The suits for the two stock exchanges were filed by the law firm of Scott, MacLeish & Falk. That of the Board of Trade was filed by the firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin. All three of the petitions were assigned to Judge William V. Brothers for hearing within the next two days.

Mr. Jacobs last evening said that he welcomed the suits, since they would settle the question of taxing exchange memberships in this state.

During the day Assessor Jacobs announced that his deputies had discovered "rafts" of personal property which had been omitted from the 1931 rolls by local township assessors. Most of the discoveries had come through rechecks of protested assessments, or through complaints to him by neighbors of those who escaped the earlier assessment efforts of his office. More than 40 such cases were discovered in Kenilworth alone, he said.

Will Include Penalty.

He said that the new assessments would include a 50 per cent penalty for failure to return a schedule. The assessor said that his men had recommended an increase in the personalty assessments of a number of suburban factories. One of these is the G. A. Ackerman Paper Mills at 54th avenue and 14th street, Cicero. The original assessment was $347 and this has been increased to $73,124 assessed valuation.

Members of the board of appeals yesterday announced that only 3 per cent of the assessments made in the country towns had been complained against at their office.

Thousands of Mexicans in U. S. Returning Home

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Mexican consuls in the United States have advised the foreign office that the stream of Mexican repatriates from the United States is increasing as winter sets in. Three hundred Mexicans from Detroit arrived at Nuevo Laredo this week and the consular information is that the volume will swell to thousands weekly before the end of November.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get plain, ordinary liquid Arvon from any drug store (it won't cost you more than thirty-five cents), apply it at night when retiring: use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

NOW! EASE SORE THROAT INSTANTLY!

All Pain, Soreness, Rawness Relieved In A Few Minutes

These Pictures Tell You What To Do

. . . Proves Only Medicine Helps A Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes.

Results are among the most extraordinary in medical science. On doctors' advice, millions are following this way . . . discarding old-time "washes" and "antiseptics." For it has been found that only medicine can help a sore throat.

Simple To Do. All you do is crush and dissolve three BAYER Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water. Gargle with it twice—as pictured above. If you have any indication of a cold—before gargling take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water. This is to combat any signs of cold that have gone into your system. Keep on taking if cold has a "hold." For Genuine Bayer Aspirin will not harm you. Your doctor will tell you, it does not depress the heart. Get a box of 12 or a bottle of 100 at any drug store.

Reduces Infection, Eases Pain Instantly. Gargling with Bayer Aspirin will do three things: Relieve soreness at once. Allay inflammation. AND —reduce infection; which is the important thing in fighting a sore throat.

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN—to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways. Results are quick and amazing.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles. Watch this when you buy.

ROOSEVELT AND HOOVER TO TALK DEBTS TUESDAY

effort, the unimportant $19,000,000 which falls due on Dec. 15. She still has visions of driving us off the gold standard and as again shown at Lausanne recently is ever ready to embarrass the United States.

Would Hold Them in Default.

"If the ten principal European nations cannot jointly pay us the insignificant sum of $125,641,693 on Dec. 15, then we should hold them in default until they do pay.

"The present European gesture for cancellation is the result of long and careful negotiations to unload the war costs upon the shoulders of the already overburdened American taxpayer. It is a deliberate and well planned attack upon the American financial structure. It is another step toward wrecking our gold standard policy. Cancellation would not help our export trade with Europe or would it alter the buying power of European citizens."

ROOSEVELT TO TAKE AID

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The President elect went through his usual sparring match with the press this afternoon, and although the reporters were avid to know just what the President elect said to the President when he telephoned Mr. Hoover shortly after noon, Mr. Roosevelt shook his head and uttered a negative sound.

But he did reveal that he plans to take only one man along with him when he enters the White House for his war debts conference with the President at four o'clock next Tuesday afternoon.

This man, said the President elect, will be Raymond D. Moley, head of the "brains trust" which served Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign. Mr. Moley, a professor at Columbia university, keeps posted on the economic issues of the nation and of the world, and has become the leading fact finder for Mr. Roosevelt in the latter's preparation for public utterances.

Hasn't Asked Him Yet.

"I haven't asked him yet," Mr. Roosevelt said, "but I think probably I will have Raymond Moley go with me."

As to how long his conference with the President will last, or what he will have to say, the governor was noncommittal, but it is regarded as fairly well established now that Mr. Roosevelt will decline to commit himself on the debts issue, and will insist that the responsibility for whatever action may be taken at this time rests with President Hoover and the congress. The President elect is satisfied, it is reported, that congress will refuse to order any extension of the debt moratorium, and he expects that when he takes office, on March 4, he will have a free hand to use the debts issue as a foil in his program for general settlement of all the economic relations between the United States and Europe.

Gov. Roosevelt plans to spend Saturday evening, all day Sunday, and most of Monday at his home in Hyde Park on the Hudson. He will be in New York Monday night, and will leave early Tuesday for Washington, arriving in the capital about half past three.

Thanksgiving in Georgia.

The governor is determined to have his Thanksgiving dinner at Warm Springs, Ga., his winter home, which will call for his departure from Washington either Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

With these affairs of national import out of the way, so far as the day's press conference was concerned, Mr. Roosevelt relaxed and for the next half hour or so he jested with his interviewers.

"How's it feel to be a grandfather again?" some one asked, referring to the birth, early this morning, of the governor's fourth grandchild, an eight pound boy, the first born of Mrs. Betty Donner Roosevelt, wife of Mr. Roosevelt's second son, Elliott.

The governor waved his right hand gayly, as though he were waving a flag, and remarked that things were "all square" now, with his having two apiece of grandsons and granddaughters.

Then, while Mr. Roosevelt kept discreetly silent, his press representative, Marvin I. McIntyre, revealed that a considerable ruckus had been caused in the governor's mansion, which is all the fault of Chicago's city sealer, Joe Grein.

When the family got up this morning there was an odor hanging over every room of the mansion which defied explanation.

After various suggestions had been run down and proven fruitless, the governor summoned his butler, Harry Whitehead.

"Whitehead," he asked, "what causes the smell in the house?"

The butler unconsciously lifted his nose a bit as he replied:

"Why, sir, if you'll pardon my saying so, sir, it's that huge barrel of sauerkraut in the basement, sir."

There is some indecision as to what shall be done with the half a ton of sauerkraut, the gift of City Sealer Grein to the governor.

HOOVER'S CAMPAIGN COST ABOUT $2,000,000; $400,000 FOR RADIO

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The Republican national committee's unsuccessful campaign to reelect President Hoover cost nearly $2,000,000, Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer, made known today after a talk with Mr. Hoover.

"Bills are still coming in, but I am confident the total will not exceed $2,000,000," he said. "I think it will be nearer $1,900,000. The collections so far have reached only $1,800,000, leaving us a deficit of between $100,000 and $200,000."

The total bill for campaign use of the radio was about $400,000. Asked if the committee felt that expenditure was warranted, Mr. Nutt replied:

"Well, of course, we were disappointed in the outcome of the campaign, but whether it was due to the radio or not I cannot say."

CUT RATE CABS GET PERMIT TILL COUNCIL ACTS

The Public Taxi Service company, which operates its taxicabs at rates lower than those of the Yellow and Checker Cab companies, will be allowed to continue operation of the 22 cabs which it now has in service, Lieut. James Killackey of the vehicle bureau agreed yesterday.

The company, after a long controversy with the public vehicle license commission, of which Lieut. Killackey is secretary, was given permission to operate 11 cabs after Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] and other members of the city council intervened. The permission to operate was temporary, pending action of the council on a general revision of the taxicab ordinance.

Recently the company's business has increased, Ald. Bowler was informed yesterday, and it has put 11 more cabs on duty. Lieut. Killackey ordered it to cease using the additional cabs. He agreed yesterday, following a conference with Ald. Bowler, that the company shall operate all 22 cabs, half to be used only for answering calls to the garages of the company, and the other half to be permitted to pick up passengers on the street, as well.

This practice is to be continued until the council settles the taxicab question, it was agreed.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go.

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches, and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. ©1932 C. M. Co.

EXPECT HOOVER TO URGE SLASH OF 150 MILLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The national budget to be sent to congress by President Hoover in December probably will not call for any radical cuts in the cost of government over funds being spent during the current year, it became known today as a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee began hearings on the first of the large appropriations measure. Indications today were that the White House will not recommend to congress cuts of more than 150 million dollars.

The President in his message to congress is expected to recommend changes in the law which would open the way for saving millions of dollars annually through reducing the disbursements of the veterans' administration and through curtailing other government activities. The President also will make certain recommendations looking toward consolidation of certain government agencies. Budget Director J. Clawson Roop is now at work on this phase of the President's economy program.

Veterans' Aid May Be Cut.

Just how much of a slash in veterans' appropriations will be recommended by President Hoover is not known definitely, although there are many indications he will not urge reductions anyway near as large as the 400 million dollar cuts advocated by the United States Chamber of Commerce and national economy organizations.

The bureau of the budget is recommending to the house subcommittee that all provisions of last year's economy act be continued for another year. The act's provisions include an 8 1-3 per cent pay cut. It was estimated that this measure would save 150 million dollars for the present year. Federal employes are already preparing to fight the pay cut in congress.

When congress finally adjourned last summer the 1933 budget had been trimmed to three billion, 836 million dollars, not counting 725 million dollars to be expended by the postal department for services which were supposed to be covered by postal revenues. This figure took into account the savings to be made by the economy act as well as the 322 million dollars of appropriations for public works added to the two billion dollar emergency relief act.

Ask 500 Million Slash.

Early last fall President Hoover asked Director Roop to pare this figure by 500 million dollars. The director eliminated non ecurring items amounting to 350 million dollars and then notified the departments they must cut their original estimates down to a point which would save 150 million dollars. The various department heads received notices of the cut this week. As virtually all the departments had asked for more for next year than congress allowed them this year, the cuts in some cases ran as high as $30,000,000.

Unless President Hoover orders further and more drastic cuts, the cost of government, barring action by congress, will continue at about its present rate. Apprehension is being shown by government officials over reports that new drastic reductions are to be made by the senate and house. At present the government is spending money about twice as fast as it is taking it in. The deficit over four and a half months is above 709 million dollars.

RAIDS ON BREWERY WITHOUT WARRANTS; U. S. LOSES ITS CASE

New York, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—For the third time in more than two years the federal government lost its case against the $1,500,000 Phoenix Cereal company brewery today, when United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter ruled that the prohibition agents making the raid on the Tenth avenue brewery in May, 1931, entered the premises without search warrants or probable cause.

Commissioner Cotter's ruling supported the contention of attorneys for the cereal company that odor of beer which the agents claimed prompted their raid was insufficient to warrant legal seizure. He held that odors similar to the odor of beer emanated from many products which were legally manufactured. He added that the agents should have submitted their information in support of a search warrant rather than raiding immediately.

INDIANS REFUSING TO FIGHT LOSE LAST OF TRIBE

Miami, Okla., Nov. 17.—(AP)—The Piankeshaws, who astounded De Soto, discoverer of the Mississippi river, because they were the first Indians he ever met who didn't want to fight, are gone.

The last Piankeshaw fullblood, known by his vanished people as Tewah-guah-ke-mon-goh, or The Storm, because he was born in one, but just "Uncle George" Finley to his many white friends, was buried here today.

"Uncle George" left a verbal treasure-trove of tribal lore. He loved to tell the legend of De Soto, who encountered the then powerful tribe near the present site of New Madrid, Mo., and won their lasting affection by praying for rain, which subsequently came down in torrents.

Their ranks sadly depleted by malaria and the westward pressing whites, the Piankeshaws were induced in 1853 to move from Missouri to a reservation in what now is Miami county, Kansas, and there, in a terrific prairie storm, Finley was born, 77 years ago.

Boy Caught in Beer Parlor Gets First Public Spanking

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 17.—The first boy caught in a beer parlor was publicly spanked today under Attorney General Pooley's new form of punishment for such offenses. "These lads," said the public spanker, "are typical drug store cowboys, who go about without hats and have permanent waves in their hair. We are transferring the waves elsewhere with excellent results."

TELL OF SEARCH FOR SITE FOR NEW U. C. OBSERVATORY

Plans for the cooperation of the staff of Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, located at Williams Bay, Wis., and the faculty of the University of Texas, at Austin, in the construction of an eighty inch reflector type telescope to be located in Texas were discussed last night at a meeting of the Chicago Astronomical society at the Adler planetarium.

Prof. Otto Struve, director of Yerkes observatory, outlined the plan, and Prof. C. T. Elvey, also of Yerkes, told of tests by the Yerkes staff which disclosed that the best site for the observatory was the top of Black mountain, an altitude of 7,500 feet, in the Davis mountains in west Texas, 20 miles from Fort Davis. Profs. Struve and Elvey plan to return to the Black mountain site tomorrow to conduct further tests.

The observatory is to be completed within two and one-half years, Prof. Struve said.

Prof. J. H. Oort of Leyden university, Holland, a visitor in Chicago, told the society of observations being carried on at Johannesburg, South Africa, of the variable stars.

Phillips 66

On cold days Start like a shot ... and no fooling!

"HIGHEST TEST" at the price of ordinary gasoline

When an ad yells in fat black type that "Science says the so-and-so gasoline is the best"...

When testing laboratory reports are published which try to prove that the company paying for the tests has the only quality gasoline...

When charts are printed to convince drivers that they are foolish and wasting money unless they buy some one gasoline and no other...

Then there is only one comment which experienced motorists can make: "OH, YEAH?"

* * *

In our opinion, there are a number of good gasolines on the market. The products of the reputable refiners will all give good service. If the claims are just a bit strong and laid on rather heavy, remember that these are days of fierce competition in the gasoline industry.

The hard-boiled driver, the man from Missouri, and his wife who won't believe a word in the ads—we understand and appreciate exactly how they feel.

Their way of getting the truth about a motor fuel is to put it up to the motor. They try the gas. And if performance is improved, if special benefits develop—then they know their own minds and stick to the gasoline that delivers most for their money.

More than 7,400,000 experienced drivers have already switched to Phillips 66 ... the greater gasoline. And as the days grow colder, there will be at least a million more.

They will want that split-second starting in freezing weather, which loyal Phillips users are so proud of. They will demand all the other high test advantages so generously delivered by this amazing new motor fuel: quick warm-up ... added power ... smoother running ... longer mileage.

Because of the marvelous things they have heard about it from their friends, they will expect something unusual and different in Phillips 66. And they will not be disappointed, because Phillips pioneered the principle of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY, which adjusts the "test" of the gasoline not merely to the season but to your weather, week by week and day by day.

They will not be disappointed, because Phillips 66 is made by the world's largest producer of natural high gravity gasoline. That is why its high test costs you nothing extra.

The colder the day on which you try your first tankful, the more impressed you will be by the tremendous winter advantages of "highest test" Phillips 66 gasoline.

But why take our word for it! Put it up to your motor. It plays no favorites. Phill-up with Phillips 66 tomorrow, at the Orange and Black 66 shield.

CHARGE U. S. AIDS CUT PRICE WAR AGAINST FARMS

Dairy Project Assailed in Shannon Quiz.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Charges that dairy farmers of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Michigan are victims of a "cut throat price war" financed by federal farm board loans made to the Land o' Lakes Creameries, Inc., of Minneapolis with a view of setting up a governmental monopoly, were placed before the Shannon congressional committee yesterday.

Testimony that a "vertical trust" in dairy products is being set up under government subsidy was presented by Porter R. Leach of the Federation of American Business. He declared that the Land o' Lakes Creameries has invaded seven different lines of industries, and that as one of its activities it is selling ice cream machinery, while as a side line it carries golf balls.

Schilling Former Director.

Mr. Leach said the Land o' Lakes Creameries, with a capital of $725,000, has borrowed a total of $8,500,000 from the farm board funds, of which it still owes $3,271,000, at less than 2 per cent interest. He brought out that W. F. Schilling, a member of the farm board, is a former director of the creamery concern.

The onslaught on the methods of the farm board was sandwiched into a long hearing on waterways in which several witnesses accused the railroads of trying to apply "cut throat" rail rates between river ports with a view to driving water carriers from the inland waterways.

"The dairying industry of the midwest," said Mr. Porter in reading his brief, "faces unfair competition financed by the government. Thousands of farm homes look to the cash income from dairying for their maintenance this winter.

Fears Effect on Milk Prices.

"Yet, in the great consuming centers such as Chicago, Detroit, and Philadelphia and elsewhere, a price cutting crusade seems to have been launched by the big Minnesota farm board coöperative, known as Land o' Lakes Creameries, Inc. Not only will the price cutting plans of this subsidized unit affect butter prices, but also will seriously disrupt prices paid farmers for milk. And milk is the chief crop of large sections of Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Pennsylvania.

"The Minnesota farm board group sells the butter output of about half the coöperative creameries of Minnesota, and of scattered creameries in Wisconsin and North Dakota.

"Recently it purchased the American Butter and Cheese company, an old Detroit concern; established a butter plant, a Chicago cold storage house, and a branch in Philadelphia, and obtained a fleet of trucks. It has since slashed butter prices from one cent to three cents under standard market prices, by a system of rebating, in an effort to snatch these markets. This Minnesota concern has access to millions of the taxpayers' dollars dispensed by the federal farm board.

Ask Why U. S. Lends.

"Naturally, the question arises as to why the farm board should advance millions to one group of Minnesota farmers for a cut throat campaign against other farmers. It would be difficult for W. F. Schilling, a former director of the Lake o' Lakes company and now dairy member of the federal farm board, to justify the unfair competition offered to other farmers who are operating without subsidy.

"The financial statement of the big Minnesota coöperative shows it has accumulated some $900,000 in U. S. treasury certificates, receiving from the government a far higher return on this investment than it is paying the government for borrowed operating funds."

The expansion from the butter and milk business into ice cream machinery and golf balls, was taken up by Mr. Leach.

Manufacturers Defended.

"The sporting goods people," he said, "call attention to the fact that this Minnesota dairy coöperative now sells golf balls. It has also circularized druggists and retailers of ice cream, pointing out what they claimed were the immense profits of ice cream manufacturers and asserting these profits could be saved by the purchase of machinery from Land o' Lakes for the manufacture of ice cream at the retail stores. This, in spite of the fact that manufacturers are threatened with bankruptcy from low incomes. This was unfair governmental competition, not only with the ice cream manufacturers, but also with the makers of ice cream machinery.

"We are informed this subsidized coöperative places these freezers without one cent payment down, and that a surcharge of 25 cents a gallon on the 'mix' used for making the ice cream is charged by Land o' Lakes and credited to the purchase of the machine. That private manufacturers could extend no such credit is evident.

Deprive Banks of Loans.

"It is equally obvious that grocers and druggists wishing to go into the ice cream business and not having the cash would have to borrow from the banks if Land o' Lakes were not enabled, by use of farm board money, to extend such credit.

"To summarize, we find this one governmentally subsidized group competing with the dairy farmers, the creameries, the dairy concerns, the ice cream manufacturers, the makers of creamery, dairy, and ice cream supplies, and machinery, with the banks, the ice business, and with the sporting goods industry."

"What do they do for the farmer?" asked Congressman Samuel B. Pettingill of South Bend, Ind.

"They seem to be doing plenty to the farmer," said Mr. Leach.

Among the complaints by the Federation of American Business was one that rural mail carriers are being told to solicit farmers along their routes with a view of increasing sales of eggs, poultry, and other products direct to the consumer via parcel post.

Solicit Mail Shipments.

"The third assistant postmaster general," said Congressman Robert F. Rich of Woolrich, Pa., "has a man named Harrington out in the country drumming up that kind of parcel post business to put the tax paying express companies out of business."

"And," commented Congressman William H. Stafford of Milwaukee, "to increase the parcel post business simply increases the postoffice deficit, for it is recognized that the parcel post is one great cause of the postal deficit."

The saving in transportation charges which the opening of the Illinois waterway, now almost completed, will mean to producers and shippers of the middle west, was discussed by several witnesses representing the Mississippi Valley association, and the history of inland water routes was delved into almost back to the days of Marquette and Joliet.

Barge Operator Testifies.

Among the chief witnesses was Andrew P. Calhoun, vice president of the American Barge Line company, which operates on the Ohio and Mississippi between Pittsburgh and New Orleans. The company has eight boats and eighty barges, and its operations were taken as an indication of the promise held to shippers by the lakes to gulf route when the Illinois waterway is thrown open.

"The Ohio river," said Mr. Calhoun, "has been opened only a short time and as yet has not a 9 foot year round channel. On account of this the companies operating on it are still in their pioneering stage.

"In spite of this our company, with an investment of $2,500,000, in 1931 saved the shippers using its service in excess of a million dollars in freight rates, as compared with rail rates.

"The company has a depreciation reserve of $450,000, it earned 10 per cent on its investment, and it paid in taxes the equivalent of 5 cents per ton on freight it transported."

Protest Rail Rate Cuts.

Protests against the cutting of port to port rates on the river by the railroads were made by Mr. Calhoun. He said private water carriers are afraid to invest in boats and barges if the railroads reduce their rates on lines parallel to the waterway.

"If this is permitted, it would not be difficult for the railroads to drive the water carriers from the river. Once this was done they could put their rates back up, and the shipping public would be deprived of cheap water transportation.

"We object to a reduction of the rail rates on cotton from Memphis to New Orleans from 75 cents to 25 cents. Either 75 cents is unreasonably high for the rails or 25 cents is too low. To reduce from 75 to 25 cents sinks all your barges."

W. C. Eastland, editor, and L. J. Schuster, auditor, of the Clinton, Ia., Herald, appeared before the committee with a denial of the imputations made by Halleck W. Seaman of Clinton of the publication of subsidized railroads articles against the waterway.

Nine Foreign Vessels at Dock in South Haven, Mich.

South Haven, Mich., is claiming the distinction of being the busiest foreign port on the great lakes, with nine foreign ships tied up at its docks at one time. This picture shows the ships unloading. The first foreign ship visited the port in 1925, and since then 72 have unloaded their cargoes there.

CURTAIN RUNG DOWN ON FAMOUS NEW YORK VAUDEVILLE HOUSE

New York, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—There was sadness among what the actors call the main stem today, for the curtain has fallen nine die on "big time" vaudeville.

The Palace theater, goal of the novice and pride of the star, has played its last "bill" and given up to the movies, thus going the way of its sisters on the once mighty circuit of entertainment that stretched from coast to coast, from Canada to the Rio Grande.

For twenty years it was the apex of the "big time," the pace setter, the show place for showmen. Hoofers boasted with chests thrown out that they had been booked for the Palace, and booking there was a final stamp of authoritative approval that none ventured to deny. Singers and jugglers, acrobats and freaks were no less proud when the Palace called.

Along Broadway, where a familiar phrase was "Catch my act at the Palace," men were saying, "I told you so." The pessimism about the place began the first of this year, when it dropped its traditional policy of two a day vaudeville in favor of continuous performances, with motion pictures added.

The management of the place said vaudeville had become too expensive to continue with a depression on.

POLICE TRAP 4 THEFT SUSPECTS AND WOUND ONE

One alleged automobile thief was shot and his three companions were captured at 517 Englewood avenue last night when they returned to a flat in which Policemen Thomas O'Donnell, Edward Quinn, and Maurice Mahoney of the Hyde Park station were waiting.

Earlier in the day the detectives had arrested three other members of the alleged auto theft gang, who confessed that they usually met at the Englewood avenue flat.

The detectives were in the flat about three hours before the other four boys appeared. One of them tried to get away, but Policeman O'Donnell shot him in the left thigh. The others surrendered. At the Bridewell hospital the wounded youth identified himself as George Jurkus, 18 years old.

SHORT SESSION UNLIKELY TO O. K. SEAWAY TREATY

Eastern Men Oppose Pact Before Senate Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Ratification of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty at the coming short session of congress became a distinct improbability today as fresh witnesses laid down a new barrage of arguments against joint construction of the project by the United States and Canada.

Even proponents of the treaty in the senate said indications now were that it would be impossible to push the pact through the senate during the present period of depression.

Spokesmen for New York City and Philadelphia today lined up these communities with the other groups which have fought the St. Lawrence project before the foreign relations subcommittee now investigating the treaty. They declared that construction of the seaway now would place such a heavy burden upon taxpayers that its construction was "unthinkable."

Demands Defeat for Treaty.

One of the eastern witnesses asserted that the treaty should be defeated because it proposed to internationalize Lake Michigan by giving Canada jurisdiction over the amount of water which is diverted at Chicago for use in the lakes to the gulf waterway.

During the four days of the senate hearing virtually all the first class transportation interests of the nation have aligned themselves against the St. Lawrence treaty. New York and lakes interests which fought the Chicago diversion in the courts now are fighting the proposal to spend between 500 million and a billion dollars in connecting the great lakes and the sea by a 27 foot waterway.

Thus far every important shipping and port interest on the Atlantic seaboard has opposed the project. The Great Lakes Carriers' association, embracing the major lake shipping interests, has opposed the treaty.

Witness Draws Walsh's Fire.

W. H. Chandler, manager of the traffic bureau of the Merchants' Association of New York, drew fire from Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem. Mont]. on several occasions during the presentation of the arguments put forth by his organization. He asserted that construction of the seaway would impose upon American citizens an "insupportable tax burden, peril existing transportation, and benefit Canada rather than the United States."

"In reaching a decision on the advisability of ratifying this treaty the senate should get its facts from responsible and experienced steamship operators rather than from propagandists," Chandler asserted.

"Do you think the department of commerce was misguided in its statement of possible savings?" demanded Chairman William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho], referring to the department's statement that many cents a bushel would be saved on grain shipped through the improved St. Lawrence.

"I am inclined to think," retorted Chandler, "that the department of commerce was greatly prejudiced.

Calls Savings Exaggerated.

"The alleged savings," he continued, "which have been held out as a bait to western shippers to get their support of this project are drawn from thin air. They have never been supported by any one familiar with the transportation rates. Statements of saving, generally speaking, and statements included in the propaganda favoring this enterprise have been put out largely by promoters or pseudo-economists who were intent upon proving what they wanted to prove. No steamship operator has ever made the statement that any such savings could be effected by the used of ocean vessels on the great lakes."

"Are we to give to our northern neighbor a right to say what shall and what shall not be done with a body of water that lies wholly within the United States?" Chandler demanded.

"The treaty proposes to limit the amount of water for the Chicago drainage canal—the waterway connecting Chicago with the gulf—so as, in our opinion, severely to handicap that territory in reaching an ocean outlet through the territory of the United States."

Asked by Senator Walsh if he did not believe Canada had some rights in the lakes, Chandler retorted:

"Lake Michigan is ours. We ought to have the right to drain it if necessary to keep open the canal to the gulf."

"You are proposing the idea of a bully," snapped Senator Walsh.

Other witnesses included Joseph Wood, president of the Lake Carriers' association; George A. Marr, vice president of the carriers, and Philip H. Gadaden, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, and representatives of numerous other Philadelphia organizations.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

LENIENCY FOR AUTO THIEVES.

The stealing of an automobile is not only a loss to the owner but to every other owner. The increase of this crime resulted last year in raising the insurance rate about 35 per cent. It is said a further increase is being considered. In justification it will be pointed out that motor thefts have been increasing. In August and September there appeared a trend toward improvement. The operating director of the crime commission reports to its president that results in October are disappointing and show a failure to hold the ground gained.

Col. Chamberlin repeats his opinion that extreme leniency on the part of judges is responsible for the prevalence and increase of this crime. He says "because approximately 75 per cent of the defendants are in the adolescent age the attitude has been one of sympathy for the offender and the fact overlooked that the type of adolescents who steal automobiles is not that of the mischievous schoolboy who is merely to be reprimanded for a minor infraction. These persons are of distinct and definite criminal tendencies and because of their youthful irresponsibility are more dangerous to the community than the old time criminal."

This truth is notorious and should be respected by our judges. Our records of violent crimes fully demonstrate the gravity of adolescent criminality, and it is a false humanitarianism which practices a leniency that deprives youth of the restraint of adequate punishment.

It does not follow from the fact that mere severity of penalties is not a complete answer to crime that adequate penalties are without effect. Society has a complicated problem in the prevention and suppression of crime and well considered measures to improve the environmental and moral conditions surrounding youth are essential to a satisfactory solution. But recognition of the value of such measures should not blind us to the importance of punishment as a deterrent. On this point we suggest our magistrates ponder the remarks of Sir Henry Dickens, son of the great novelist, who, after fifteen years as judge of the Central Criminal court in London, says that "as matters stand at present it is essential that sentences should be exemplary and effective enough to meet the new forms of crime which confront us and in which the young take an active part." He comments upon the increase of brutal crimes and recommends the use of the cat or birch for young men guilty of such crimes as blackmail, holdups, "smash and grab," or breaking and entering even where no violence is used. As Judge Dickens is praised for "modeling his conduct upon Dickensian principals, which have done so much for progress, humanity, and liberty," his view cannot be disparaged as that of a "hanging judge."

At any rate, judicial leniency is, in our opinion, a weakness of our protection from crime, which urgently calls for correction. It is the result, we think, of an excessive sensitiveness to an assumed public sentiment or sentimentality and would cease if public opinion were brought to bear. The pressure actually effective is that of a very small minority of mistaken humanitarians who ignore the rights of the innocent to the protection of law. In the case of motor thefts it would seem time that the millions of motor owners assert their right to better protection from the courts. The widespread stealing of automobiles is not merely an economic loss to all owners but an adjunct of the most serious crime. It is not mere boyish mischievousness, save in exceptional cases which any right minded magistrate can discern. It is in the main a preliminary schooling in more serious crime and should be so treated by all magistrates.

CENSORSHIP OF FOREIGN NEWS.

A review of history of fifteen years of soviet government in Russia by the correspondent of a New York newspaper is a significant document. It reveals what happens to a reporter in Red Russia and is proof of the effectiveness of the censorship. It gives a picture of the communist experiment which the Kremlin could and of course did approve.

This is the price paid for being allowed to remain in Russia. It is a price THE TRIBUNE, the London Times and some other newspapers have refused to pay. We have refused to print doctored reports and preferred to get such information as is available in spite of censorship. The Russian government has recently tried to silence THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent at Riga and other correspondents at that place who were telling too much about conditions under the soviet. Correspondents who have been in Russia and insist upon sending out frank reports have to leave sooner or later, and usually sooner. Those who remain yield to discipline and give to their readers only such matter as the soviet rulers are willing to let out. So far as these correspondents are concerned the censorship is more than a success. Complete silence would be sinister, but censored reports have the appearance of news and thus the reporters became the agents of soviet publicity.

It is our policy to refuse to cooperate with foreign governments at the expense of our readers. THE TRIBUNE will not submit to a system of censorship, although it recognizes the right to control publicity in dangerous crises. This has nothing to do, however, with a continuing suppression or control of the publicity, and wherever this is imposed THE TRIBUNE prefers to take its men out. We refuse, for the sake of appearances or merely to have what purports to be news from a foreign country in our pages, to accept the responsibility for helping any régime to give an official portrait of itself. There are a good many governments in the present disordered condition of the world that cannot afford to have their story told, but THE TRIBUNE prefers to do its best to tell all it can learn of them in spite of the censor rather than exchange its freedom for official tolerance.

BUILDING THE CITY.

The fine new home of the Chicago Historical society has just been opened to the public. Its Georgian dignity adds a new feature of beauty to Lincoln park and the situation is convenient. Within, the treasures of the Historical society are well disposed and there is room for expansion.

President Pike and his associates are to be congratulated upon this achievement, which in most difficult times is a striking expression of intelligent civic spirit and foresight. A great city ought to respect its past. It cannot understand its own character unless it does so. It cannot be a city in the high sense in which the great centers of human life have been cities unless it remembers.

Chicago, although so young, has already a history which has touched the imagination of the world, and we owe it to ourselves as citizens proud of our citizenship to cherish the city's story and the memory of its struggles and triumphs as well as that of the men and women who lived and wrought for its progress. Out of this memory and this consciousness of its heritage a community creates personality, civil character, and unity of purpose; creates, in short, something stronger and higher than a mere aggregation of people and individual activities, becomes a city in the sense of which nations and the race are proud.

It is natural in so young a community which has grown so rapidly, inundated with a stream of newcomers, that respect for forerunners and past events has been slight. But it is growing and there is nothing more gratifying in our recent history than the increasing interest in our past, as shown not only by the progress of the Historical society but by other manifestations such as the resistance to changes in old street names, the preservation and marking of historic places, and such efforts to revive the quality of past manners and personalities as the play "When Chicago Was Young" now being presented at the Goodman theater in the immediate interest of the Olivet institute. It is significant that more and more we look back to the romantic and dramatic scenes of Chicago's story, and it is well worth while. It is a heroic story, as Miss Tarbell has just reminded us. "The most dramatic contrast I ever saw," she said after visiting the Century of Progress, "was on the lake front of Chicago. There stands an exact replica of old Fort Dearborn, the wooden stockade from which the garrison went out one day early last century in obedience to injudicious orders and were massacred by the Indians. And rising high behind this small stockade that once was Chicago are some of the most beautiful city buildings in the world. The contrast is amazing, dramatic. Out of the brutality, the grasping, the greediness, the arrogance, violence and ignorance of years beauty has come—a real beauty, fitting a country such as this one that is alive, courageous, growing. There is something in us working to express us, and it will win over the depression and everything else."

The pace is fast in our Chicago, but it should not be permitted to cheat us of perspective. We tend to take our world for granted and to give no thought to the sacrifice, the self-discipline, the courage, patience, and unconquerable energy which laid its foundations and created its towering structure. To think of these is to understand what we have. We cannot know what Chicago is unless we know how it came to be. We cannot keep what we have unless we know what it has cost. Only from the roots of the past come the flower and fruitage of the future.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY.

IV. Concerning Credits.

The waterway will link eastern to western Canada as it will not link eastern to western United States. It will provide a connection from Fort William on the west to Montreal, Quebec, and the lower St. Lawrence on the east, and in so doing will touch all the big centers of population and industry in Canada east of the Rockies. If a parallel advantage were to be obtained by the United States we would have a waterway extending directly back from New York and Philadelphia to Duluth.

Though the waterway will, therefore, be of greater value to Canada, presumably, than to this country, the costs will be equally divided. Canada will be given, for example, full credit for the costs of the Welland canal, although that canal was justified for its own sake and for its own values in Canadian economic life, precisely as the works at the Sault were built not with a view to the eventual opening of the St. Lawrence but simply for their present values. Without the Welland canal Canada could not ship grain in large bottoms from Fort William to Toronto and other points on Lake Ontario. It is a nice point whether the United States could not have driven a better bargain if this fact had been stressed.

OVERLOOKING THE AMATEUR.

[Beloit Daily News.]

Football and bridge seem to be two games that can never stay put. The rules in each pastime have a way of changing from year to year, and today neither game is very much like what it was 25 years ago; and in each case there is a suspicion that some of the changes, at least, were designed to benefit the teachers of the game rather than the players.

A few decades ago there was a card game called whist, and a very good game it was. Then it turned into bridge, and a little later it became auction bridge. Then it became contract bridge and now contract itself is evolving; and what the whole thing will be 10 years from now no man can tell.

All of this, very likely, is fine stuff for the expert; but what of the ordinary player, who plays occasionally for diversion but who doesn't quite care to make the game his life work? A few more changes and he is apt to give up in disgust and go back to poker, or pinochle, or something.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MR. J. GARNER, the w. k. Vice President elect, has just returned from a hunting trip in Texas with an eight point buck deer which he killed with his unerring rifle. (Note to students in the schools of journalism: A man who brings down any kind of game with a gun is always spoken of as having an "unerring rifle.") Which suggests a brilliant idea. Mr. Garner's great scheme of presenting everybody in the U. S. A. with a postoffice having proved somewhat unfeasible, why not have him keep on shooting eight point buck deer so that in time every unemployed man would receive an eight point buck deer? Eight point buck deer are much better than postoffices, because you can eat an eight point buck deer and tan its hide for shoes. And who ever heard of eating a postoffice and tanning its hide for shoes? Oh, the very idea! But, as the number of unemployed is quite large at present, Mr. Garner would be so busy bringing down eight point buck deer that it would keep him away from Washington and out of government affairs. Well, we've thought of that, too.

GARDEN LORE.

He who plants a garden,
Of blowing daffodils,
Of violets and tulips
And seas of bright blue squills;
Who claims as friends the pansies
The roses and the phlox,
The larkspur and the lilies
And sleepy four o'clocks,—
Whose garden spreads a fragrance
Beyond his life's small span,—
O, he who plants a garden
Has been a friend to man.

And he who loves a garden's
Prim walks and shadows cool;
Who sees another Heaven
Within the lilied pool,—
Who knows that in the foxglove
A fairy lives at ease,—
Who understands the murmur
Of evening in the trees;—
Whose passion flames eternal
For bloom and grass and clod,
O, he who loves a garden
Has closely walked with God.

JEANNE OLDFIELD POTTER.

TAKING A TIP from Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., who, in speaking of the war debts owed us by England, France, and the rest of 'em, said they are "perfectly just, but impossible," we acted at once. We took all the latest bills from our tailor, our butcher, and our groceryman and wrote at the bottom, "Perfectly just, but impossible." Then we mailed the bills back. So now we expect the butcher, the tailor, and the groceryman will say no more about the matter. Oh, certainly not! And yet—at times there comes a lingering doubt.

Dearie, We'll Do Our Darndest.

Sir: Pax! Don't you worry your head about whether the postage on the Linebook is two cents or three. That's our business. What your business is nowanights is to see that there are enough of them for us to pay the postage on. Please remember how embarrassed you were last year when the Linebooks sold out in less than three weeks and nobody could get one for love nor money. Don't let THAT happen again! (Although it won't bother me if they do. I've already got my order in for twice as many as I got last year and a blue eyed cherub down at 1 South Dearborn has promised by book and candle to have 'em wrapped up and ready for me the day it comes out.) Did you put Hermann Hagedorn's "Crisis" in? If you did the Linebook will sell out in less than two weeks this year. Or ought to. BARNABAS' CHLOE.

PLEA FOR TENDERNESS.

YOU who can make
The soft ferns grow,
Even in flint rock,
Please impart
YOUR breath to man,
So he may know
Pity can find

ROSA ZAGNONI MARINONI.

SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN give forth frequent and glowing prognostications on what is going to happen in the next session to the sacred 18th, but the greatest proof came yesterday when Max the Millionaire Bootlegger spoke to us in Rush street. "Not a thing, Max," said we, firmly; "we're going to wait until it's legal." "I hain't selling nothin' these days," said Max; "what I was a-goin' ter say was——" "No," said we, "no Scotch, no champagne, no Canadian rye, no——" "You got me all wrong," said Max as he tapped his patent leather shoes nervously with his malacca cane; "what I was a tryin' to say is, can you let me have five bucks until Sat'rdy?"

MINOR COMMENT.

The party of Demos has won a great victory,
Bang the gay field piece and twang the lush lyre;
The "ins" have been routed, the "outs" are about to be Made the "ins"—now begins, as when one faction wins, Cleansing entire.

Watch the developments; mark how the common guy
Profits by change—note his happiness now;
His is a great estate, sovereign, empirical,
Never hysterical, enfranchised, free, lyrical,
And how!

A CONVALESCENT HOME.

THE writer has recently visited two institutions that should be duplicated many times over. One was a hospital to care for cases of contagion that develop among the children on dairy farms. To this hospital the mother takes the sick child and gives it all the services needed except those of a physician.

The care of sick children in such a hospital is much better than that given at home. There are few fatalities, not many complications, the spread of disease is stopped, the farm products go to market every day as usual, and the expense of the illness is trivial.

The second institution was one in which persons with chronic organic disease can be cared for during several weeks or months in which adjustments are being made. Most of the service this hospital renders is to those with organic heart disease.

A person with organic heart disease is subject to periodic breaks in compensation. The proper treatment is prescribed rest. The prescription should cover details. Such rest cannot be carried out in the average home. Convalescent homes for heart cases suffering from temporary breaks in compensation are very much needed. They can be justified from the economic standpoint as well as from the medical, domestic, and emotional.

If a person can be kept quiet for several weeks or months at small expense and, by so doing, be put in condition to go back to work, or to take up the duties of a housewife, the cost is justified. When such institutions are available persons with organic heart conditions can nurse themselves along, going to the hospital for a few months at intervals, and get from five to ten more productive years out of life than would be possible otherwise.

This is a how-to-live-with service and there are many hundreds of thousands who have chronic disorders from which they will not fully recover, but which have not much tendency to terminate life. Many of these thousands could live in reasonable comfort, taking care of their jobs and supporting their families, if they could somehow and somewhere learn how to live with their maladies. Institutions of this type help them in this and, at the same time, offer assistance during the periodic breakdowns which almost inevitably occur.

The great field for such an institution is in caring for persons with organic heart disease. But there are other fields for its services. There are many who have nervous hearts, rapid, intermittent, and irritable pulses, who could be stabilized by just such a service. Some goiter cases require operation, and others require little or nothing out of the ordinary, but there are many thousands in between and a large part of these would be benefited by periods of bed care in such an institution.

Another large group to whom such service would be a godsend are those with minor mental and emotional disorders, in which there are periodic flare-ups. Many with Bright's disease and dropsy could be patched up and put back on a working basis. Both diabetes and pernicious anemia are conditions in which a periodic check-up is advisable.

HALLUCINATIONS.

Mrs. E. M. writes: An 86 year old woman has been totally blind for five years and for three years confined to her bed. She is also almost deaf. About once a month she has visions that last from one to three days. People and objects appear before her and, although she acts perfectly insane when she talks about the things she sees, she seems sensible about anything else. After she has these visions she is very nervous and weak.

REPLY.

She has hallucinations. In some persons these are more significant than in others.

MIGHT CHANGE DIET.

E. Z. writes: I am troubled with bad breath and, as my teeth and mouth are in perfect condition, I am at a loss to determine the cause. Would a nervous stomach be the cause? What should I do to get relief?

REPLY:

The chances are more than nine out of ten that the cause is your diet or your digestive apparatus. There is an outside chance that you have ozena or plugs in your tonsils.

The probability is that you need to change your diet, to overcome constipation, or to make some other changes in the field of digestion, absorption, assimilation, and excretion.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

SEWERS NEEDED.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—I live at the block of 109th street and Troy and we have no sewers in our streets, but open ditches in which the waste runs. The street is thickly populated and there is a private sewer in each house running into this open ditch. Please inform me what can be done about this. F. M. N.

For some time the board of local improvements has had proceedings under way for constructing a system of outlet or trunk sewers in the territory included in the former village of Mount Greenwood. It will be necessary to construct this main system before building the local sewers in South Troy street which will discharge into this main outlet system. Because of the general financial and industrial situation the proceedings for the outlet system have not been developed to the contract or construction stage.

If the residents in this neighborhood now wish to have the main sewer proceedings advanced to an early completion, it might be advisable to inform the board of local improvements of their attitude by presenting a petition to that effect.

ASSIGNMENT OF WAGES.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought some jewelry about a year ago on credit and have been paying on same from time to time whenever I work. The firm I am employed by has received a notice of "assignment of wages." It has no official court order stamp on it, just their company seal. I am only working a day or two a week. 1. Must the assignment be a court order? 2. Am I forced to pay the fee for the cost of the assignment that is added on to the original amount? 3. If I pay them some every week or so will the assignment still hold good? H. M. W.

1. Depends on whether you signed an assignment of wages.
2. Not unless you so agreed.
3. No payment of less than the full amount due will protect you.

DIVORCE.

Clear Lake, Wis., Nov. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife is going to sue me for divorce in Illinois. I live in Wisconsin. 1. How will I be notified that she is suing me? 2. Will her lawyer write me or how will they let me know? She knows where I am living. M. E. D.

1. Presumably by publication and mailing.
2. The mailing would come from the clerk of the court.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 18, 1916.

LONDON.—A successful raid was made on Ostend and Zeebrugge this morning by British naval airplanes and seaplanes, says an admiralty announcement. Many bombs were dropped with good results on docks and shipping, the announcement adds, and all the machines returned safely.

LONDON.—Both wings of Gen. Sarrail's army in Macedonia are still forging ahead. The Serbs and French, closing in on Monastir, the Bulgar stronghold, won positions forming part of the inner defenses. The Serbs, who are led by their crown prince, are pushing ahead near Grunishte, on the right bank of the Cerna, and in the bend of the river Serbian infantry have carried a crest of the Selechka range, north of Iven. The French announced today the storming of the Yarashpk monastery, which the Serbs announced yesterday. In eastern Macedonia the British have taken the village of Barakli. They are pushing closer to Demirhissar and the Rupel defile, the entrance to Bulgaria. On the Transylvania front the armies of the central empires continue their successes against the Rumanians.

ROME.—In the Trentino there was an intermittent artillery action and a movement of enemy troops in the Adige valley. On the Julian front the enemy's artillery was particularly active in the Plava sector. On San Marco, east of Goritz, heavy fighting continued yesterday. Three determined Austrian attacks against the salient of Two Pines House under the cover of darkness were repulsed successfully. The enemy only succeeded in taking a trench southeast of Two Pines House.

LONDON.—Another attack along the Ancre yesterday netted further gains for the British. The war office statement says: "A strong enemy counter attack forced us to relinquish part of the ground east of Butte de Warlencourt, won several days ago. We carried out successful raids on enemy trenches northeast of Wulverghem, taking prisoners and inflicting considerable losses."

BERLIN.—Seven ammunition steamers recently were blown up in the harbor of Archangel, according to a Russian newspaper published in Archangel, says the Overseas News Agency, quoting the paper as saying: "This evening Archangel was terrified by an appalling noise. It seemed that the whole port was aflame. Seven ammunition steamers which had arrived in the morning were blown up. The explosion was so enormous that iron fragments of ships fell 700 yards away. The port for several minutes resembled a burning volcano. The damage done is estimated at millions of rubles. [Further facts were deleted by Russian censor.]

NEW LONDON, Conn.—A collision with a convoying tug, the T. A. Scott Jr., caused the German merchant submarine Deutschland to abandon its return voyage to Germany. The tug was sunk with the loss of five men. Survivors who would discuss the matter were agreed that the accident was due to the darkness and to a combination of swift currents, which carried the tug off its course and across the bow of the submarine. The Deutschland's return will be delayed only a short time by the damages which it sustained.

A DANGEROUS CROSSING.

Berwyn, Ill., Nov. 16. — How much longer must the River road crossing in Des Plaines remain without adequate protection?

After reading in today's paper of another dreadful tragedy at this crossing, in which four men were killed and three injured, making a total of seven killed and four injured at this same crossing since the tragedy of Aug. 13, three months ago, in which my husband and brother were killed, I am wondering how much longer this needless loss of life must go on. Isn't it time now that the people of Des Plaines and the Chicago and North Western railroad coöperate with motorists who must take this dangerous crossing by providing safety measures? To the innocent victims and their families I extend my sympathies.

MRS. LOUISE ABBOTT ROLFE.

THE RIGHT TO ALMS.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—I should like in connection with your editorial of Nov. 9 entitled "The Right to Alms" to call your attention to three considerations which render untenable the position you take.

1. The invention of steam and the mechanization of industry render it substantially impossible for the individual workingman to decide at what price he will work, exactly what the nature of his work will be, and, as a matter of fact, whether or not he will work at all.

2. The discovery of the germ theory has made it a matter of common knowledge that the individual cannot protect himself against infection and the results of infection are often depleted physiological conditions rather than acute or fatal maladies.

3. The third consideration is that so far as the community has enacted what are known as pauper or poor laws it has definitely recognized the right of every individual to be protected from starvation and undue exposure and has laid the burden of administering aid to those in need upon the public authorities. This principle was embodied in English legislation by the great poor law of Elizabeth in 1601, was copied in Pennsylvania, and in 1819 was enacted by the first Illinois legislature, so that it is not correct to say that the resident of the community is devoid of a right to relief. The only consideration is, under what circumstances, by what agencies, and in what form this aid can be most efficiently rendered.

I say nothing about the ungenerous tone of the editorial nor about what seemed to me may very well be disastrous consequences in bitter resentment on the part of those who, being able to work and looking for work, are unable to find work and feel themselves the victims of a social order quite beyond their control. I wish only to call your attention to these three considerations to which the writer of the editorial had evidently given less than adequate attention. S. P. BRECKINRIDGE.

POLISH TERRITORY.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—In your edition of last Sunday, in the article "Allies' Barrage on Debt Ignores Land Won in War," you implied that Poland has in her boundaries a part of Germany as well as Austria-Hungary. It is a historical fact that over a thousand years ago the Poles lived among the forests and morasses of the upper waters of the Oder and Vistula and in 1333 acquired also the greater part of Red Russia, or Galicia, having at that time the city of Krakow as her capital and one of the wealthiest cities of Europe.

Unfortunately in the year 1772 the three empires of Russia, Prussia, and Austria determined to seize part of Poland's territory and succeeded by taking about one-fourth of her territory. In 1793 the second partition of Poland was carried out between the three empires, when Poland was reduced to one-third of her original dimensions, and in 1796 the third partition followed and Poland finally ceased to exist. By the congress of Vienna, 1813, Poland was redivided between Prussia, Russia, and Austria. Posen and Gnesen were given to Prussia, Galicia went to Austria, while the rest of Poland, then known as the Congress Kingdom, was incorporated with Russia. In 1848 the last vestige of Polish freedom was crushed out when Austria occupied the republic of Krakow.

In November, 1918, Gen. Pilsudski became the chief of state and a new republic of Poland was formed. Poland as now constituted is made up of three separate parts—Russian, German, and Austrian Poland. The German part is known as Posen, Austrian Poland is known as Galicia, and Russian Poland is known as the Central Poland, the Lithuanian district, and the White Russian district.

Poland, therefore, did not get a part of either Germany or Austria-Hungary. Poland got back what rightfully belonged to her for centuries—her own land—yet not all, for much of it is still under different governments.

LEG WORK.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—I marched in the parade Oct. 31 and carried one end of a Socialist—not 'a communist—banner, so I have been much interested in your editorials and letters in the Voice of the People. I have had over three years of graduate training at the University of Chicago, which is doing rather well for one of six year mentality. I defy any one in the United States to produce an older American genealogy, so deportation might produce difficulties. I know something of hundreds of my partners in this same parade. They have received and are worthy of receiving salaries in four and five figures. They are not morons, nor lazy, nor inefficient. They are the inevitable results of the rapidly decaying capitalistic system. Had all those eligible been in that parade, it would have been at least thirty-five times as long. Those who are clinging by their teeth to the edges of this crumbling mass of civilization have reason to fear such a demonstration. INA M. WHITE.

PUPILS UNITE TO FIGHT POLITICS IN HIGH SCHOOL

Charge Appointees Boost Food Prices.

Hundreds of students of the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero took their lunches to class with them yesterday, thereby inaugurating a boycott against the school cafeteria.

The boycott was urged in handbills passed out by thirty students early Wednesday. A dozen grievances were cited in the circulars and the general tenor of them all was that politics was ruining the high school. Political appointees, it was charged, now operate the cafeteria and as a result the price of food to students has gone up.

Boy Defies Questioners.

School authorities began an inquiry to discover the individuals who inspired the boycott and were still investigating last night. They questioned one of the student handbill distributors, Thomas Batell, 16 years old, of 1218 Wesley avenue, Berwyn. He defied them.

The handbill was lettered in red and black. It opened with a demand as to what the students planned to do about the dismissal several months ago of Evelyn Olston, former manager of the cafeteria. She was fired, it was charged, to give a board member's friend her job.

Protest "Roadhouse Prices."

"Now we are getting poor food and watered, unpasteurized milk at roadhouse prices," the circular charges.

Continuing, the handbill asserts that many students who had been working their way through school have been dismissed so that their jobs could go to political appointees. Another charge is that the students are "now being pushed around like prisoners at Joliet" by nearly fifty men and women, appointed by the school board as "house dicks." The situation is so ragging the nerves of teachers, the handbill relates, that their work has suffered.

Raise Medicine Price.

Another allegation is that two nurses were fired recently because they sold a certain foot medicine to students for 10 cents. The two have been replaced by four others and a doctor, it is charged, and the same medicine is now to be obtained by prescription for 25 cents at the drug store of Edward Stuchlik, a board member.

As to the cafeteria, the handbill asserts that it now employs fifty-five persons—who are paid in cash. Under the régime of Miss Olston only twenty persons were employed. Teachers already are boycotting the restaurant, it is asserted. The handbill declares that the Morton high school is about to be "removed from the accredited list of high schools because of lower standards resulting from political interference."

SALES MANAGER FOUND DEAD.

Patrick Arnew, 60 years old, sales manager of the Gateway Securities company, 1061 East 70th street, was found dead yesterday in the company office. Police expressed the belief that he had died of a heart attack. He lived at the Crest hotel, 6790 Stony Island avenue.

Kiwanis Council Meets to Plan Year's Activities

Seventy-five members of the council of Kiwanis International opened a three day meeting at the Medinah Athletic club yesterday. Carl E. Endicott of Huntington, Ind., is president. It was indicated at the meeting that the clubs will interest themselves during the next year chiefly in relief of the idle, aid for under privileged children, citizenship work, and in promoting better understanding between rural and urban residents.

WELFARE FUND TEAMS REPORT GIFTS OF $111,016

Contributions totaling $111,016 were announced at a luncheon of workers in the public campaign of the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook County, Inc., at the La Salle hotel yesterday, bringing the total of donations to the $7,500,000 fund to date to $2,130,458. The fund is to be used for welfare work other than the relief of the idle.

Large donations announced at the meeting were $10,000 each from the Chicago Title and Trust company, Marsh & McLennan, The Fair, and the General American Tank Car company, and $7,500 from Joseph T. Ryerson & Sons company. R. Douglas Stuart, president of the fund, and Joseph T. Ryerson, director of the public campaign, spoke at the meeting.

The standing of various trade divisions as to the percentage of their quotas raised were announced as follows: Real estate, 87 per cent, $82,960; transportation, 70 per cent, $140,200; public utilities, 56 per cent, $337,237; accountants and business services, 53 per cent, $58,860, and engineers, 51 per cent, $30,550.

The workers will meet at the La Salle for luncheon again on Monday to report further donations.

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—George E. Barstow Jr., 60 year old stock broker and member of a family of social leaders, died of a heart attack today while playing golf with a friend, Austin J. Smith. He leaves a widow, two daughters, Mrs. Stephen Whitney Blodgett and Mrs. Jerome Pillow Long Jr., and a son, George E. Barstow III.

BARE FAKE NAME GIVEN BY WOMAN FINED IN CRASH

Investigation by Lincoln park police yesterday revealed that the woman who gave her name as Mary Cruise, 29 years old, 3431 Elaine place, when arrested early Wednesday after an automobile crash, is Marian Alberts, formerly of Davenport, Ia., and now living at 3431 Elaine place. Miss Alberts was seized with Clark L. Rorick, 34 years old, 1044 Winona avenue, when their automobile crashed into a safety island at Diversey parkway and Halsted street. She told police that she was the private secretary of Secretary of State William J. Stratton and threatened to "get their jobs."

Miss Alberts was fined $25 Wednesday afternoon by Judge Joseph Graber, who sentenced Rorick to 90 days in the Bridewell for driving while intoxicated. Rorick was allowed 10 days to perfect an appeal.

Capt. James U. Sammis of the Lincoln park police investigated the matter yesterday on request of Miss Rose M. Cruise, 3423 Elaine place, who was employed in the office of the secretary of state when Louis L. Emmerson held the position. He reported that Miss Alberts had given the name of Cruise to shield her identity and changed his records to read that the woman arrested was Marian Alberts, Alias Shannon, alias Cruise.

Beware the Cough or Cold That Hangs On

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

DISARM PARLEY WARNS GERMANS TO COME BACK

Veiled Threat Contained in Offer of Equality.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 17.—Something intended to sound like a last call was issued to Germany by the disarmament conference today.

Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon of Great Britain offered Germany the equality status she demands as a condition to her return. Whereupon the conference steering committee exhorted, wheedled, and in a sense threatened the absent nation to come back. For it is apparent that the big delegations here feel that enough concessions have been made as a result of Germany's stand and for her benefit they now are intimating that they could go ahead without her.

Asks Parley to Speed Up.

It was Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate, who said it would be to Germany's interest to return in a speech summoning the conference to speed up. He talked in the warmest southern drawl, but his words sounded like an alarm clock.

"We must not lose sight," he said, "that this conference was called for the express purpose of reducing and placing a limit on armaments."

He recalled that the conference had been going on for ten months and enumerated the principles agreed upon and asked that the actual drafting of a treaty embody them. Davis linked armaments with the depression and, as every one was breathless lest he draw a corollary between disarmament and war debts, they more or less assumed that he had.

"The success of the international economic conference will largely depend on the success of the disarmament conference and the world cannot wait much longer for this success," he said.

Calls for a Halt.

The American delegate added that in spite of the central powers having been disarmed more money is being spent on arms than before the war.

"The time has come not only to call a halt but to make substantial reductions," he concluded. "We are not going to pull very far out of this depression unless we reduce armaments and make a genuine success of this conference."

Sir John, in expanding the British views on disarmament, showed how the allies are morally pledged to disarm and that nobody, not even the French, could deny Germany the principle of equality of rights. He recounted that the French plan, proposing a militia for Germany, started the Versailles treaty revision ball rolling.

The equality angles of the British proposal include pledging faith anew to the Kellogg treaty outlawing war, limiting Germany's and all other nations' armaments on the same basis, while at the same time protecting the Versailles treaties. The restrictions on German arms would be contained only in the same convention which limits the arms of all other powers.

DANZIG PROTESTS POLISH MOVE TO BAR ITS MONEY

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

DANZIG, Nov. 17.—A high official of the Polish ministry of transportation arrived in Danzig today to prepare for the introduction of Polish currency for payments in the railroad system of the free city. All parties in the diet have pledged their assistance to the government in its protest against this move. Protest massmeetings were held and will continue tomorrow and the peace between Danzig and Poland is once more disturbed.

Several weeks ago Poland announced its intention of excluding Danzig guiden for payments in the railroad system. The free city immediately placed the case before the league of nations council which is to consider it in the session beginning next Monday. Poland should have awaited the decision before taking any steps to realize her plan, it is felt in official circles here.

The Versailles treaty gave Danzig the right to use its own currency, which since then has been one of the strongest in the world—it is covered nearly 100 per cent by gold and has been recognized by Poland. The Polish government in 1923 concluded a pact with the free city, stating an obligation on the part of the Polish management of the railroads to accept Danzig guiden within the territory of the free city. The present plan of Poland to exclude guiden would be a violation of this pact in the opinion of the Danzig government.

Joliet Inmates to Eat Fowl, but No Turkeys

The Thanksgiving day dinners of the 4,000 convicts at Joliet penitentiary will include chickens, ducks and geese raised on the prison's honor farm. Warden Frank D. Whipp said it was time to get rid of excess stock in the poultry yards. There will be no turkeys nor cranberries on the menu, as these are not produced on the farm. Entertainment programs will be given at both the Joliet and Stateville prisons following the Thanksgiving dinners.

SALESMAN LOST IN TEXAS; START MURDER INQUIRY

James Brody, 29 years old, of Whiting, Ind., a salesman for the North West Cone company of 3600 South Morgan street, has been missing since Oct. 29 and the police yesterday were investigating a theory that he had been murdered in Texas.

Before leaving in early October for a business trip to the southwest, Brody drew $2,400 from a bank. Daily messages were received from him by his company until Oct. 29. Arthur Shapiro, manager, said there was no good reason for him to disappear, as he had been successful in getting orders and had large commissions due him.

The police at Del Rio, Tex., reported that Brody had left there on Oct. 28 with a blond youth who apparently was a hitch hiker. The pair were reported to have arrived in San Antonio the following day.

AMY JOHNSON NEAR RECORD ON AFRICAN FLIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Amy Johnson, premier British aviatrix, landed tonight at Mossamedes, Portuguese West Africa, according to dispatches received here. This is only 1,500 miles from her goal, Cape Town. She is flying the monoplane, the Desert Cloud, in an effort to beat the record of 4 days 17 hours and 19 minutes which her husband, Capt. J. A. Mollison, set from London to Cape Town.

Since leaving London Monday she stopped at Oran, Algeria; Gao, French Sudan; Douala, Cameroons; and Benguela and Mossamedes in Portuguese West Africa, completing 4,700 miles of the 6,200 mile trip. She was delayed at Benguela by minor engine trouble, but still was ahead of her husband's record.

JAPAN CITES U. S. ACT IN DEFENSE OF OWN VENTURE

Charges America Backed Panama Revolt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 18.—[Friday.]—The United States figures prominently in supplemental observations and criticism by the Japanese government of the league of nations' report on Manchuria, it was revealed today by the newspaper Nichi Nichi.

The league council will take up the Manchurian report for discussion on Monday. Japan's views will also be heard at that time.

Tokio regards the revised reply as one of Japan's most important communications to an international conference. The general feeling is that Japan's destiny may be at stake in the coming league sessions.

Brings in U. S.

The supplemental observations declared that the United States recognized the revolutionists in Panama in 1903, and that the war allies backed the Estonian revolution in 1918.

It should follow, according to the Japanese statements, that if Manchukuo is governed by Manchurians and if that government satisfies the citizens, the nations of the world should also recognize Manchukuo. It is declared that conditions in Manchuria are considerably altered since the league investigation, which was completed in September, the report consequently should not be used as the basis for reaching a settlement in a few weeks.

Satisfied with 2 Points.

The Nichi Nichi discloses that Japan is satisfied with only two points of the Lytton report to the league. One is the description of the situation in China picturing the evils of the old régime under the war lords, Chang Tso-lin and Chang Hsueh-liang, and the other is the view on boycotts, which terms them a dangerous weapon.

Japan insists, however, that the Chinese forced the Japanese army to take offensive measures in defense of Japanese rights. In conclusion it is stated that peace in the Far East cannot be maintained without the existence of the new state of Manchukuo.

PICKETS BLOCK WORK AT PEABODY MINE BY BEATING UP DIGGERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A demonstration of hostile miners today prevented work at the Andrew mine of the Peabody Coal company, north of Springfield.

Pickets of the Progressive Miners of America blocked the roads leading to the coal mine early today when Hector Collard of 1610 East Cook street and William Beecraft, his stepson, undertook to drive to the mine. Their car was overturned and they were beaten. They are at St. John's hospital, suffering from cuts and bruises. Their automobile was wrecked and the tires slashed.

Deputy Sheriff William Beynon, in charge of the situation during the illness of Sheriff Sam Metcalf, announced this evening that additional deputy sheriffs would be sworn in. The force of highway police, too, must be increased if the roads are to be kept open.

It was estimated that more than 1,000 members of the progressive union and their sympathizers were at the Andrew mine this morning, and that it is possible for the new union to muster more than that number of pickets at the Andrew mine on an hour's notice.

WOMAN LOSES HER $100,000 SUIT AGAINST RIVAL

After deliberating an hour and a half yesterday a jury in the court of Circuit Judge Craig Hood returned a verdict in favor of Miss Estelle Kulick, 5524 Pensacola avenue, who had been sued for $100,000 damages by Mrs. Anna Dolinski of 1337 Fargo avenue. The suit charged Miss Kulick had alienated the affections of Mrs. Dolinski's husband, Michael, who is connected with Katz & Dolinski, a dressmaking concern at 309 West Jackson boulevard.

Miss Kulick, who is 32 years old, is general manager of the dress concern. During the trial Mrs. Dolinski, who is 36, asserted an intimacy grew up between her husband and Miss Kulick during her own absence in Europe.

There was nothing improper in the relations of the husband and Miss Kulick, Dolinski's sister, Mrs. Mary Zielinski of Detroit, testified.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Can any "cheap" radio give you automatic silencing, so that you glide from program to program without any disturbing noise? The 1933 Atwater Kent does.

Can any "cheap" radio give you automatic volume control, which prevents "fading"? Or perfected tone control? The 1933 Atwater Kent does.

Can any "cheap" radio give you the far-reaching power of full number of tubes? The 1933 Atwater Kent does.

Can any "cheap" radio give you a full-sized sound chamber? Or a full-sized chassis, big enough to do the whole radio job and rugged to stand years of hard use? The 1933 Atwater Kent does.

Can any "cheap" radio give you 1933 improvements? Or the long life of Atwater Kent workmanship? Or the comfort of the Atwater Kent guarantee? Or the pride of owning and the pleasure of enjoying an Atwater Kent?

The new Atwater Kent is a REAL radio. It's no more like a toy than a grand piano is like a tin whistle. Yet it is not expensive. Its moderate price is the lowest at which you can buy such a radio. In the end, you will save money, for an Atwater Kent is built both to satisfy and to last. See—hear it today!

. . . Down-and-Out when he should be Up-and-at-'em

Slipping . . but didn't know why. A newspaper ad gave him a clue. 10 days later what a change! Up-and-at-'em again!

He used to be the one the boss pointed to as the example for the rest to follow. On top of his job every minute. Making good in a big way. Then, little by little, he began to slip. Something inside him seemed to be holding him back. Tossed and turned at night. Got up feeling as if he hadn't slept at all. Simply couldn't put the proper "punch" into his work.

But what ailed him? He himself couldn't tell you.

Then one day the boss called him. Handed him a newspaper. Pointed to an ad and told him to read it.

One word stood out like a neon sign. It was ASTHENIA*. As he read the truth began to dawn. He realized that like millions of others he had fallen victim without knowing it . . to that modern malady which doctors call "ASTHENIA." Without knowing it! That's the disarming thing about this health-destroying blight. It drags you down . . slows your mind . . saps your vitality. Yet you hardly realize you're slipping.

Did it ever occur to you, that you, too, might be heading in the same direction? Don't think because you're "regular" that you're immune. Physicians will tell you that daily elimination must not only be regular . . it must be complete. Otherwise poisons gradually accumulate . . bred by millions of micro-organisms in the digestive tract. Little by little these poisons seep into the blood stream. Then comes that half-alive feeling . . the danger signal of ASTHENIA.

If you feel tired, listless, irritable . . if your work weighs you down, decide today to rid yourself of Asthenia and stay rid of it!

Buy a bottle of Pluto Water and take it as directed—one-fifth glass in four-fifths glass of hot water—every morning for 10 mornings. Don't miss a day—for 10 days! You'll be amazed how this gentle treatment will change your entire viewpoint . . make you see a new world in ten days!

After that—take Pluto Water every Sunday morning regularly and you'll find that you do everything with new vim and pleasure.

Then you'll understand why for nearly 90 years from all over the world, people have traveled to French Lick Springs for this famous 10-day Pluto treatment . . why physicians recommend Pluto Water as a mild, agreeable and effective laxative—non-irritating and non-habit forming. And by actual comparison the least expensive laxative you can take.

GENTLE EFFECTIVE AGREEABLE
When taken as directed one-fifth glass Pluto to four-fifths glass hot water. Pluto Water is virtually tasteless. It is non-irritating and non-habit-forming.

● PLUTO WATER ends "ASTHENIA"—the want or loss of strength . . debility . . diminution of the vital forces—often due to intestinal micro-organisms. Pluto Water—the biggest selling Laxative Mineral Water in the world—is recommended by doctors everywhere. It is bottled and sealed at French Lick Springs Hotel, French Lick, Indiana—America's Greatest Health Resort. In 2 sizes 20c and 45c.

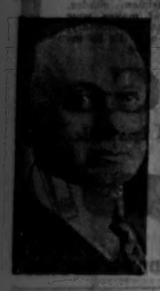
Take PLUTO WATER and see a NEW WORLD in 10 Days!

COURT CONFIRMS FORFEITURE OF THE AUDITORIUM

Land Owners Clear Title; Plan to Reopen.

BY AL CHASE.

Taps were sounded yesterday for one of Chicago's longest and most spectacular legal battles over a world famous piece of real estate, the land under the Auditorium, when Judge Robert E. Gentzel of the Superior court entered a final decree confirming the forfeiture of ground leases by the Chicago Auditorium association to the four estates owning the fees. This clears the title to the property and the Mark Willing estate, the Sears and Slater estates and the estate of Charles A. Chapin now own both land and building.



ALBERT H. WETTEN. [Wallinger Photo.]

The Auditorium Building corporation has been formed by the four estate owners and is operating the property for the owners. John Geodridge, representing the Mark Willing estate, is president. The directors are: Albert H. Wetten & Co., real estate agents for the entire property; Henry Chapin, representing the Chapin estate; Halsey Malone of New York City, representing the Sears and Slater estates, and Matthias Concannon, attorney.

Plan to Reopen in December.

The final touches are now being made on a $100,000 rejuvenation of the famous Auditorium theater, which those who have seen it say will bring back most of its past architectural glories. It is now planned to reopen the historic old playhouse early in December.

It has been suggested that an effort be made to ring up the curtain on the evening of Dec. 9, which would be the 43d anniversary of the formal opening. On that historic occasion, Dec. 9, 1889, Adelina Patti shared honors with the President of the United States, Benjamin Harrison, in the dedication of what was then America's finest and most magnificent theater.

On that memorable night the leaders of Chicago's social and business life were in the boxes. Some of them were Mayer Cregier, George M. Pullman, Marshall Field, Potter Palmer, Martin Ryerson, N. K. Fairbank, and R. T. Crane. The late Ferdinand W. Peck, who was mainly responsible for the great theater, hotel and office building project, was given an ovation by the audience equal to that accorded the great singer and the President.

Harrison Nominated There.

Although dedicated in 1889, the building was used by the Republican national convention in 1888, when still uncompleted. That convention nominated Harrison and Morton.

Mr. Peck, with other Chicago capitalists, conceived the idea of the Auditorium in 1885. Three residences, a hotel and a skating rink occupied the ground when the wrecking began. The Auditorium cost $1,700,000. The Chicago Auditorium association, formed by Mr. Peck and others, secured the site in 1887 through five long term leases, all for 99 years. Three of the leases later were extended 99 years, making their maturity 2085.

Land Owners Forbid Razing.

When the Auditorium lost the Civic Opera company to the Wacker drive opera house, and the hotel and office building began to show signs of age, the lessees decided to erect a new skyscraper hotel, theater and office building. But the land owners refused to have the old Auditorium torn down and a long and bitter legal battle ensued. This was ended yesterday by Judge Gentzel's decree.

It was learned yesterday that many of the wealthy Chicagoans most interested in local opera favor the idea of the rejuvenated and registered Auditorium again housing that form of musical entertainment. The future of the Civic Opera house, of course, is still undecided.

Seized with Loot 8 Years After Flight from Joliet

Frank Edwards, who escaped eight years ago from the Joliet penitentiary, was recaptured yesterday at Canton, Ill., by State Highway Patrolman Walter Fisher. Edwards was driving an automobile stolen in Fairbury, which was laden with stolen merchandise, authorities said. He escaped from Joliet on May 17, 1924, with Harry King, who was sentenced from Peoria for murder. Edwards had been convicted of robbery and assault.

PAJAMA CLAD, PREVENTS WRECK.

Fred Cress, Gurley, Neb., station agent, clad in his pajamas, flagged a train to a stop a few inches from a broken rail. The break was discovered a few minutes before the midnight train arrived. Cress did not have time to dress.

PILES

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

If you think a surgical operation is the only way to get rid of itching, bleeding or protruding Piles, it's because you haven't heard of the harmless internal medicine discovered by a prominent western physician.

After years of study, Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the cause of Piles to be internal—congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the "hemorrhoidal" veins flabby; the bowel walls weak; the parts almost dead. Right away the doctor set to work to find a real internal remedy. He succeeded, and after prescribing it for 1,000 patients, with success in over 900 cases, he named his prescription HEM-ROID.

The doctor wants every Pile sufferer to benefit by his discovery, and so there will be no doubting or delay Walgreen's are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end Piles in any form.

So why waste time on external treatments or think of an operation when HEM-ROID tablets are guaranteed.

HONDURAN REBEL ARMY 60 MILES FROM CAPITAL

Delayed Dispatches Tell of Insurgent Success.

Dispatches arriving from Honduras, some of them delayed for as long as two days, indicate that the rebellion against the federal government there has taken a more serious turn than was apparent when the movement started last Monday.

Belated advices told of the success of the rebels in some encounters and of the severing of telegraphic communication between Tegucigalpa, the capital, and the west, south and east.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 17.—(AP)—President Mejia Colindres presided over an important cabinet meeting today, the purpose of which was to agree upon a unified plan of action to cope with the emergency resulting from the rebellion by Liberal elements, who were defeated in the recent presidential election.

President Elect Tiburcio Carias Andino, former President P. Paz Baraona and all cabinet ministers and undersecretaries attended the meeting.

60 Miles from Capital.

Meanwhile the main body of the rebel army was reported to have taken up a position in the city of Nacaome, about 60 miles southwest of Tegucigalpa.

It was officially reported that a strong group of the revolutionary forces yesterday took Pespire, 50 miles southwest of Tegucigalpa. This morning the loyal troops commanded by Gen. Joaquin Canales attacked the rebels and, after three hours' fighting, the insurgents evacuated. The number of casualties was unknown.

Troops March to Front.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 18.—[Delayed in transmission.]—(AP)—Troops were leaving Tegucigalpa hourly today to take the field against rebellious Liberals who have risen against the federal government. The authorities were carrying out a hurried mobilization and the whole country was said to be in what amounted to a state of war.

Tegucigalpa was without telegraphic communication with the west, south, and east. Reports published abroad that civilians are evacuating the capital are untrue.

Rebels Capture Town.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 15 [Delayed in transmission.]—(AP)—Rebels commanded by Gen. Carlos Lagos got control today of the important town of Nacaome in the southern district. It also was reported that Comayagua, an important city about 60 miles northwest of Tegucigalpa, adhered to the rebel cause, but was retaken by loyal troops.

MORTON GROVE PEDESTRIAN IS KILLED BY AUTO

James Hennessey, 45 years old, a casual, was fatally injured last evening by the automobile of Warren French, 21 years old, of Morton Grove, at Dempster stret and Ferris avenue in the suburb. He died on the way to St. Francis hospital in Evanston. French was released on a $5,000 bond pending the inquest.

This death and one other increased the Cook county automobile toll for the year to 993. The other victim:

Edward Tracy, 41 years old, 1649 West 51st street. Died in the Little Company of Mary hospital last night of injuries suffered when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver at Ashland avenue and 51st street on Armistice day.

MAN FOUND SLAIN IN AUTO.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Charles E. Arnould, 50, an oil salesman, was found dead in his automobile today on a highway near here. There was a bullet wound in the right temple. Police said they believed Arnould committed suicide.

TESTIFIES VOTES SELL AT $1 EACH IN PHILADELPHIA

Negro Declares Legislator Puts Up Money.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Votes retailed anywhere from 25 cents to $1 apiece in one Philadelphia ward at the last election, the house committee on campaign expenditures of the Pennsylvania election was told at the opening session of its fraud inquiry here today. At least 200 votes were bought at these bargain rates, it was testified.

According to Thomas Hilton, a Negro voter who starred as the outstanding witness of the day, the capital for the ballot "investment" was supplied by State Representative Clinton O. Sowers, up for reelection. Hilton insisted Sowers had "passed out money which bought 200 votes."

Make Overtures to 400 Voters.

The witness charged that overtures had been made to fully 400 persons by those seeking to buy votes for Sowers. In each case, he said, a sum ranging from 25 cents to $1 was offered for the voter's "support."

Mrs. Willie Cook, Negress, testified that she was handed a dollar by Sowers himself as she came out of the voting booth. Some one made out her ballot for her, she declared, in spite of the fact that she had not asked for assistance.

The woman said that as she came out of the booth some one shouted: "Cash register, coming out." Then she added: "I was handed a dollar by Mr. Sowers."

Attorney Tells of Fraud.

Joseph Marinelli, an attorney, testified that of 280 voters who cast their ballots in his ward, "Ninety-nine were assisted and fifty of these ninety-nine by Republican workers illegally."

Marinelli added that in his ward, "If at least 90 per cent of the vote was not illegally voted, the organization forces would not get 10 per cent of it."

Thomas F. Golden of the Twentieth ward testified to having seen Representative Sowers "hand out a 50 cent piece to a colored man" and Joseph G. Tumilillo, an attorney, who had charge of the South Philadelphia division of the Roosevelt committee, told of having seen a city employe take a woman by the arm and lead her into a booth "apparently to give her assistance."

Election Judge Drunk.

"One of the Roosevelt watchers was given some kind of a drink and the record was fixed up to make it appear the woman had asked for assistance," he said.

Mr. Tumilillo gave this word picture of conditions in the Fifteenth division of the Twenty-sixth ward:

"These men [city and county workers] and several others were drunk. The judge of election was drunk and lying around and the people were howling and yelling. The judge was sleeping; his head was resting on his arm."

Denies Assessing Jobholders.

James M. Haslett, chairman of the Republican city committee and recorder of deeds of Philadelphia, was questioned on a charge by S. Davis Wilson, manager of the Roosevelt independent state campaign committee, that city and county employes had been "assessed" 5 per cent of their salaries to finance the Republican campaign. The chairman denied any knowledge that the Republican organization had "decreed" a $1,500,000 city loan just before election so the jobholders would have funds with which to meet the party "assessments."

Rip Out Pages of Poll Books.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Striking again in their efforts to thwart an investigation into alleged election frauds in various city districts, thieves returned to the hall of records and ripped out the pages of two poll books which they overlooked in their first visit, it was disclosed today.

WOMAN HOTEL CLERK ROBBED.

Miss Eileen Hart, a clerk in the Wilson-Hazel hotel, 4544 Hazel avenue, was robbed of $338 yesterday by two bandits.

S. H. M'CORMICK ESTATE REPORTS ON LEGAL FEES

An examination of the 1931 report on the management of the estate of Stanley H. McCormick, who was declared incompetent in 1906, disclosed yesterday that five law firms shared a total of $462,501 in fees for legal services rendered during the year. According to the report the legal expenses of both sides in the court fight by which Mrs. Catherine McCormick was declared the sole guardian of her husband, are included in this total.

The law firms and their fees follow: Baker, Hostetter, Sidlow and Patterson, $339,985; Cassels, Potter & Bentley, $128,203; Miller, Gorham & Wales, $126,583; Tenne, Harding, Sherman & Rogers, $27,725; Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt as attorneys for the Continental Illinois bank, conservator of the estate, $30,000. The fees paid to Miller, Gorham and Wales included those paid them as attorneys for Harold F. McCormick, a co-conservator.

The total income of the estate was $3,844,201. Of this $512,000 was realized from Liberty bonds which were sold. Only $50,311 was reinvested in securities. After total expenses only $6,728 remained of the gross income.

Expenditures, the report showed, included $151,000 for the rehabilitation of Stone House, Mr. McCormick's present home on his Riven Rock, [Cal.] estate. Fees paid physicians for medical services amounted to $150,671.

Timber Wolf Is Killed by Farmer's Automobile

Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A large gray timber wolf was run over and killed on a Knox county road 15 miles from Galesburg by J. E. Elker, farmer, he reported today.

Flying Forecast

Chicago-Evansville—Considerable cloudiness, some likelihood of light local snow or rain over extreme south portion; mostly moderate to fresh east to southeast winds.

Chicago-St. Louis—More or less cloudiness; mostly moderate to fresh east to southeast winds.

Chicago-Detroit-Cleveland — Some local cloudiness, but considerable clear sky; moderate to fresh winds, mostly northeast to southeast.

Chicago-Twin Cities — Scattered to local broken clouds for the most part; moderate to locally strong southeast to southwest winds.

AUTO RECOVERED IN RIVER CLEARS MYSTERY DEATH

Two years ago the body of Walter Poulis, a railroad switchman, was found floating in Lake Calumet in South Chicago. At the time it was believed he had been murdered, as a large hole was found in his head. He had been missing from his home for ten days when his body was recovered on Nov. 12, 1930.

Yesterday the mystery of his disappearance and death was cleared up when his widow, Mrs. Laura Poulis, 9326 Colfax avenue, identified his automobile, which was recovered from the Calumet river at 138th street and Torrence avenue, Burnham. He apparently received the injury to his head when his car left the bridge at that point and his body floated away.

LEVINE, FIRST AIR PASSENGER TO EUROPE, IS BROKE

New York, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—How he spent a huge fortune in gay living at home and abroad, and is now broke, but expects to make another fortune out of "a wonderful machine," was told in Supreme court today by Charles A. Levine, first trans-Atlantic air passenger, testifying in his wife's suit for separation and $52,000 a year allmony.

CHARLES A. LEVINE. [A. P. Photo.]

Levine admitted that in the last two years he had made two extended tours of Europe, accompanied each time by a woman companion, staying at the best hotel, visting gambling establishments, but he insisted today he had no funds at all.

He is living, he said, on the last $80,000 borrowed on his insurance policies. The latter at one time amounted to $1,000,000, but through lapses, he said, had dropped to almost half that sum.

Though now broke, said Levine, he had bought for $1,400 in Vienna an option on a machine to make steel tubing by cold process which he believes will make him another fortune.

Burn Corn, Heat Church, Homes of Farmers, Too

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The members of the Jonathan Greek church near Caldwell, Ill., in Douglas county, are keeping warm at evening and Sunday services by using corn as fuel. People in that section of Illinois are burning corn in their homes, also, saying it is cheaper than coal. They are hoping that action will serve as a protest to the low price of corn.

Two Volumes of Memories Are Reviewed

Hamlin Garland Presents One of Them.

"My Friendly Contemporaries," by Hamlin Garland. [Macmillan.]

"Memories of a Southern Woman of Letters," by Grace King. [Macmillan.]

HAMLIN GARLAND, for many years a resident of Chicago and one of the west's most prominent literati, has continued in this third volume the record of his life among intellectuals here and abroad.

HAMLIN GARLAND.

Among the men and women Mr. Garland had personal contact with were Carl Akeley, Zona Gale, Mark Sullivan, Irving Bacheller, John Burroughs, Ernest Seton, George Ade, Ellen Glasgow, Amy Lowell, John Galsworthy, William Allen White, Rudyard Kipling and Sir James Barrie.

William Dean Howells was the author's most intimate friend and when he died Hamlin Garland felt the passing of the old order to which he proudly belonged. His memoirs are in the final analysis a long series of distinguished names, with occasional brilliant pen portraits of particularly stimulating men with whom the author is superficially if not always intimately familiar. In England he meets, talks to, visits, or has luncheon or tea with Bernard Shaw, Gilbert Parker, Lord Balfour, A. A. Milne, Conan Doyle, Joseph Conrad, Edmund Gosse, St. John Irvine, Maurice Hewlett, Arnold Bennett, and W. W. Jacobs.

In America he chats once or twice with Theodore Roosevelt, for whom he had a devout admiration, and makes the acquaintance of many of the notable political figures of the day. Artists, musicians, literary critics, authors, diplomats, poets, actors and actresses, scientists and business men, all of some clear and unmistakable prominence, stream across these pages so fast and furiously that the reader is lost in a flood of names that comes with such swiftness he hardly has time to draw breath. Hamlin Garland falls into the very speed and indiscrimination of the generation with which he professes to be unsympathetic.

If the story of Hamlin Garland's later years had been written more leisurely, even more gently and philosophically, the reader would have laid the book down reluctantly. The diary from which the author quotes lavishly (the quotations take up at least two-thirds of the book) seems to be written in that peculiar stiff formal style which suggests that the author had an eye unmistakably to future publication. There are included details of personal criticism, evaluations of books that have long been in the dust heap, of minor activities and interests that have little significance in the major task. Graciousness and light, charm and nobility of personality do not flood "My Friendly Contemporaries."

Hamlin Garland, whose claim to fame will rest upon "A Son of the Middle Border," states at the end of these memoirs: "Ten more volumes of my diaries remain to be edited, and to those interested I am moved to say, 'Wind and weather permitting, another logbook will some time be added to the set.'"

Grace King Wins Reader.

A book of memories very different indeed is "Memories of a Southern Woman of Letters," Grace King, whose long, fruitful life was spent in New Orleans, with occasional trips to the north and abroad, reveals a personality that is as charming and gracious as it is wise and tolerant. Her home, in that fascinating southern city, was for many years the literary magnet of the south. Southern men of letters, as well as northern, western, and eastern, not to mention European, were drawn to her home whenever they found occasion to travel south.

She recalls the stirring days of the civil war, re-creates the tragedy of reconstruction, and compares the old days of the south's flowering with the new.

Among her close friends were Mark Twain and his family, William Dean Howells, Julia Ward Howe, Hamilton Mable, Thomas Nelson Page, Walter Hines Page, not to mention the distinguished men and women of the present generation. Her style is genial and witty and wise, touched by old-fashioned, unashamed sentiment, sharp, vivid, and mellow. Easily and quietly and gently she reveals to the reader a personality that has grown old gracefully, without bitterness or intolerance, a character of great richness and delicate perceptions that has made evaluations of life and people that are a joy to read. The Toy Season, Greatest Store Event of All, Welcomes Shopper

BY RHEA SEEGER.

SUDDENLY and with precious little warning all shoppers are missing from their usual places in front of fascinating cases filled with new things to wear. You'll see them now, in good shopping formation, crowded around the exciting toy sections of all the stores and shops, packed eight and nine deep, trying to wind up trick toys, whistling clowns, racing engines and trucks and trailers.

Officially . . . all the toy sections are now open for the usual expeditionary forces of grownups who shop for toys with all the fervor and gusto that the kids would have if the poor little tikes could have a chance to get within a mile of the displays. Tomorrow, Saturday, is the grand super-special opening, with all the mechanical clowns strutting their best . . . with all the newest wind-up dogs and cats and monkeys showing what they can do . . . with all the newest locomotives racing around miles of tracks and new stations and power houses . . . with all the newest baby dolls and not so young infants smiling roguishly from the tops and shelves of filled cases . . . with literally every toy department crammed full of choice Christmas loot as well as a milling mob of round eyed children and the eager chaperoning grownups having the time of their lives.

Can't Hope to See Everything

You simply can't hope to see everything. At least a dozen trips will be necessary before you realize what an enormous and gigantic supply of Christmas toys and gadgets and whatnots are available for instant selection. But one trip will leave a lasting impression if you're toy conscious at all.

A couple of hours will pass into history before you will have seen all the dolls . . . you stand completely entranced before the cunning little baby dolls made of hollow rubber, fetching little mites that your youngster not only can wham around the home playground but also can submerge in soap and water and no damage done. These adorable rubber babies are quite the stars of the baby show . . . they are regular copies of the roly-poly human variety, with all the dimples and funny fat little fingers and toes, with wee little blue eyes that close in sleep when a little girl mother snuggles it in her arms . . . it does everything but cry!

Doll Furniture of All Varieties.

Budding interior decorators should be encouraged . . . and if you don't think doll furniture is important, just try to fight your way up to the cases where you can buy all these new house furnishings. This year you can buy everything from snooty little baby grand pianos that have a musical score planted under the lid to fashionable whatnots and the very small pieces of bric-a-brac that are placed on the shelves . . . you can furnish a doll house with early American pieces in maple, you can go English Tudor with oak treasures, Windsor chairs and chintz covered easy chairs for the living room . . . you can work out a scheme using delightful slender mahogany tables and chairs, and you can buy supplies of house linen that will leave you in a state of green envy because grownups can't find anything half so good looking.

Dishes and chinaware will hold you spellbound . . . tea sets of luster ware, dinner sets of diminutive replicas of flowered English and other imported china . . . unbreakable dishes that would tempt a temperamental housewife with a strong throwing arm, and kitchenware that would domesticate the most modern and kitchen hating minx. There are shining waffle irons that really cook a light and puffy waffle, there are electric stoves that can cook a real honest to goodness doll size dinner . . . and there are toasters that can brown a piece of bread to perfection.

Trucks Have Many Tricks.

Very small lads and the boys who have grown tall do some long lingering around the mechanical toy departments . . . big, husky he-men spend hours pushing a button that controls a street going truck . . . a very ingenious invention, whereby the small owner of the toy or usually a dad or envious uncle stands beside a transformer, taps this tab and remotely controls the business of guiding a dumping truck without a touch of the fingers on the truck.

This thinking truck backs, goes forward, stops, dumps a load of sand, goes into neutral and does it all over again by this remote control gadget. And if you think this late arrival isn't popular, just follow the crowds that watch it perform.

American made toys, sturdy and, in most cases, practically unbreakable, are the best attractions . . . look for the hydraulic water tower that is mounted on a swivel platform . . . a few turns of the crank and the young fire fighter can easily extinguish any doll house blaze as high as three or four stories. When not on active duty the roaring fireman can look around for other fires on the detachable seat of the same fire wagon, for this knockout indoor invention for amusing junior can hold the weight of 175 pounds.

You can buy a box of marbles and a bag that will make any boy's eyes open . . . one hundred, all sizes, all the new colors and a miser leather bag to stow them in . . . you can buy "new mountains," new floodlights, new switches, new stations, and all the man power for your railroad sets, an engineer, a fireman, a brakeman, conductor, a flock of red cap porters, and a pair of male and female passengers.

These are the teasers of the Christmas collections . . . merely a few out of thousands of new and old things that have been perfected and improved . . . all with price tags that certainly promise much for very full and bulging Christmas stockings.

It's the same old season, but with all the difference in the world in excitement, color, noise, and fun in all the toy shops in town.

Parents Can't Unite on Child Management

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"My husband believes in spanking and I do not. Can you think of any way I can convince him that it isn't necessary? My baby boy is 15 months old and I think we ought to get together now on how he is to be managed."

Letters like that come in often and are rather appalling to a poor outsider who is asked for advice and who knows that "no one really wants to be convinced," as some one put it the other day.

Still, I think something can be accomplished if both sides are open-minded. In fact, you would be surprised at the number of letters that indicate a desire to know, to discover, to study on the part of young fathers as well as young mothers. Just a little of this feeling that "perhaps there is a better way" will serve as a chink through which a great deal of light can seep, and which will lead to the doors of the mind being thrown wide open for a greater understanding to flood in.

So, for parents who are slightly at odds about the management of their children as well as for parents who are actually at swords' points, I have been suggesting this: First, that they put aside any desire to win an argument. Then, that they forget themselves and get into a frame of mind where they want the best for their child. Then, read together, aloud perhaps, some authoritative but simple book on children. Later they may follow this up with other reading.

For the fathers and mothers of babies and young children I have been suggesting as a book for the purpose "Child Care and Training," by Faegre & Anderson, published by the University of Minnesota Press at Minneapolis, of which the price is $2. This book gives a good picture of the needs and management of children up to 6 and has a modern, sane angle.

Other reading references are obtainable by sending in a request accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Blackstone Theater to Reopen; Former Manager Gets Lease

The Blackstone theater has been leased to Guy Hardy, once its manager, according to an announcement by Tracy C. Drake, president of the Blackstone company, yesterday. Mr. Hardy, with Cyrus E. Wilder and James Sheehan of Chicago as his associates, will immediately put the theater into operation under its former policy.

A light comedy which was popular in New York last season, has been booked by Mr. Hardy for an early December opening at the Blackstone. This play was popular on Broadway for many months, and its success carried over into the present season. The new manager also has made arrangements to bring several other plays to the Blackstone, among them one that was generally accepted as among the "ten best" of last year.—C. C.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright 1932 By Ideas Syndicate, Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

THE FARMHOUSE MURDER.

Robbery undoubtedly was the motive for the murder of old lady Button. The box containing all her money was missing. Again Prof. Fordney's help was sought.

Carter, a neighbor, stated that Murphy, the hired man, ran from the farmhouse and entered the barn shortly before the murder was discovered.

Murphy, proclaiming his innocence, told Fordney about Gibbs, a tramp, who had been there that day. Perhaps he knew something about it.

Fordney then instructed the police to arrest Gibbs and bring him to the farm without any explanation whatever.

An hour later while he was searching the barn for the missing money, Gibbs was brought to him. When told Mrs. Button had been murdered he insisted that the last time he saw her was at noon when she'd fed him. He thought her niggardly because she refused to give him anything but his dinner for the work he had done. But he certainly had not murdered her! As he left he saw Murphy walking towards the barn. That's all he knew.

Continuing his search, the professor stuck his arm into an opening back of the manger. There his fingers touched metal. While struggling to push it out, Gibbs remarked, "Perhaps you can reach the box with this, sir," handing him a stick. Another attempt and Fordney was successful. As it fell on the floor and the lid flew open, Murphy gasped excitedly. It was empty!

Turning suddenly, the professor exclaimed, "H'mmm. So YOU are guilty!"

WHOM DID HE ACCUSE?

[See solution on page 37.]

Play Telling Story of Chicago to Close After Another Week

Those Chicagoans who wish to see the stage version of how their grandfathers lived and loved are reminded that "When Chicago Was Young" has only one more week to run at the Goodman theater. The play, written by Herma Clark of THE TRIBUNE and Alice Gerstenberg, is in its second week.

Mrs. Alexander Carqueville of Highland Park takes the part of the Infanta Eulalia. She is Swedish by birth but was reared in Germany. She has appeared in motion pictures with such stars as Emil Jannings.

The gown she wears, an exact reproduction of one worn by Queen Victoria, has won prizes in Nice and Monte Carlo. It is of white satin embroidered in gold and emeralds, and has a long train.

Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Clemes Sail for India Next Week

Dr. Stanley W. Clemes, lately of Garrett Biblical institute in Evanston, is sailing with Mrs. Clemes and their children for India from Seattle on the Dollar line next week. Mrs. Clemes is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Norton, formerly of Chicago and now of Portland, Ore. Dr. Norton was for many years church editor of THE TRIBUNE. The Clemes family have been away on a furlough from India for nine months, spending much of the time with the Nortons. Dr. and Mrs. Clemes have been missionaries in India since 1915. On returning they will be stationed at Rurki, in the Northwest India Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. Clemes received his doctor's degree at Garrett last June.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

In the fall home owners and apartment dwellers alike turn their attention to thoughts of radiator inclosures. These modern assets have their uses and their beauties and when they are properly constructed so that air has unobstructed access to the radiator and complete freedom to escape from it they can actually add to its heating capacity. Also they contribute to drapery and wall cleanliness and, in many cases, to interior humidification. Consult a reliable heating contractor who is cognizant of the effect which design has on heating efficiency.

LOUISE BARGELT.

Miss Margaret Dawes Engaged to Beverly Jefferson, Evanston

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Will Become Bride Next Spring.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. RUFUS C. DAWES announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Beverly Jefferson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jefferson of Evanston. The wedding will take place some time next spring. Thus reads the formal announcement sent in for this morning by Mrs. Dawes.

Miss Margaret is the Dawesses' middle daughter—there are three daughters and three sons in this nice old fashioned large family—and she was graduated from Pine Manor in Wellesley after having been a student before going there at the Mount Vernon seminary in Washington. She made her debut at a garden party at the Sheridan road residence of her parents in Evanston three seasons ago. Her fiance is a Princeton graduate.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawes and Miss Margaret and the youngest son, Palmer, are in town for the winter in an apartment at 305 Fullerton parkway, so that Mr. Dawes, who is president of A Century of Progress, may be nearer the exposition grounds. Palmer is a senior at the Northwestern university law school, and Miss Helen Dawes is a senior at Vassar this year. She will be at home for the Christmas holidays and again next spring, no doubt, for her sister's wedding.

William M., the eldest of the family, is married and lives in Evanston; Charles C., the second son, also is married, and he and his wife and two children have just moved back to Chicago after living in Mobile for about a year; and Jean, the eldest daughter, is married to Robert T. Sherman and lives in Winnetka. Rufus Dawes and Charles G. Dawes are brothers.

Jane Boyce Debut Today.

Not in several years has there been such a large party at the hospitable residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank at 1244 North State street as is expected this afternoon, for the Fairbanks are loaning their house to their sister-in-law, Mrs. Livingston Fairbank of Paris, for the presentation to society of her daughter, Miss Jane Boyce, at a reception from 4 until 7 o'clock.

The debutante's assistants will include the Misses Marjorie Goodman, Betty Brown, Josephine Patterson, Laura Thorne, Marjorie Horton, Elizabeth Baum, Mary Senior, Eleanor Page, Helen Marie Castle, Lydia Swift, Betty Brawley, Kathryn Evans, and Janet Fairbank. Tomorrow night Mrs. Fairbank will give a dinner dance for her daughter at the Saddle and Cycle club.

When Mrs. Henry H. Porter and her daughter, Miss Mary Porter, come to Chicago from Manchester, Vt., shortly after Christmas day they will bring with them Mrs. Porter's niece, Miss Mary A. Prentice, for whom Mrs. Porter will give a small dinner at the Casino on Monday, Jan. 2.

On New Year's day Miss Prentice will be at home with Mrs. Porter and Miss Porter at the Fortnightly for Mrs. Porter's three new daughters-in-law, Mrs. Henry H. Porter Jr. [Mary Kinney], Mrs. S. Prentice Porter [Elinor Durbin] and Mrs. John P. Porter [Mary Alexander Brumback].

And on Friday, Jan. 6, Mrs. Porter is entertaining at a dinner dance for her sons' brides at the Casino, but Miss Prentice will have returned east before that party.

CHICAGO USING FIFTH OF BUERRE BOSC PEAR CROP

Prices 25% Under Those of Last Year.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

By the dozen, by the pound or by the pair, Chicago is consuming this year about one-fifth of the entire Buerre Bosc pear crop of the country at prices lower by 25 to 35 per cent wholesale and retail than those prevailing last year.

This pear, which dominates the market in fruit at the present because other pear varieties either already have been marketed or have not reached the proper eating stage, was a little known western grown luxury 10 to 15 years ago. Now Michigan fruit growers have set out orchards of this variety and have started to harvest crops small but growing in amount.

Vendors Popularize Pear.

A characteristic russet mottle covers over a golden color skin and the fruit is longer and more tapered than most pears. Chicagoans acquainted themselves with the Bosc pear last year through the hundreds of sidewalk fruit stands set up by those who sold apples, pears and other fruit to the passing public.

When a pear of the Bosc type is very firm it should be placed in a refrigerator or cool place to soften. If not that, then it should be baked when firm. During the "in between" stage of softening the Bosc pear lends itself to use in salads. This variety will be practically the only pear sold until Christmas when later varieties will be on the market.

Pear Timesaver for Sale.

In the kitchen the pear is a timesaver in preparing a salad or a cooked delicacy to serve cool. To prepare a pear for baking one may take as many firm pears as the table will need for a serving. Pare around the top of the pear so that about one inch of the top is without skin and place the pared end up in a baking dish. Add water and sprinkle sugar over the top. Place in a medium oven [350 degrees F.] and bake until soft, basting occasionally with the syrup. When soft, sprinkle caramelized sugar over the peeled surface. Place under a broiling flame to toast delicately and to glace. Cool and chill before serving.

The ingredients for the above, if six medium sized pears are used, include one-fourth cup sugar, three tablespoons pulverized caramelized sugar and one-half cup water.

Tinted with Paprika.

Pear salad can be an operation of little more than peeling, coring and halving, imbedding the halves rounded side up in shredded lettuce. For more ornate effect the surface may be tinted with paprika and the salad served with a creamy fruit salad dressing.

Camouflage with white grapes is another culinary trick. The half pear is coated with mayonnaise. Then halves of white grapes are arranged, rounded side up, until the structure looks like a bunch of grapes. A stem may be stuck in the large end of the bunch and the portion served in a lettuce cup.

That 1st Thanksgiving Feast; Plum Pudding Tops It Off

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

From golden shafts of sunlight that fell through autumn foliage along the trail, doubtless the sweet face of Priscilla smiled at many a bemused young Indian brave who lingered on the way homeward after that first Thanksgiving banquet. . . .

And returning, the older men, no longer prone to day dreams, perhaps discussed the bluff, brave Plymouth captain; hunting; and the maize crop; and pondered upon the fire sticks with voice of thunder that their pale faced neighbors carried. . . .

But if a swarthy feminine contingency was included on the guest list there was certainly much animated chatter on favorite recipes exchanged with the white women. And for many moons thereafter, it would be safe to wager, some adaptation of a British plum pudding made frequent appearances at Indian repasts.

Plum Pudding, of Course.

Of course, there was plum pudding at the first Thanksgiving dinner—it was a day of feasting, and the cooks were English women. Modifications in the customary ingredients, it is evident, circumstances demanded. But the English plum pudding recipe brought from home, and followed faithfully in later and more prosperous days, ran much like this:

Mix together ½ pound of bread crumbs, free from crust; ½ pound beef suet, chopped fine and free from skin and fiber; 1 cup flour; ½ pound of currants, washed and dried; ½ pound of raisins, seeded and lightly floured; ½ teaspoon of salt; ½ teaspoon grated nutmeg and mace, mixed; 1 cup granulated sugar; 1-3 teaspoon baking powder; 8 beaten eggs; 2 ounces of chopped candied peel, either orange or lemon; 2 ounces minced apples, and 4 tablespoons brandy flavoring.

Allow Space for Rising.

Arrange a square of strong white cloth in a pudding bowl and flour it. Pour into it the mixture and tie it firmly, being sure to allow space for rising or the cloth will burst. Drop into a kettle of boiling water and keep boiling for six hours; then take it out and hang up in a cool place where the pudding will swing free.

When ready to use, drop into boiling water for one hour. Serve with brandy sauce. This quantity makes one large pudding. Twice this quantity will make three of medium size. Boil as many as you wish in one kettle. The pudding should be made two or three weeks or even longer before using.

Date Pudding a Rival.

Plum pudding for dessert at the Thanksgiving dinner has a rival in date pudding. The following date pudding recipe has won wide favor:

2 cups seeded dates, chopped fine
2 cups bread crumbs
1 cup chopped suet
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves

Mix the ingredients together in the order given. Pour into a buttered mold and steam for two hours. Serve with whipped cream or a creamy sauce.

In 1-3 of a cup of sherry, soak a half pound of finely chopped figs for from six to ten hours. Line a quart tray from the mechanical refrigerator with a dozen lady fingers, flat sides up. Whip a pint of heavy cream stiffly and sweeten it with ⅓ cup of powdered sugar. Pour one-half of the sweetened whipped cream over the lady fingers. Drain the figs and spread them over the whipped cream. Cover with the remainder of the whipped cream and finally with a layer of lady fingers. Tie on a cover made of oiled paper. Freeze the pudding in the refrigerator.

SIMPLE WINTER PARTIES MAKING CIDER WELCOME

Doughnuts Part of the Informal Menu.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

With simple and informal at home parties again holding the seat of honor for entertainment this fall and winter, what is more suitable than having matching simplicity in the menus for these affairs?

So for one party let's make the simple combination of sweet apple cider and home made doughnuts do for the refreshments. To make the occasion as informal as possible one might serve the cider from a miniature barrel with a spigot. That could be placed in the dining room and colorful glass steins could be used for containers.

Politics and Cider.

Speaking of sweet cider brings to mind rather an interesting yarn about its older and stronger brother, hard cider, which with its contents of 8 per cent or more of alcohol packs quite a wallop.

President William Henry Harrison is the subject of this tale. As the story goes, the election of "Tippecanoe and Tyler too" in 1840 was largely accredited to the tradition that Gen. Harrison was quite an admirer and even a loud supporter of the more potent member of the cider family. The farmers rallied to his support in the belief that he was a man after their own hearts, preferring their simple beverage to the more fancy concoctions of their city cousins. Harrison died a month after his inauguration.

Doughnuts and Cider.

With sweet cider obtainable at almost every neighborhood grocery, making it at home is almost to great a task to attempt. But as for the doughnuts for your party, you'll want them to be home made. Mrs. Philip L. Barker, 2534 Drake avenue, recommends this doughnut recipe that has been used by her more than 30 years:

1½ cups sugar
4 tablespoons melted lard
1 egg
1 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
About 3½ cups flour or enough to make soft dough
1 teaspoon nutmeg, cinnamon, or lemon flavoring.

Cream sugar and lard, then add egg and beat. Dissolve soda in sour milk and add to the other mixture with salt, flour, and flavoring. Chill the dough in the ice box for two hours or over night. Then roll out to a thickness of ¾ of an inch and cut. Fry in 1½ or 2 pounds of hot lard, which has been tested with a little dough before doughnuts are put in. When doughnuts have fried to a golden brown take them out of fat and drain on brown paper. Sour cream can be substituted for the sour milk in the recipe, but in that case the shortening is to be omitted.

Put more Sunshine Days on your calendar

HOW many days in the month do you feel your best? Two or three? A dozen? You can add to the "sunshine days" by simply obeying nature's laws.

An important law of nature is regular elimination. And today, you can avoid common constipation by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to aid regularity. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that in leafy vegetables. In addition, ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron as an equal weight of beef liver. Special cooking, flavoring and krumbling processes make Kellogg's ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable.

You will find it far more pleasant to enjoy a cereal in place of taking patent medicines. Much wiser too. Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily will overcome most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"When you're healthy, you're happy"

"How you feel—and how well you look—depends largely upon the food you eat. Be sure your diet is balanced—with sufficient 'bulk' to promote regularity."

"YOU CAN'T TELL IT FROM HOMEMADE SOUP"

Says Home Economics Authority

Pantry Pumpkin Pie

1½ Cups Canned Pumpkin.
1 Tablespoon Molasses.
2 Eggs.
¾ Cup Sugar.
1 Tablespoon Melted Butter.
1 Tablespoon Cornstarch.
¼ Teaspoon Nutmeg.
½ Teaspoon Ginger.
¼ Teaspoon Cloves (ground).
½ Teaspoon Salt.
1¼ Cups Milk.
¼ Cup Pantry Table Cream.

To the pumpkin add the slightly beaten eggs, molasses, sugar and melted butter. Blend the cornstarch, salt and spices with a little of the milk; add to the pumpkin, then the rest of the milk, and lastly the Pantry Table Cream to give the pie richness and smoothness. Pour in a deep pie pan lined with a rich pastry. Bake in a hot oven (450°) for 10 minutes, then 40 minutes more in a reduced heat (350°).

For whipped cream topping whip one can of Pantry Whipping Cream, sweeten and flavor to taste. See can label for directions for whipping.

BY MARY MEADE.

If one of these days you discover in a fresh vegetable market a long white affair, stalky in girth and a foot or more in length, which the salesman informs you is a radish, don't doubt him. He knows whereof he speaks. For the giant white Japanese radish, though still little known in this country, is a very old institution and, since its cultivation in the midwest is gradually increasing, it behooves us to get acquainted and bring this old-new vegetable home to tickle family palates.

While rather coarse in texture and pronounced in flavor, there are still many tempting tricks which may be played with this overgrown uncle of the radish family. First of all, since it meets us more than half way with its good radish flavor, cooking is best done by boiling in a considerable quantity of water without a cover, much as we cook turnips, rutabagas, cabbage, and onions. Radishes may be cut in sections lengthwise and then sliced across at intervals to shorten the pieces, or they may be cut in round three-fourths inch slices and boiled so until tender.

Once cooked there's the problem of service. Sliced, boiled Japanese radishes may be offered plain with butter or served with white sauce. Let the radish slices simmer in the hot white sauce several minutes before dishing. Another pleasing accompaniment is a tart lemon-butter sauce which in turn is eclipsed by a pleasant little chutney made after this manner:

CHUTNEY FOR JAPANESE RADISHES.
1-3 cup chopped, cooked carrot
3 tablespoons minced cooked ham
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup savory meat stock
Bit of bay leaf
Few drops of onion juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon chutney
Dash of thyme

Simmer the carrots and ham in the fat five minutes, then add the flour which has been blended to a smooth paste with part of the stock. Add the remainder of the stock and the seasoning and cook gently five minutes longer. Add the cooked radish and continue cooking two or three minutes before serving.

Chinese dishes seem to make an especial bid for Japanese radishes despite the friction between their respective countries. But doubtless now they're growing them in China and naming them Shanghai specials. Cut up in chow meins and chop sueys, these radishes make excellent substitutes for bamboo sprouts if you happen to run out of cans of that Chinese favorite. Also they're only about one-fourth as expensive as the sprouts and it seems to take a high class epicure to tell the difference. This is the way it looks in a chop suey:

CHOP SUEY WITH JAPANESE RADISHES.

This recipe requires three-fourths pound each of chopped veal and pork, two tablespoons minced onion, one-fourth cup each of fat and Soyu sauce, one and one-quarter teaspoons salt, three cups of bean sprouts, and one cup of Japanese radish cut in half inch cubes. Sauté the meat in the fat for ten minutes. Add the sauce, salt, radish, and onion, and simmer ten minutes more. Mix in the bean sprouts and continue cooking gently until all ingredients are tender. Mounds of rice served dry—oriental style—keep company with chop sueys.

Japanese radish soup is something quite new to try on your family. I strongly suspect they'll like it. Cook the radishes first, make a smooth white sauce, and dilute with milk. Heat, add the radish cut in small dice, and let cook in a double boiler for five minutes before serving.

FROZEN SHRIMP SALAD.
1 tablespoon gelatin
½ cup white stock
1 cup minced shrimp
¼ cup white sauce
1-3 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne pepper
¼ cup mayonnaise
¾ cup whipping cream, whipped

Soak the gelatin in the stock, then melt over hot water. Add the shrimp, white sauce, salt, and pepper. Let cool until partly set, then fold in thoroughly the mayonnaise which has been mixed with the whipped cream. Turn into a refrigerator tray and freeze. Cut in squares and serve in lettuce cups with more whipped cream, mayonnaise, and a garnish of sliced sweet pickle.

RECIPES FROM SCHOOL OF COOKERY

Recipes which were offered to housewives who attended the south side classes of the Tribune school of cookery follow:

STUFFED DRUMSTICKS.
2 lbs. veal steak [1¼ inch thick]
Salt and pepper
10 soda crackers
1 tablespoon minced onion
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup milk
¼ cup evaporated milk
Hot water

Cut veal in triangles about 4 inches long. Season and fill with the following stuffing: Crumble 7 crackers and mix with onion, seasoning, melted butter, and fresh milk. Skewer in the shape of turkey legs. Crumble 3 crackers fine. Dip skewered meat in evaporated milk and roll in fine cracker crumbs. Heat fat in heavy frying pan and brown quickly on all sides. Add 1 cup of hot water, cover and cook until tender [40 minutes].

PEAR MERINGUE.
Rounds of sponge cake, buttered
Halved canned pears
1 egg white
3 tablespoons sugar

Grease an oven glass pie plate and lay in it the rounds of buttered sponge cake. Place ½ canned pear, cavity side up, on each round. Put ½ teaspoon of grape jelly in each pear and top lightly with a stiff meringue made of the beaten egg white and the sugar. Set in a slow oven, 300 degrees F., until the meringue and the sponge cake brown.

PINEAPPLE ISLES.
[Quick Dessert.]

Place 6 slices of canned pineapple on a buttered tin. Sprinkle each with a few chopped salted almonds. Add one tablespoon of water to whites of 2 eggs.

Beat very stiff, then beat in 4 tablespoons sugar. Heap in center of pineapple. Bake in slow oven [300 degrees F.] for about 20 minutes until light brown. This equals 6 servings.

SUBGUM CHOP SUEY OR CHOW MEIN.
[Four Portions.]
3 tablespoons vegetable or animal fat
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup water
4 cup fine cut onions [if desired]
1 cup diced raw pork, veal, fowl or sea food
1½ cups celery, cut into small pieces
1 can prepared vegetables, drained
3 level tablespoons corn starch
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon brown sauce or sugar
2 tablespoons soy sauce when using brown sauce. When sugar is used instead of brown sauce, use 2 tablespoons of soy sauce.

1. Heat fat in covered saucepan or skillet over brisk fire, constantly stirring, and cook rapidly until meat is well seared [4 minutes].
2. Add celery and water. Cover and boil until celery is done [4 minutes].
3. Place thickening ingredients in bowl and mix well.
4. Add prepared vegetables, drained, to contents of skillet; mix while heating thoroughly. Take 2 tablespoons of liquid from cooking mixture and stir into thickening until smooth. Add to chop suey, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Remove from fire and serve piping hot.

BEWITCHING SALAD.
2 packages lemon gelatine
2 cups boiling water
1 bottle ginger ale
1 cup finely diced celery
2 cups diced white chicken meat
1 cup chopped blanched nut meats
1 finely shredded sweet pepper
1 cup chopped capers
Juice one lemon

Add gelatine to boiling water and stir until dissolved. Cool and stir in ginger ale and lemon juice. When beginning to congeal add celery, capers, chicken, nut meats, and peppers. Pour into a mold rubbed with salad oil. Chill until firm, unmold, and garnish with whipped cream salad dressing. Serve on crisp lettuce.

CANAPES.
Lobster Paste and Egg Canapé.

Cream together equal parts lobster and butter and spread on bread rounds. Top with sliced hard cooked egg and pimento.

Canapé a la Russe.

Cut bread in rounds or half moons and spread with mayonnaise, chopped egg whites, and minced onion. Cover with mounds of caviar mixed with chopped egg yolks.

Cornucopia Canapé.

Toast bread, cut in finger lengths, spread with mayonnaise and chopped egg yolks. Fold a slice of dried beef into a cornucopia. Fill with onion seasoned cream cheese, and lay on toast.

Anchovy Caper Canapé.

Mix chopped parsley with creamed butter, and spread on bread cut in diamond shape. Center with an anchovy fillet folded around several capers.

Shrimp Canapé.

Mix chopped parsley with creamed butter, and spread on small squares of bread. Top with a shrimp and fill center with seasoned minced egg yolk and pimento.

Sardine Fingers.

Deviled Ham and Stuffed Olive Canapé.
1 can deviled ham
¼ cup chopped nuts
2 tablespoons soft butter
Slices of stuffed olives

Cut bread in thin slices and remove crusts and form into shapes with a cutter. Mix ham, butter, and nuts together and spread on bread. Arrange sliced olives on top.

COFFEE WALNUT CAKE.
½ cup butter
1½ cups granulated sugar
1 cup milk
½ cup cold strong coffee
4 cups pastry flour
4 level teaspoons baking powder
3 eggs
1 pinch salt

Mix the butter, sugar, and salt well. Into this mixture work slowly, one after the other, three whole eggs. When smooth add milk and coffee and, before further beating, sift in flour and baking powder. Mix ¾ cup chopped walnuts with the flour, using ½ cup less flour. Mix smooth as quickly as possible, for excessive beating will result in a tough, heavy cake. Bake in 3 well buttered, layer cake pans for about 20 minutes at 380 degrees F. Spread coffee cream filling between layers and frost with coffee icing. Decorate top with halves of walnuts.

Coffee Cream Filling.
1½ cups sweet butter
1½ cups powdered sugar
2 egg yolks
½ cup strong coffee

Cream butter and powdered sugar well. While mixing add egg yolks and then cold coffee. Beat with wire beater until light and airy. Spread between layers of cake.

ESCALLOPED CORN AND CHICKEN.
2 cups cracker crumbs
2 cups bread crumbs
1 can whole kernel cut corn
2 cups chicken cut in pieces
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon black pepper
Green pepper or pimiento if desired

Soak bread and cracker crumbs in the milk. Mix the corn, chicken, salt, and pepper with the crumbs. Butter the casserole and fill with the mixture. Dot top with butter and bake at 350 degrees F. until firm. Serve at once.

Coffee Icing.
4 cups powdered sugar
1-3 cup strong coffee
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites

Beat on fire, until lukewarm, the powdered sugar, coffee, and vanilla. Add well beaten egg whites. Ice cake while icing is warm.

MOLDED PRUNE WHIP.
1 level tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
¾ cup prune juice
1 cup prune pulp
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
Few grains salt
3 egg whites
1 dozen nuts, chopped

Soak gelatine in cold water about 5 minutes; put prune juice and pulp, lemon juice, and sugar in saucepan, bring to boiling point, stirring constantly. Add soaked gelatine and stir until cool. When mixture begins to thicken fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and turn into wet mold or paper cases. When firm unmold and serve sprinkled with chopped nuts, with or without whipped cream.

CUCUMBER TANG RELISH.
1 package lime gelatine
1 pint boiling water
½ cup sour pickles, chopped
2 teaspoons vinegar
1 cup cucumber, diced
1 cup shredded cabbage

Dissolve gelatine in boiling water. Add vinegar. Chill. When slightly thickened fold in cucumbers, cabbage, and pickles. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Serve as relish or salad with mayonnaise.

COCONUT STRIPS.

Slice bread ¾ inch thick. Remove crusts, and cut in finger lengths. Dip first in sweetened condensed milk, then in shredded cocoanut. Drain and bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees F., 3 minutes, or until light brown.

RIPE OLIVE AND EGG CASSEROLE.
10 crackers
3 tablespoons butter
3 hard boiled eggs
½ cup ripe olives, chopped
¾ cup grated cheese
1 tablespoon minced onion
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk

Crumble crackers and brown lightly in 2 tablespoons butter. Slice eggs. Mix crackers, eggs, olives, cheese, onion, mustard, and salt. Pour into a greased baking dish and cover with milk. Dot with butter and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven, 425 degrees F. Six portions.

HAM AND CAULIFLOWER BAKE.
1 small cauliflower, cooked
12 soda crackers, salted
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup cooked, chopped ham
Salt and pepper
1¾ cups milk

Separate cauliflower into flowerets and crumble crackers. In a buttered baking dish arrange alternate layers of cauliflower, ham, and crackers. Season, dot with butter, and pour milk over all. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees F., 25 to 30 minutes. Six portions.

ICED COFFEE.

Prepare regular strength coffee by your usual method and set in refrigerator for 3 to 6 hours to chill thoroughly. This is preferable to cooling with ice, as there is no dilution of the liquor and the delicious flavor of hot coffee is retained. Cubes of ice may be added to the glasses when the coffee is served. Serve with or without cream, sweetened to taste.

TAKE A TIP FROM OLD MEXICO: TRY A HOT TAMALE!

Make 'Em Yourself; Just Follow This Recipe.

BY PHYLLIS HAMMOND.

Take a tip from old Mexico on these chilly fall days and serve a dish that's as synonymous with bull fights as hot dogs are to football games. For luncheon, when salads and sandwiches begin to pall on the bridge club, try spicy tamales.

Years ago, when the slang expression, "hot tamale!" found its way into being, dusky skinned vendors patrolled the streets with wagon loads of them. Today their popularity has waned, due perhaps to the method of manufacturing for sale purposes. A home cooked tamale, however, is sure to turn out well, when ingredients are pure and unadulterated.

Finds Diamond in Tamale!

All of which reminds me of a true story about tamales. This really happened to a poor lady I once knew. It seemed she had a passion for this particular food and scarcely a week passed wherein she had not consumed at least three or four tamales.

One day while walking through a foreign section of the city, she saw a sign reading, "Pasquales' Tamales—Red Hot!" She purchased one and suddenly upon biting into it encountered something of rocky hardness. It was a diamond, which she sold for quite a few thousand dollars and lived in luxury for the remainder of her days, which was not long, for her taste for highly seasoned tamales grew to such proportions that she became afflicted with stomach ulcers and died within the year.

Try This Recipe.

To make tamales, cook corn meal, rice or any other cereal. Line a corn husk, which has been previously dipped in fat with a stiff dough of meal. Chop your meat finely (it may be beef, chicken, or turkey), add tomato sauce, diced onion and a sliver of garlic. Add chili powder, salt and pepper to taste. Cook this mixture until thick, then place within the husk and steam for half an hour in a shallow covered pan.

Tamales may also be made into balls and cooked in hot fat. Sweet red peppers and olives are other ingredients that often find their way into the recipe.

Household Hints

Regular midmorning and midafternoon lunches for the youngsters who get hungry are better than irregular between-meal eating.

Sweet cucumber pickles will shrivel if the brine is too strong or if too much sugar is used.

Pork Roasts, Smoked Ham Selling at Unusual Prices

In its regular weekly report, issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states: "Housewives of Chicago will find pork shoulder roasts and pork chops unusually economical meat buys over the coming week-end. Pork roasts stuffed with dressing can be served at very low cost at the present time.

"An unusually economical meat buy for Thanksgiving dinner is smoked ham, according to the market reports. Smoked hams are selling at price levels lower than have prevailed for many years and are unusually appropriate for the main dish for an important meal such as the Thanksgiving dinner."

DON'T BE FOOLED! The kind of health and beauty that everyone admires is not the result of fads and trick treatments. The right kind of food is the answer. The right kind of food includes Wonder-Cut Wheat Bread. You'll like it.

WONDER-CUT WHEAT BREAD, the successor to whole wheat, is easier to digest and far more delicious,

THANKS TO BALANCED-BLEND

"FAR better than whole wheat!" "Much more delicious!" "Tastes like cake!" That's what hundreds of local women are saying about Wonder-Cut Wheat Bread. That's what you'll say, too. For no whole wheat bread can equal Wonder-Cut Wheat Bread in flavor, or all-round goodness!

What's the secret? Balanced-Blend! Our perfect blend of stone-ground whole wheat flour and short-patent flour. There are many blends—but only one Balanced-Blend. That's why there is only one Wonder-Cut Wheat Bread.

Ask your grocer for Wonder-Cut Wheat Bread today. Don't make your family eat whole wheat bread "because it's good for them." Give them Wonder-Cut Wheat Bread because it tastes good, too.

Wood Burning Stoves Sought for the Needy

Old fashioned wood burning stoves are wanted for Chicago's needy. This call was issued yesterday by the Rev. Canon David Gibson, pastor of the Episcopal Cathedral shelter, 117 North Peoria street, where 200,000 persons are aided each year. Many are without coal, but they can secure wood, Canon Gibson explained. "No doubt there are many homes where wood stoves have been discarded which we could use right now," he said.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

INSTALLMENT LIX.

THE SPIDER AND THE FLY.

Reason—her husband's reason—reasserted its hold over Connie, who was speedily brought to heel. Impossible now to rely on their old, comfortable method. If they were to lay hands on their fortune they must do so at once, before Miss Bundy fell under her friend's influence. In short, their victim must not leave England alive—and they themselves must manufacture an ironclad alibi to guard against the suspicions sure to fall on them when the astonishing will became known.

The problem bristled with dangers, but Alfred had a stratagem, ready prepared by his own forethought.

In order to prevent Miss Bundy from starting in on the excavation herself he had purposely kept the spirit messages vague, but at the same time he had dangled a tempting bait before her in the promise of a final, spectacular revelation. Occasionally all she got after hours of waiting was something of this nature:

"Must give you the required sign. . . . You must know where to begin digging, otherwise much time and money wasted. . . . Hard, extremely hard. . . . Wait for Easter season . . . full tide . . . Maximum power. . . . Holy week approaches. . . . Afterwards it may be too late. . . . Patience. . . ."

It was this sort of thing which made her reluctant to break off the thread. A month in Rome seemed a calamity; but on the evening after the solicitor's visit she received the following communication:

"March 18th. Carrie, I am pleased with you. . . . Rome, rest—you may yet live to complete work. Also work safe if you do not accomplish in person. However, before you go you must have sign from me. Not in writing. . . . Photograph essential.

"Hill. . . . Ruin. . . . Night. . . . A. T. with camera. . . . Fire picture. . . . Fire. . . . Fire—no, flash . . . flashlight, that is right. . . . Midnight. . . . Supreme test. . . . Try one, twice. . . . First attempt may fail. . . . Ultimate triumph certain with God's help. . . . Now, now is the moment. . . . By this sign. . . . Milleunium inaugurated. . . ."

How she must have stared at these familiar words, known only to herself! Ready now to swallow anything, she wished to try the photographic experiment that very night, but the pouring rain rendered a flashlight impossible. On Thursday evening she was about to slip out to join her friends, when Natasha stopped her—besides, it was drizzling rain. How was she to leave tomorrow with the task undone? It might be she had lost her last opportunity.

The Tilburys, needless to say, were grateful for the intervention of the elements, without which they would have had to risk the flashlight and pronounce it unsuccessful. A hasty seance took place with great secrecy after the household was in bed, and these instructions were issued:

"March 19th. One chance remains to us . . . Friday, tomorrow night. . . . Come back, come back alone—let no one know except A. T. and C. T. Better thus. . . . Conditions ideal, never so good again. . . . The sign will be given you, the Great Being promises. . . ."

Throwing caution to the winds, the infatuated woman asked the Tilburys to help her. She must take this test photograph, but it was unfeasible to remain home another night, since Natasha would be certain to thwart her. The girl suspected something now. She was in league with the doctor, and it was quite impossible to elude her vigilance. Besides, here in plain language were her father's orders: "Tomorrow night—come back alone." That meant her difficulties were foreseen and this was considered the one way out of them. Yet London was a hundred and thirty miles away. How was she to manage the distance four times in a day?

Tilbury, appearing suitably indifferent, studied the timetable. If she really wanted to come back, what about this six-thirty express to Bristol? He could meet her with the car, hurry her here without any one's knowing, and she could reach London again at two-forty a. m.

Yes, she would do it. After all, she was quite fit again now, and what was the loss of a few hours' sleep? The three put their heads together and mapped out the plan.

By teatime, after her departure, Alfred let the whole household know he was afflicted with violent cramps, as, indeed was the case. Since noon he had been swallowing minute doses of oxalic acid, left over from cleaning an old straw hat. From his chemist crony he had learned how much could be taken without serious risk, and the remedy, if things went too far. Chalk—that was the stuff—and he must be careful not to drink anything. The glass of brandy poured for himself he did not touch. Later in the evening he would take a little water, but he must save himself for what he had to do. The effects were superficially similar to those produced by food poisoning.

It was annoying to find Mr. Starkey about to quit the house. He had counted on him as an additional witness—but three would suffice.

At five-thirty Miss Bundy rang through to inquire about the weather, and after her first sentences the connection faded. If he had guessed what she was trying to tell him he might have been frightened to proceed, but as it was he was confidently expected to steal the damaging documents from her and destroy them before morning. The old girl stuck to them like a leech, unwilling to let any one, least of all himself, see what they contained.

He now went to bed, and at eight o'clock had Crabbe and the cook fetched up to see his condition. While they were with him Connie made her pretense of telephoning the doctor, replacing the receiver as soon as she got through. She then switched on the radio to drown the sounds of her next action, which was to get the car stealthily out of the garage and into a well screened spot behind the lodge. This consumed barely five minutes, and when she came upstairs again, the servants suspected nothing.

The instant Crabbe and Mrs. Hickson were safely back in the kitchen, Tilbury dressed with lightning speed and slipping out through the drawing room door drove to Bristol to meet the 8:57 express.

Miss Bundy was waiting as arranged, a short distance from the station, her near sighted eyes peering anxiously into the gloom. With elated triumph she told him how well things had gone; how she had secured a first class carriage to herself and been noticed by no one. Now for the test! Was the camera in readiness? If only the power would prove strong enough to show them what they wanted!

A moment later Tilbury received a staggering blow. She had lost her alligator bag—left it behind in the car. She had searched all over the west end, trying to find Natasha, only to be obliged to give it up.

Here was a predicament! Too late to turn back—the chance would never come again. He said to himself he must get hold of the bag before any suspicion arose, substitute some of old Bundy's letters for its inclosure, and hand the whole thing over to the bank. Unfortunately Miss Bundy neglected to mention the telegram sent to her niece. Her present thoughts were all on the weather. Rain threatened, therefore they must be quick.

The one serious danger was represented by the alligator bag, but if they got hold of it on the excuse of carrying out Miss Bundy's telephoned instructions, there ought not to be any cause for alarm. The thing was locked and they had the key! Connie made inquiries on Saturday and Sunday without success. Alfred, too worried to stay in bed, did the same on Monday, with the results familiar to the reader. When, from Natasha's lips, he learned of her own fruitless search, he was at first aghast, but afterwards concluded that the bag had been stolen in London, and its contents destroyed as worthless.

She did not notice the detour they made from the main road into the lonely waste, in the middle of which something went wrong with the car and she was asked to get out for a moment. The moment had come. Taking from under the seat a heavy coal hammer and passing behind her as she stood by the roadside, Tilbury dealt her a savage blow. Without a sound she dropped, but he was afraid she was not done for. In an hysterical panic he struck at her head again and again.

He dragged the body quickly to the chosen ditch, removed the black bag, wrist watch, and the tiny steel key from its chain, thinking he would need this to open the alligator bag. Heavy drops were now falling—a good thing, for a downpour would eliminate every trace. On the way home he gulped down a final dose of oxalic acid, which took such rapid and dire effect that by 10 o'clock, back in bed, he was racked by agonizing cramps and weak as water from the combination of illness and nervous reaction.

Fighting off approaching coma, he questioned his wife as to how her camouflage had fared. Perfectly, it seemed. When she was not bustling back and forth to the kitchen she was upstairs delivering her carefully rehearsed groans. As was expected, the servants had not come up again. If they had done so, she would have said the ill man was shut in the lavatory.

The doctor arrived in a quarter of an hour, found the patient in the lamentable state already described, and did what he could to relieve his sufferings.

Just before it was light, Connie replaced the car in the garage, cleaned it thoroughly, and burned the black bag with its contents in the lodge stove. The wrist watch she buried deep under a hedge.

He bore with composure the minute investigation of his illness, confident his statement could not be disproved. Three reliable witnesses upheld his alibi, and when, slightly aided by himself, but mainly through an astonishing chain of circumstances, the dead woman's niece was arrested, he began to feel the fates were on his side.

All went smoothly till a fortnight before the trial, when at a chance meeting with the garage employé, Stokes, he suddenly had a terrifying inkling of the truth. Bert was the thief who had taken Miss Bundy's bag! What if the idiot had had sufficient cunning to get rid of the bag but keep the papers? The latter, almost indecipherable, would probably mean little or nothing to him, but he might easily show them to some one cleverer than himself. If so, it meant the gallows for Tilbury, whose one hope of safety lay in securing the manuscript and burning it.

From now on unending torment ensued. To sound Bert on the matter would be an open admission. The boy must not suspect that he had any interest in the bag one way or the other. So far Bert had made no move, doubtless because he was afraid, but if his fears were lulled and a reward offered he might part with his stolen possession. Tilbury, therefore, concocted an advertisement which he inserted in all the daily papers. If caught at the game, no one could criticize his zeal towards solving any part of the murder problem. He took pains to leave a copy of a newspaper, opened at the advertising section, at Saunder's place whenever he dropped in, but in spite of all, Bert remained unresponsive.

Goddard, Mrs. Joseph H. Defres, and Mrs. William D. McIlvaine.

More gayety for the school girls and boys during the Christmas holidays: The University School for Girls will give a dance on Monday, Dec. 26, at the school, 1106 Lake Shore drive, their guests to be boys of preparatory school and early college age; and Miss Harris' school will give a dance the next night, Tuesday the 27th, at the Belden-Stratford hotel for the benefit of the Joint Emergency Relief fund.

Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer [Mary Meeker] telephoned yesterday to ask us to announce that two "Duncan Sisters" will be at the Playhouse tomorrow morning to entertain the children in the audience between the acts of the league's play, "The Secret Garden."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster have gone east for a 10 day stay in New York.

Mrs. William Ernest Walker of 6 Scott street has returned from Geneva, N. Y., where she went to attend the funeral of her friend, Mrs. Henry Martyn Shepard.

Miss Janet Fairbank will depart for New York on Saturday of next week for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Manship.

Arden Shore Luncheon.

The annual luncheon meeting of the Arden Shore association will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the Chicago Athletic club. Mrs. George A. Mason, president for the last two years, will preside for the last time, as Mrs. Kingman Douglass, town chairman of Lake Forest for two years, has been nominated to succeed her as president of the board. Mrs. Mason will be one of the vice presidents.

Arden Shore is one of the few vacation camps open all year round. During the winter the association provides a nutrition camp for 125 boys and during the summer months 2,000 women and children are guests at the camp. Special benefits in addition to regular subscription drives have been held for the first time.

The Lake Forest group recently gave a dance at the Deerpath inn and the other north shore communities are instituting fund raising stunts. The largest affair of the winter benefits for Arden Shore will be the "Shadows of Paris" ball on Dec. 10 at the Stevens hotel.

A group of debutantes and Junior league members will sell flowers at a rose show this afternoon and evening in St. Chrysostom's parish house for the benefit of St. Mary's Home for Children.

The Misses Elizabeth Brawley, Julia Kramer, Dorothy Schmidt, Margaret Sinclair, Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, Mrs. Bennett B. Harvey, and Mrs. John J. Finlay will be among the vendors.

New Orient Society to Meet.

A large and fashionable attendance is expected at the annual meeting and dinner of the New Orient society at 7:15 o'clock this evening in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house. Prof. James H. Breasted will preside and after the dinner there will be a talk by Robert Maynard Hutchins. Henry Field, chairman of the executive committee, will read the annual report.

Margaret Ayer Barnes (Mrs. Cecil Barnes), president of the Society of Midland Authors, will preside at the society's annual dinner this evening at the Hotel Sherman and will introduce Mrs. Mary Hasting Bradley and James Taft Hatfield as the speakers of the evening.

Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at the meeting, with Vincent Starrett as president on the club ticket and William Montgomery McGovern replacing Howard Vincent O'Brien as vice president for Illinois.

The English-Speaking union has cards out announcing a lecture on "The Romance of the English Inn" by Mark H. Haight to be given next Tuesday evening at the Morrison hotel. A collection of colored stereopticon slides and motion pictures will form the background for Mr. Haight's talk, which may stir the wanderlust in his audience, for Miss Telling of the English-Speaking union tells us that he takes his listeners on a complete circuit through East Anglia, the Midlands, North and South Wales, the Shakespeare country, Cornwall and Devonshire, and finally Kent and Surrey.

Program of Renaissance Society.

The November-December program of the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago is a crowded one of art exhibitions, lectures and motion pictures. In chronological order, the first event on the society's calendar is the opening of a series of current talking motion pictures of French producers which the Renaissance is sponsoring jointly with International house. "Le Million," the first of four pictures, is to be shown next Wednesday evening in the new theater of International house.

Members of the Loring school class of 1912 will be allowed to turn the annual luncheon of the school association on Monday at the Cordon club into a celebration of the twentieth anniversary of their graduation. The president, Miss Carine Taylor, has invited Mrs. John McDonald [Camille Henry] to take over the program and to lead her classmates of 1912 into reminiscences of their youth. Photograph albums, class prizes, and other mellowed mementos are to be exhibited.

Your Gift Can Make a Hungry Pupil Thankful

Remember, Holiday Is Only Week Away.

Thanksgiving is only a week away. And with that thought in mind this appeal is directed in the interest of the children in the public schools of Chicago who must go to school hungry every day. As you plan for the usual holiday feast, whether it be elaborate or simple, remember the Hungry School Children's fund and sometime between now and Thanksgiving day send what you can give toward this work.

It doesn't take very much to keep a child from hunger. Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education, who distributes the fund to the school principals in coöperation with a citizens' committee, has calculated that 5 cents will give a young child a substantial meal such as meat and vegetable soup, bread, butter, jam and milk. Fifteen cents will provide an adequate noonday meal for a junior or senior high school pupil.

Let's see how much of a thank offering we can raise between now and Thanksgiving, folks. The fund is already feeding the neediest in 52 schools, and if all of you come to the rescue, it can feed a lot more.

$15.00—G. L. Moore, Reiner Coal Co.
$10.00—Mrs. Frank C. Caine, Mrs. C. W. Rapp, A Friend to Children, Jane B. Abbott, Paul Stern, Anonymous.
$5.00—Billy and Ann Parkes. In Memoriam, Pomfret, Conn., W. C. M., E. M. and A. K. F., L. D. S., In Memory of a Friend, C. M. M., $4.35—Room 1927, Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin.
$3.00—Ella G. Shufelt, D. C.
$2.00—Ruth Derebey, Pinochle club, M. K., Clara S., Vested.
$1.00—"Bridge Savings," T. B. Startsman, A. L. Woody, Anonymous, Anonymous, Myron S. Finkelstein, E. H. S., Warren McRae, S. Rice Jr., Sara Levin.

Lovely Things Mark Annual Guild Display

Needlework and Textile Group Meet.

BY JUDITH CASS.

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Palmer, but every one must check out before she can carry away a package" were the words with which the checker at the door of the Casino stopped Mrs. Potter Palmer yesterday afternoon as she was leaving the annual meeting and exhibition of the Needlework and Textile guild of the Art institute. So Mrs. Palmer had to stop and unwrap her petit point pillow cover and report that it was her own work and that she was taking it home.

The precaution may have seemed like an unnecessary one, for there wasn't any one of the one hundred and twenty-five women at the meeting who would have taken away anything that did not belong to her, but just the same it was a wise one, for in the eyes of the owners each piece of handiwork was as valuable as a precious jewel, and every woman who had an article on exhibition stayed at the affair until she could take away her treasure. After putting hours, in some cases even years, of work into the articles the women weren't going to take chances on leaving them at the club all night.

Gros Point Rug Admired.

And it is no wonder the women prize their finished products so highly, for the things exhibited were so lovely and perfect that it was hard to believe that they had been made by nonprofessionals. It would be impossible to list the entire one hundred articles that were shown yesterday, although we would like to, they all were so exquisite, but perhaps the most admired was the nine by twelve gros point rug that Mrs. Wallace F. Kirk had made. How she could bear to see the women walking on it I don't know, but there it was in the center of the floor for every one to see and to walk upon. It is brown with her coat of arms in the center in French blue and a fleur de lis design around the border in orange.

Mrs. Kent Clow's rug, also done in gros point, that she made for her husband's den, was enthusiastically admired, too. It is a six by nine, made in squares, each square representing some one of the sports that Mr. Clow likes. In the center there is a picture of him [I suppose it is he, although I cannot say it is a perfect likeness] fishing, and the name Clow is on each end of the boat; in the other squares are guns, ducks alive and dead; squirrels, dogs, and other things pertaining to hunting, which must be his favorite sport.

Framed Map Is Interesting.

A framed map that Mrs. Richardson Dunham made was interesting. It is a map of the world, done in wool on canvas, and there is a red line to mark the trip that Mrs. Dunham and Mrs. John W. Gary took in 1930.

Mrs. John Paul Welling exhibited a small rug that was very modern in design, the Palmolive building with the lake and the boulevard with its stop and go lights at the bottom and several airplanes flying above the building.

Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, the president, had on display a stunning pair of petit point sconces, solid wood frames and solid silver bases to hold the candles. Mrs. Moise Dreyfus' display included a wall hanging of old embroidery that she is restoring, a lovely thing and one that to an unskilled eye would seem to present an endless job.

A few of the others who contributed to the exhibit were Mrs. Richard I. Stearns, Mrs. Charles H. Brown, Mrs. Phillip Miller, Mrs. William K. Kenly, Miss Louisa Burrows, Miss Harriet Borland, Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. A. Ballard Bradley, Mrs. Frederick H. Scott, Miss Carol Bush, Mrs. Cyrus Mark, Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. John Coleman Jr., Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. Philo A. Otis, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Mrs. Chauncey Keep, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, and Miss Elizabeth McCormick.

The board of directors as proposed by the nominating committee, Mrs. King, Mrs. Clow and Miss Borland, was selected unanimously. On the board are Mrs. Borland, Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. King, Miss McCormick, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Ryerson, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. Harry Shearson, Mrs. Swift, and Mrs. Barrett Wendell.

Mrs. Shearson was the hostess at yesterday's affair, although she is in New York and so was not there to enjoy her own party. Mrs. Swift and Mrs. Palmer poured at the tea which followed the meeting.

Singing Boys of Vienna in Concert Here

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Of historical as well as musical interest, the Wiener Saengerknaben, or Singing Boys of Vienna, made their first appearance in Chicago at the Blackstone hotel yesterday morning. As an organization, they are several centuries old; as individuals, they average about twelve years. Haydn, Mozart, Schubert, in fact many of the most famous Viennese musicians have at one time and another been enrolled in their numbers, and many have written music which they now sing:

Clad like young sailors, they sang a group of German art songs yesterday morning, then making a change to the white wigs and satins of 150 years ago, they presented Mozart's youthful one act opera, "Bastian and Bastienne." Another change brought them back for a final group of folk songs.

They were directed by Dr. Georg Gruber, their regular musical instructor, at the piano, and showed many evidences of being thoroughly trained. Paying rather more attention to sturdy than dulcet tone in their singing, they nevertheless sang with certainty and a considerable range of expression.

Three colored male choruses, all taking a prominent part in the Chicagoland Music Festival last August, the Umbrian, Federal, and Dett Glee clubs, will appear under the combined name of Umb-Fed-Ett at Orchestra hall tonight in a program of Negro music. Their directors are Elmer A. Simpson and William E. Myricks. Edward H. Boatner will be the soloist and W. E. Gossette the organist.

NOVAES IS SOLOIST

BY HAZEL MOORE.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra program last night was notable mainly for the return appearance of that lovely Brazilian pianist, Guimar Novaes, as soloist. It has been six years since Miss Novaes last played in Chicago and, according to the orchestral records, her only previous appearance with the orchestra was in 1918. The intervals are far too great. Always a great pianist, Miss Novaes would now seem to hold undisputed claim to the title of the greatest woman player of today.

Slimmer and lovelier than of yore, she last night delighted the audience with her superlative playing of Chopin's F minor piano concerto number 2. Her assured good taste and musicianship were splendidly matched by the accompaniment given by Mr. Stock and the orchestra.

The first half of the program was completely devoted to Russian music, of a sort to arouse friendly or bitter intermission comment. Certainly only the friendliest could be accorded the superb performance of Strawinsky's suite from the ballet "L'Oiseau de Feu," and in a lesser degree to the suite from Rimski-Korsakov's "Le Coq d'Or," and Glazounow's "Poeme Lyrique." But controversy raged after the first performance in Chicago of a symphony by a young Russian, Dukelsky. This was accorded the distinction of even a few gentle but heartfelt hisses.

A self-styled modernist who "hates modernism but likes to be modern," Dukelsky is obviously a jazz fan, but as has happened before when the Russian technic avails itself of the jazz idiom, the result is neither jazz nor, one is tempted to say, music. At any rate Mr. Stock supplied an evening of music for all tastes and Novaes answered them all. The program will be repeated this afternoon.

Boy of 18 Loves Woman 29; It Isn't Unusual

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The boy of 18 in love with the older woman. Each boy in this predicament fondly believes he is the only one lucky enough to have discovered a woman who understands him, appreciates him for his true worth. Yet it is the commonest phenomenon known to male youth. Many, many boys go through this first experiment with the opposite sex at the hands of an older woman.

Fortunately for them the gods provide the way out before they have become too hopelessly enmeshed. And the gods usually provide a girl more nearly a contemporary in age, taste, and habits.

So, "Jack," take this love of yours not as a rare experience but as a more or less natural phenomenon of the growing pains of youth. Anyway, don't be so deadly serious about it. A woman of 29 could not seriously consider parading as the catch of her life a simple, gullible boy of 18. She would appear too ridiculous in the eyes of her world. She'd taste some of the opposition meted out to kidnapers generally.

Don't get the idea, "Jack," that all of your relations are trying to withhold the great idyll of your lifetime from your enjoyment. They're simply trying to save you from a situation you'd regret inside of six months, did you marry the woman. An 18 year old boy and a 29 year old woman simply do not conjure up a vision of a happily married pair. But I can't believe the woman is serious unless by marrying you she expects to gain a fortune. Which isn't a pretty thought, if true.

You boys of 18, gone off on the wrong track, romantically speaking, take such an unreasonable stand toward your heretofore loving relatives. You immediately convert them into your worst enemies. They're not. They're still anxious that you keep to the course that is going to bring you happiness. They're not blinded with a foolish schoolboy passion, so they can see with clearer vision just what such an alliance would do.

Lip Coloring Should Match Cheek Rouge

And Avoid That Thick, Pasty Effect.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A point about using the same kind of coloring on lip and cheek is raised by "M. G." She says she uses the same paste for both, but the color does not show identical in both spots. That's because the lips probably have coloring in them, th cheeks none, and naturally there would be a variation in the tone. However, this is unimportant and the use of the same coloring on lip and cheek is still recommended.

Not long ago I saw an illustration of makeup mismatching that was far from beautifying. A lipstick with a definitely purplish cast was used, and the cheeks were obviously colored from an orange toned rouge.

The proper idea is to have cheek and lip of as nearly the same tone of color as possible. At any rate, no disharmony of shades is wanted. One might with great becomingness leave the cheek free of rouge and color the lips a brilliant red. Or one might use becomingly the faintest "glow" on the cheek in company with a warm lip shade. But two uncompromising colors never should be applied in so brief a space as the facial area.

Since lips have assumed their well known frankness of makeup they must be considered the focal point of the makeup ensemble. If the lips are to be brilliant, the cheeks had better not be. They won't be, even though the same paste is used on lip and cheek because the cheek paste is blended in more finely.

In making up the mouth, don't keep the lips closed. Part the lips and cover the under as well as the upper part. The lower lip rarely needs as heavy a coating as the upper. The upper needs more time and calculation to get it completely and neatly covered. Use a bit of tissue and press it on as if you were taking an impression, when you see you have too much lip rouge, and another little bit of tissue or cotton dipped in cream to "trim" the scattered edges.

Don't get a thick, pasty effect. With some lips the liquid rouge works most effectively if applied with a bit of cotton wrapped around an orange stick, allowed to dry and then, if one wants, a paste rouge may be used over this. Be careful with those lipstick shades having orange, blue, or purple tones!

HAWKS WHIP CHAMPION TORONTO SEXTET, 3-1

'END MICHIGAN JINX' IS SLOGAN AT MINNESOTA

Crippled Gophers to Make Last Stand.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 17.—Minnesota stands on Saturday as the last barrier between Michigan and an undisputed Big Ten football championship.

With this objective before the Wolverines, instead of the co-championship shared with Northwestern in 1930, and with Northwestern and Purdue in 1931, there is no expectation here of meeting an overconfident Ann Arbor outfit, although Michigan has taken every contest on its schedule in stride and has been scored against only twice this season. Importance of the fray will send the visitors to battle in a climax of gridiron effort.

Gophers Regain Morale.

Despite odds against them, Minnesota players refuse to roll over and play dead. Recovering from the keen disappointment of defeat at Madison last Saturday in the last thirty seconds of play, Coach Bierman's squad is slowly but surely regaining its morale. Even so, they do not appear to an outsider to be as alert or eager as before the Northwestern game of three weeks ago.

Coach Bernie Bierman is openly pessimistic. That might be expected, for that's the way of coaches. Moreover, he has some reason for his gloom with four regulars on the injured list, and doubt whether they can last a full game.

Minnesota alumni and townspeople equal the Gopher coach in dire foreboding. As one of them chose to express it, "With Michigan's luck, always at its best against us, we'd have to be at least two touchdowns better to win, and it looks as if Michigan were two touchdowns better than we are. That makes four touchdowns."

Wolverines Hold Edge.

Minnesota has not scored against Michigan since 1929. It has not registered victory since 1927. Last year it was Bill Hewitt's 56 yard run around end that was the margin of victory. In 1930, it was Jack Wheeler's return of a punt. In 1929 and in 1928, it was point after touchdown. So in Minnesota minds has grown the feeling that a jinx pursues the Gophers in their contests against the Wolverines. Perhaps the psychology of that feeling helps carry the jinx along.

There have been several notable games in which Minnesota appeared to have the better of the play, but Michigan emerged with the most touchdowns. Neutral observers on those occasions called the Wolverines smart and alert. A few called the Gophers dumb—superior from the shoulders down and inferior from the shoulders up. Whether anything justified such accusations, Minnesota concedes the smartness and alertness of their opponents of Saturday, but dumb is not a word to be used in a visitor's vocabulary here, unless he wishes to be on the defense in a heated argument.

Manders, Lund Among Injured.

Therefore, leaving further evidence on that subject for Saturday, let's look over the physical condition of these Gophers who stand between Michigan and its first unshared title since 1925. That was the year Northwestern downed the Ann Arborites in the mud at Soldiers' field, 3 to 2, but waived all claim to the title because of Michigan's superior record otherwise. You still can provoke an argument with Athletic Director Yost of Michigan if you say "waive" instead of "concede" in this connection.

Half a dozen Minnesota players are below their physical peak. The most important in the Minnesota scheme of things are Jack Manders and Pug Lund. Coach Bierman doubts how long they will last. Athletic Director Frank McCormick, who violates precedent by being an optimist, expects to see Jack and Pug in there most of the afternoon. Manders has a bad knee, Lund a cracked rib. The injuries are not new, but aggravated. Manders' knee, it is related, survives the rigors of ball carrying and blocking, but goes out when he jumps to intercept or knock down passes on defense.

Center Also on List.

In addition to this pair, who do the passing, and Lund the punting, Center Oen has been out of practice most of the week, Quarter Back Griffin is threatened with appendicitis, and Champlin, understudy for either Lund or Griffin, has a yet undefined ailment which produces dizziness. Add a few minor woes and you have the Minnesota gloom almost intact.

In fairness to Michigan this writer agrees to describe Michigan's woes when Coach Harry Kipke and the Wolverines arrive at 9:15 tomorrow morning. Kipke, by the way, is not remiss in that part of a coach's duties.

To provide replacements for either Manders or Lund, various combinations have been tried. As these two do the passing, its hope is to keep at least one in the game all the time. One combination was Manders at half back, with Carl Tengler, a 195 pound sophomore, at full back; Bill Fromtt, a 200 pound sophomore, at the other half position, and Capt. Wally Hass at the pilot's stand.

Expect Crowd of 25,000.

Defeat by Wisconsin and cold weather has cut down heavily the advance sale. A crowd of 25,000 is estimated. It may reach 35,000 if the weather moderates, of which there is

SILVER FOOTBALL.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 17.—Clarence Munn, winner of THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Football in 1931, now one of the freshman coaches instructing Minnesota's 100 yearling gridders, is enthusiastic over the new tokens, white gold footballs of watchfob size, to be awarded each of the Big Ten players named by his teammates as candidate for the major trophy.

Munn, a modest chap despite his honors and his popularity as an undergraduate, said: "That's a fine thing, just a fine thing. You know when I was selected last season, I appreciated it almost more than anything that ever had happened to me in a football way. When I finally came down to earth again I couldn't help thinking a little about the other nine fellows who had played just as hard as I had tried to play during the season, but hadn't won the Silver Football.

"Being selected by your teammates as their most valuable player is a great honor. It's something to remember always, but there's nothing tangible about it to show your grandchildren. If one of those fellows tried to tell about it some 40 years hence, one can almost imagine some precocious youngster exclaiming: 'Grampa is raving again about when he thought he was a big shot in football.' Now he will have the white silver football as proof."

"Where's your Silver Football, up in the attic?" we inquired facetiously.

"No," replied Munn, smiling, "it's over in the little cottage so placed that no visitor can escape seeing it."

Athletic Director Frank McCormick congratulated THE TRIBUNE on choice of emblems for the ten boys. "I'm glad you selected white gold football watchfobs instead of medals," he said. "A boy would hardly care to wear a medal because it would be so conspicuous. A gold football does not offer that objection. The whole idea is commendable. It previously did seem a trifle unfortunate that boys honored so signally by their teammates had no memento to show for it unless they received the Silver Football and of course only one boy could receive that."

Good Weather Promised for Battle with Navy.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Nov. 17.—Lucky Cleveland! Northwestern Ohio is blanketed by an eight inch snowfall, but this metropolis has been protected by kindly Lake Erie just as Lake Michigan has taken care of Chicago. At noon today the temperature was 35 degrees, and brilliant sunshine gave no indication that elsewhere in this state all records for November storms had been broken.

Lucky 55,000 who already have bought tickets to the Notre Dame-Navy football game Saturday! According to the weather bureau the temperature will not fall below freezing, and the worst deal the fans may get at Municipal stadium is the ever present possibility of rain.

At Least 65,000 to Attend.

And lucky Notre Dame, whose home game this is, in theory. The ticket sales now have exceeded the capacity of the Notre Dame stadium, and the fortunate break in weather will bring total attendance to 65,000, if not more. Capacity at Cleveland's lakeside plant is 80,000.

Attendance for the five year series between Notre Dame and the Navy has averaged 70,000. Whether that mark is reached Saturday or not, Notre Dame is off on a final tour which will give it the nation's 1932 attendance record, if not the national championship. The game at Pittsburgh and the impending contests at New York and Los Angeles are other high marks in attendance.

The rival squads of combatants which have stirred up this record enthusiasm in Cleveland, will arrive in the morning within an hour of each other. Coach Hunk Anderson will bring 40 varsity players from South Bend, while Coach Rip Miller, a Notre Dame alumnus himself, will head the midshipmen delegation from Annapolis. Among the middies is Half Back Chung-Hoon, who will lend the oriental color to Saturday's cast. This is all that is needed to complete the melting pot of nationalities supplied by Notre Dame.

Social Demands Are Strenuous.

Navy and Notre Dame will work out tomorrow afternoon. There is no doubt but that the Navy will find time for its final preparations, but Notre Dame may have difficulty fitting its work into a calendar filled with social engagements. No less than seven engagements are on the list, several of which are conflicting. Forty football players can be divided to satisfy all, but Hunk Anderson will have difficulty making the rounds.

The all star attraction is the wrestling bout between George Zaharias and Jumping Joe Savoldi, who two years ago put headlocks and half Nelsons on football players. The management conducting the rassling has arranged for Jumping Joe to do his stuff at 9 o'clock so that the Notre Dame boys will not violate the 10 o'clock retiring rule. It also is intimated that the management has arranged to have the match end abruptly so that there will be a complete performance.

They'll Be Everywhere!

At the same time the Notre Dame team is watching Savoldi, it will be at the Cleveland Athletic club attending an amateur boxing program and it will also be at St. Agnes' church watching other amateur fighters. Just before this demonstration of triple presence the squad will attend the father and son banquet at the Lakewood High school, where Coach Anderson will make a speech. At the same hour the local Notre Dame alumni will entertain the football players at dinner in a hotel, and while these meals are being eaten Mayor Miller of Cleveland, brother of Don Miller, one time member of the Four Horsemen, will entertain Coach Anderson and officials at the Tavern club.

Apparently there will be no competition at the noon luncheon of the Rotary club where Coach Anderson will talk.

The Navy is not being entertained so thoroughly, but it is intimated that the midshipmen will not be thrown out at any of these places if they can identify themselves.

BLACKHAWKS TURN BACK A TORONTO THREAT

W. (The Ole Man) Pegler Eyes the 6, 2 and Even System

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Wizard Football Mentor and Chairman National All-America Football Committee, Inc.]

New York, Nov. 17.—Cohorts of the fighting Crimson and the Blue Bulldog of old Eli expect to see a classic football struggle of historic proportions in the annual epic clash between John Harvard's disappointment crazed moleskin warriors and the equally gloom haunted scions of the bulldog breed in the canine's lair in New Haven Saturday afternoon.

The New Havenites have come to the apex of their long trek to the annual historic classic in good physical shape, with the Cambridgeites also enjoying a minimum of injuries as well. The die is cast, and it is sink or swim now.

Use Nervous System.

It is well known, of course, that Harvard, under the canny tutelage of Eddie (Hurry Up) Casey, is employing the Warner brothers' system on defense this year, but on offense is placing its reliance on a little thing that the canny mentor got up himself. This is known as the nervous system and it places great reliance on the 2, 4, 6, 8 combination in passing plays from a 2, 9, 15 set-up.

It is equally well known that Yale's cohorts have been thoroughly drilled in the intricacies of the traditional Yale cut-back system of attack, running from a reversible spinner formation with a 3, 5, 7, 9 back field array and a weak side threat in the line in the form of a 1, 4, 6, 8 combination.

Coach Mal (Moose) Stevens, the lean panther of the Wabash, has encountered indifferent success at times this season in the use of this delicately timed mode of warfare, and competent observers at the Princeton game noticed that he experimented part of the time with a variation consisting of 2, 0, 3, 7 (if a man's voice answers hang up) in the back field, with Combs in center field and Ruth in right.

Gets Idea from Silent Bob.

The secret of the Yale reversible cut-back, with collar attached if desired, is very simple to explain to the discriminating football observer. It must be kept in mind, of course, that the basic principle of all successful systems is simply power, multiplied by speed and enhanced by thorough grounding in the fundamentals.

With this for the underlying motif the sly ol' panther of the Eli forces created an original formula with something in it of the old diamond back principle originated by Robert C. [Silent Bob] Zuppke, the human clam of the Illinois prairies.

The No. 2 back is supposed to take the opposing tackle; the No. 3 back takes the left guard and the center takes a cigar. On the weak side wing back combination this procedure is reversed slightly and the ends take the No. 3 men in a modified Notre Dame spinner, starting from a short interval in cases where the defense is playing a 6, 3, 4, 5, 9 array to anticipate passes. In this case the team adjusts itself to meet conditions, and the guards take the No. 6 back, some big noisy alumnus takes a belt at a flask, and high-o, the cherry-o, the farmer takes a wife, except on Sundays and legal holidays, when No. 18 does not carry baggage.

Differs with Stagg.

Often during a game the qualified observer will notice that a passing attack coming from an eight man unbalanced kick formation may be met by a masked screen defense in the shape of an inverted letter "o," giving the attacking side a stiff problem to get around the fast roving guards, who are left on the flanks as the shift evolves to cover the development of the opposing strategy.

Authorities differ on this, and with the greatest respect for Mr. Stagg, whom I must say no lover of the game of football holds any dearer than myself as a great leader and inspiration, I must give it as my humble verdict that the changing conditions have called for modernized methods of meeting new situations. That is why my teams may be noticed shifting a little further on some plays as the back field moves up close in a 4, 5, 7, 8 array, with a box defense to smother the opposing field general.

Of course, it would not be proper for me to criticize personally the work of a brother mentor, and I want to make it clear that I have only the highest personal and professional regards for Moose Stevens, especially considering the way his boys came raging back there after the Wildcat upset to tie the roving raiders of Vermont Normal in as pulse stirring a contest as I have seen the Ells play all year.

Must Make System Flexible.

My discussion of the lean panther's mode of combining deception with power and speed simply means that any system which is not flexible enough to freely and quickly allow for emergencies is bound to develop flaws which may require earnest study and painstaking effort in the way of mapping out counter measures, without which the defense may some time be caught unawares.

It is just my personal belief that when a team is playing close in the old fashioned, time honored Jack (Wild Joe) McEwan power formation on a 6, 4, 3, 5 basis, with the wing backs covering the flat zone, too much stress is placed on the difficult job of that quarter back's getting over there to break up the combination before it can get under way. That is one of the reasons why my analysis of the historic classic between the chagrin harried hosts of the Crimson and the oft baffled Bulldogs assures me of a clean, hard fought contest from the opening whistle to the closing gun, with the breaks probably deciding the game, and no great margin of superiority one way or the other.

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

DISAGREEMENT over rental terms between the Chicago Stadium corporation and the Chicago Blackhawks threatens financial ruin to both organizations.

The hockey team, playing its home games at the Coliseum, last night was host to the Toronto Maple Leafs, National league champions. The attendance was less than 3,000. The management lost money. You can't operate a big league hockey team successfully with crowds of that size.

Meanwhile Chicago Stadium, with the finest hockey layout in the country, was dark. You can't operate a building successfully without tenants who pay their rent.

Maj. McLaughlin is a business man. So are the directors of Chicago Stadium. But even a sports writer can see that Mr. McLaughlin and the Stadium leaders are going nowhere fast.

Maj. McLaughlin is responsible more than any one else for the development of hockey's popularity in Chicago. He pioneered the game. Attendance mounted from 5,000 at the Coliseum to 15,000 at the Stadium.

The Blackhawks need the Stadium. The Stadium needs the Blackhawks. It looks like neither can survive alone.

Why not get together to save hockey and protect yourselves?

Boxing and wrestling in Illinois have attracted approximately 925,000 spectators since the first legalized card was presented at Comiskey park on July 3, 1926, when Sammy Mandell whipped Rocky Kansas for the lightweight boxing championship. Taxes, license fees, and other revenue derived from the two sports total $977,400. Net profit to the state treasury is $582,558.

These figures are based on statistics which will be submitted to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson on Dec. 1 by the Illinois athletic commission.

The Gene Tunney-Jack Dempsey heavyweight title bout at Soldiers' field in September, 1927, established a record in attendance and receipts. It enriched the state treasury by $241,659.43.

Since the present commission, consisting of Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman, and George Getz and Fred Gardner, took office in 1929, revenue from boxing and wrestling has amounted to $455,921.84 and expenditures $249,264.53. Net profit to the state is $206,657.31.

The fiscal year of Dec. 1, 1931, to Dec. 1, 1932, will show an attendance of 50,000 at the two sports. Financial returns, in round figures, will be $78,000. Expenses have been $56,000, leaving a profit of $22,000.

1926	$ 54,347	$ 19,207	$ 34,940
1927	359,633	52,638	306,995
1928	107,700	73,632	34,067

Illini Plan to Stop Passes, Beat Buckeyes

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The Illinois football squad, after working indoors two days, emerged today to practice on the stadium field which had been cleared of its blanket of canvas and snow.

The Illini went through a brisk drill, their last prolonged one before they close the season against Ohio State here Saturday. The field was in good condition and this permitted Coach Zuppke to send three freshman teams, tutored in Buckeye plays, against the varsity in actual scrimmage. Zuppke spent much time on a defense against the Buckeye passing combination, Hinchman to Gillman, which is expected to be troublesome.

No Change in Back Field.

Offensively the Illini seemed none the worse for their confinement of two days. With Jack Beynon calling signals and punting along with John Snook, full back, and Berry and Froschauer at half back, the back field combination remained the same as against Indiana.

However, Jack Craven, sophomore half back; Pete Yanuskus, veteran, who will play his last game, and Herm Walser were all used, indicating they will be back field possibilities at some time in the game.

Howard Johnson, regarded as one of the most promising freshman guards last year, who has been held back by disabilities, is a prospect to start against the Buckeyes. Ack Bodman is a probable starter at right guard. Zuppke contemplates using Chuck Bennis also.

OHIO TO START SMITH.

Columbus, O., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Following a brief signal workout today, 41 Ohio State players, coaches, trainers, and managers entrained for Champaign, where Saturday the annual contest with the Illinois eleven will be played.

Coach Williaman probably will start Jack Smith at right half in place of Bill Carroll, holding the latter until actual scoring power is needed. Smith and Greenberg have been working in the position during the week more than Carroll.

The remainder of the starting lineup will see Padlow and Gillman at ends, Rosequist and Conrad at tackles, Varner and Gallus at guards, and Smith at center. In the back field Capt. Hinchman will be at left half, Vuchinich at full back, and Oliphant at quarter.

ENDS—Padlow, Wilson, Ferrall, Cox, Gilman, and Sylvestro. TACKLES—Rosequist, Conrad, Monahan, Yards, Johnson and Theis. GUARDS—Varner, Gallus, Lake, Diehl, Allen, and Tanski. CENTERS—R. Smith, Delich, and G. Kakesto. HALF BACKS—Hinchman, Carroll, Keefe, Greenberg, Jones, and J. Smith. FULL BACKS—Vuchinich and Wetzel. QUARTER BACKS—Cramer, Oliphant, Drakulich, and McAfee.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago hockey fans, who last night stayed away from the Coliseum in droves, today can rue their absence, for the Blackhawks trimmed the world champion Toronto Maple Leafs, 3 to 1, in as rousing a game as you'll see all year. Fewer than 3,000 saw the splendid spectacle.

Two of the Hawks' goals came in the second period. Each team scored in the final period. The first Chicago marker was rung up by Paul Thompson at the outset of the second session, following assists by Johnny Gottselig and Lola Couture. Some fourteen minutes later Doc Romnes registered after assists by Vic Ripley and Musn March.

A goal by Gracie on a pass from Blair threw on the tension a third of the way through the third period, but the strain was relieved when Donnie McFadyen, former Shamrock, making his bow as a big leaguer, took a pass from Tommy Cook and banged it right where he was aiming.

Give Gardiner Protection.

The victory was won by the valiant efforts of the Hawks rather than by any slumping on the part of the champions. The miracle line of the Leafs, Charley Conacher, Harvey Jackson, and Joe Primeau never played harder, but Goalie Chuck Gardiner was able to stand off the best they had to offer. It should be said, though, that Chuck had plenty of protection, for the Hawk defense was knocking down everybody in sight and the offense took over a lot of swell defense business on its own.

It was the first victory for the Chicagoans in three games played. It also was the first defeat for Toronto. Each team now has won one game, tied one, and lost one.

The Hawks last night scored one more goal than the total of their earlier pair of games. It also was a rich night for the personal records of the Hawks, for with the three goals went five assist points. In their first two games only two points had been credited to the personal records of the Chicagoans.

The scoreless tie which accrued from the first period was a proper reward for the respective threats, though both outfits fought hard enough in trying to break the deadlock.

There were some hard, accurate shots, notably two by Gottselig for the Hawks, and by Conacher and Day for the champions. But these were without deception and involved no great gymnastics by the goalies to effect the saves.

Gardiner Recovers in Time.

The real scare for the Chicago partisans came after 17 minutes of play. Doraty, the very rapid rookie winger, whanged one which was knocked down by Gardiner. Chuck, however, momentarily lost sight of the vagrant rubber as it nestled near one of his skates. With Gracie rushing for him a mile a minute, he located the puck and shoved it to safety with a millionth of a second to spare.

Business picked up in a great way just as soon as the opening faceoff in the second period had been completed. Though the fight was on instantly, the Hawks required a whole minute and 20 seconds before they could get the puck in the net.

Clancy had retrieved the disk in one of the Maple Leafs' corners, but Gottselig was checking him. He finally passed the puck out on the ice, but to Couture instead of one of his associates. Lola passed to Gottselig and Johnny slid the puck so that it came to a stop about six feet in front of the goal and a bit to Goalie Chabot's right. Thompson pounced on the rubber and had it tangled in the net before Chabot could get set.

Two Get Assists.

That made the score 1 to 0 for the Hawks and rang up a point each in the offense records of Gottselig and Couture for assists as well as the marker that Thompson got for his alert procedure.

You may be sure that this tie breaking goal stirred Toronto to furious efforts. The bearing down became especially spirited when Graham was bounced off for charging. Cotton into

TAMBOUR SCORES SECOND VICTORY AT BOWIE TRACK

Beats Risque, Con Amore in the Mud.

Bowie, Md., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Preston M. Burch's four year old filly, Tambour, won the Rose Will purse, feature race at Bowie today, by three-quarters of a length. Mrs. John D. Hertz's Risque was second, and J. W. Y. Martin's Con Amore third, seven lengths back.

Con Amore Goes to Front.

Tambour, destined for large winter stakes, and which won her previous start here, never was extended. Con Amore led to the first turn, where Risque took the pace. Risque was passed by Tambour at the eighth pole. Tambour's time for a mile and 70 yards was 1:46. The winner, which was ridden by Buddy Hanford, paid $3.70. The race was for fillies and mares and was run on a muddy track.

The Sage stable's Blondish won the sixth race by a half length in the best finish of the day. Haggerson was second and Happen third, a length apart. The early leader, Butter Beans, tired when Happen and Haggerson challenged. Blondish was passing horses easily in the stretch. The time was 1:49 3-5 for one and one-sixteenth miles. The winner paid $22.30.

Flamborough Is Victor.

The Belair stud's Flamborough won the Ravenswood purse, fifth race, for two year olds, beating J. E. Hughes' Silent Shot by half a length.

WestSuburban Matches End C.Y.O.Trials

The preliminary round of the second annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament ended last night at Fenwick High school, Oak Park, where eight west suburban champions were crowned. There were 12 knockouts.

The eight champions now make a total of 128 youths who have qualified for the quarter finals which will be held next week, the first at De La Salle in Joliet on Monday, and the West, South and North sections later in the week at the C. Y. O. center. The semi-finals and finals will be held on Dec. 2 at the Chicago Stadium. Last night's results:

DE PAUL DRILLS ON DEFENSE FOR NORTH DAKOTA

De Paul university players worked long and arduously on defensive formations in yesterday's scrimmage for the homecoming game Saturday against the University of North Dakota at Loyola stadium.

The De Paul coaches spent considerable time with Hal Cherne yesterday, preparing him against Meinhover, Dakota's giant tackle. Cherne is the heaviest man in the Blue Demon lineup, but will be outweighed 45 pounds by his 260 pound opponent.

K. of C. League Adopts Rules for Faster Basketball

Basketball rules of last season, minus the so-called ten-second and three-second changes, will be used when the Knights of Columbus league opens play Sunday with 16 games in four sections at Loyola gymnasium, Calumet High school, White City and the West Side clubhouse.

Walter F. Terrell, president of the league, explained the stand:

"Our league experimented with the changes and found that they caused confusion not only among the spectators, but also among players and officials. Instead of speeding up the games, they caused far more whistle-blowing. The pivot play, which the three-second rule was supposed to eliminate, has been developed to a high point in our league, and we have never had any difficulty with stalling or lack of action.

"We didn't think that new rules were needed, but we gave them a try-out any way. Our experience leads us to believe that they will not work and will quickly be abandoned."

Thirty-six teams, made up of former college and prep stars, will compete in the league this season.

Robin Hoods Stalk Bucks with Arrows

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Blaney, Mich., Nov. 17.—High powered rifles are booming up here in the upper peninsula deer country. But within the boundaries of the 6,000 acre archery preserve set aside especially for archers who want to hunt buck deer, we have found a small group of sportsmen who are using only heavy osage orange bows and steel tipped arrows.

There are four of these modern Robin Hoods toting the ancient style of weapon as they still hunt in the fresh snow. They are Capt. O. E. Marvel, former army officer; Frank W. Mosher, Edward Pottruff of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Monroe Merrill of Pontiac, Mich.

Arrows Are Steel Tipped.

With quivers of 28 inch steel tipped arrows hanging from their shoulders and carrying bows ranging from 45 to 62 pounds in "pull," these archers, with whom we have been hunting for several days, present a striking contrast in hunting methods as they work through the 6,000 acres of deer country, from which all rifle shooters are barred.

Overhead roars a fast single motored plane on patrol. The pilot is watching for poachers. Several times during the day he skims low over the tree tops as he follows the boundary lines of not only the archery preserve but some 16,000 additional acres in the hunting area. Amid the crack of modern rifles in the country nearby, the airplane overhead and automobiles whizzing by on M77 and U.S.2, are four hunters in an ultra-civilized setting taking us back to pioneer days and Indians.

Although the archers haven't downed a buck as yet, they have had several chances, proving that the bow and arrow not only is a fascinating and extremely sporty method to hunt deer but also practical if the user knows how to get around in the woods and outwit his quarry. The sportiness of the weapon is found in the fact that the archer must get much closer to his deer than the rifle hunter. This means real hunting.

Nick One Young Buck.

On the first day Pottruff nicked a young buck, which rose up from the snow within shooting range. But the animal was in the brush and apparently the arrow was diverted by a branch. The following day another surprise shot, which came when he was out of position sitting on a stump, was ineffective.

Mosher, waiting near a deer trail, had similar bad luck when a buck came up from behind him and cross wind, stopped within easy shooting range (30 yards or so), and then bounded away before he could swing his heavy bow. However, it looks as if the bucks were going to fall because there is expert shooting skill and tremendous power in the bows of this hunting quartet. At 40 or 50 yards the steel tipped arrows have both penetration and shocking power.

Conditions are ideal in the north woods this year because the entire country has been blanketed by five or six inches of snow. It is one of those fluffy, cottony snows and has covered the spruces, balsams, cedars, and other conifers with a white mantle. Standing in a cedar swamp yesterday afternoon when the snow flakes were swirling through the trees, a little fawn was watching us as we "talked" to it. We felt Santa Claus and his reindeer would appear any minute.

Wabash-De Pauw Winner Will Get Locomotive Bell

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A locomotive bell mounted on a wagon, symbolic of a gridiron rivalry which is the oldest west of the Allegheny mountains, will go to the winner of the annual Wabash-De Pauw football game Saturday at Greencastle. Frank Lesis, general superintendent of the Monon railroad, contributed it today. It has seen service on a train that passes through Crawfordsville and Greencastle on the same Monon route used by student bodies of the two schools for generations. At the close of the game the winning eleven will assume custody of the bell and retain it until the other team is victorious on the gridiron.

The bell is expected to assume a significance comparable to the Old Oaken Bucket, for which Indiana and Purdue struggle each year; the Little Brown Jug, cherished memento of Minnesota-Michigan rivalry, and other symbols of gridiron supremacy.

TUG WILSON IS RE-ELECTED BY KILDEER CLUB

Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, athletic director of Northwestern university, was reelected president of the Kildeer Country club last night at the annual meeting of the club at the North Shore hotel in Evanston. Other officers for the coming year include Robert H. Koeppe, vice president; Homer D. Linginger, treasurer, and A. E. Belmes, secretary.

The 1933 season will mark Wilson's third term as president of Kildeer. The club closed the recent season in good financial condition, with no special assessments in view, and a membership of 413.

It's Bennett vs. Everett Again Tonight

Buck Everett, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, and Biff Bennett of Fort Sheridan, Ill., will meet in a 10 round bout at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. Bennett will attempt to avenge a defeat by Buck on the north side a year and a half ago, when they were starting as professionals.

Since that match Bennett has improved his hitting and boxing. But so has Everett. Buck is boxing better at present than at any time in his career.

Buck Has Winning Habit.

Bennett, who is a hard right hand hitter, is receiving a chance to break into the heavyweight picture if he beats Everett. Promoter Grant Kromenaker has been assured by Jack O'Keefe, manager of Tuffy Griffith and Jack Roper, that Roper will battle the winner of the bout tonight. He also said that Griffith is willing to fight at the Fronton after the contest with John Schwake at St. Louis on Nov. 28.

Gill Battles Mendoza.

Eddie Gill, St. Charles, Ill., middleweight, faces Joe Mendoza of the south side in the six round semi-windup. Another six round contest and three at four rounds will complete the program.

Eddie Shea, south side featherweight, may get his third chance at a championship when he meets Tommy Paul, recognized as division titleholder by the National Boxing association, at White City next month. Shea lost opportunities to win the bantamweight title from Charley [Phil] Rosenberg and the junior lightweight crown from Kid Chocolate. Paul has accepted terms to box Paul Dazzo or Jackie Sharkey at White City next Friday in an overweight match. Eddie refused to consider the bout with Tommy unless Paul defends his claim on the title. Paul's manager indicated yesterday that he is willing to allow Tommy to face Shea at the title weight.

Earl Mastro, Chicago featherweight, said last night that he will make a comeback early next year, after his contract for stage work with Fanchon and Marco is completed. Mastro, who left last night for St. Louis, will return next Friday.

The St. Philip High school boxing team will meet the Catholic Youth organization squad of St. Alphonsus at St. Philip's gymnasium next Friday. St. Philip boxers have had three shows this season and, judging from the attendance at each, boxing is proving as popular an interscholastic sport as any other. The St. Alphonsus team has a following. There are some good fighters on the squad. St. Philip boxers have been in two interscholastic contests without a defeat. The winners in bouts with Our Lady of Angels team recently will battle St. Alphonsus.

The Young Stuhley-Sammy Mandell bout at Clinton, Ia., has been set back to Nov. 25. Stuhley will arrive from Kewanee, Ill., next Tuesday to finish training at the Arcade gymnasium. . . . Ace Hudkins and Wesley Ketchell have started drills for their match at Los Angeles, Cal., on Nov. 29. . . . Charles Hall, head of the Coliseum Athletic club, has appointed Tommy Ford matchmaker for the first show at the Coliseum on Dec. 9. The date for the show was announced as Dec. 8, but the Blackhawks and Detroit Red Wings have a hockey engagement on that night. . . . Harry Paul, Philadelphia middleweight, is en route to Chicago, after a three weeks' rest. . . . Curtis Brown, Milwaukee lightweight, has had his hand placed in a cast. . . .

Don Gonzales boxes at Cleveland on Dec. 6. . . . Three matches at 10 rounds each are being arranged at Detroit next Friday. Charley Retzlaff faces Frankie Wine, Charley Belanger clashes with Billy Jones, and Eddie Koppy meets Maxie Strub.

INDIANA GAME NEARS AND OAKEN BUCKET IS SAFE!

Purdue Puts Trophy Under Lock and Key.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The Old Oaken Bucket is safe and sound, even though the annual battle for the trophy between Indiana and Purdue is only two days away. A check-up today revealed that the ancient bucket, which almost annually has disappeared mysteriously and as mysteriously reappeared later, is safely housed in the Purdue university vault awaiting the outcome of Saturday's game which will determine its home for the coming year.

After losing the bucket to Indiana in 1930 and finally regaining it in 1931 with the aid of a 19 to 0 victory and a corps of detectives, Purdue authorities have taken no chances with the trophy this season. Except for special occasions when it has been on display the bucket has been securely locked away from the sticky fingers of collegiate football fans.

Squad Works Inside.

Assured of the safety of the bucket, Purdue's football squad settled down to work this afternoon inside the armory, where Coach Noble Kizer handed out a light polishing off offensive drill. Unseasonable weather conditions, with snow covering the practice field, made outdoor drill impractical. Kizer was worried by the prospect of a muddy field and the lack of firm footing for the backs, especially in view of the 200 pound line that the Crimson will offer.

A crew of 50 men who spent most of the day cleaning the snow off the seats in the Ross Ade stadium and removing the snow from the field tarpaulin had the most strenuous workout of the day. The tarpaulin was removed from the soggy playing field along with all the snow early today, but was replaced tonight as a protection against the ground freezing.

HOOSIERS FIGHT FOR POSITIONS.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Indiana football men today went through a stiff dummy scrimmage in preparation for their annual battle with Purdue at Lafayette Saturday. After the letdown of last week-end, the Hoosiers have snapped out of it this week and a battle for first string berths has been waged in practice.

Sprauer performed so well at center that he may start against Purdue. However, the fight is virtually a tossup with the veteran Spannuth, and both men are likely to see action. Veller, Dauer, Sawicki, and Jones formed a back field which worked on defensive plays for Purdue's running and passing attack, while Edmonds, Opasik, Saluski, and Babb executed offensive plays. Practice was held indoors because of snow and rain.

SCOTCH—both leather and price!

$5.00

They've all gone Scotch this Fall—all the schools, colleges, and universities. By actual checking of stadium entrances at the most important football games this season—by far the popular style among students is the Scotch grain shoe.

Douglas knew "Scotch Grains" were coming. With the American dollar worth 30% more than normal in exchange for the English pound sterling, we have been buying heavily from Martin of Glasgow, the famous Scotch tanners, universally recognized makers of the world's finest grain leathers.

That's why we can offer you values that would have been absolutely impossible a year ago—why Douglas shoes in this much-wanted style are so cannily Scotch—in price as well as leather.

STAGG ORDERS VICTORY MARCH FOR BIG 10 EXIT

But There's Chance the Badgers Won't Agree.

One final upset for Wisconsin and the rest of the Big Ten to remember him by is the goal of A. A. Stagg for his valedictory game as Maroon coach at Stagg field Saturday.

Yesterday, however, he was more concerned with keeping the picture of Mickey McGuire or Marvin Peterson from galloping through his own memory. For the second day this week he took his team outside and sent them charging down the field under punts. Last year it was McGuire who was instrumental in giving Wisconsin a close victory over the Maroons by his running back of kicks.

Drill on Pass Defense.

The cheerfulness of the Maroons actually derives from a sincere belief that they can lick Dr. Spears' made-over Badgers. Comparative figures on the games which both teams have played against Illinois and Purdue give the Madison team a heavy advantage. Purdue beat Wisconsin by one point and then proceeded to wallop the Maroons by 27 points. Illinois beat the Maroons by six points and then lost to Wisconsin by eight points.

Maroon enthusiasts point out that Purdue made more yardage against Wisconsin than it did against Chicago and that the Maroons would have defeated Illinois by about two touchdowns had Pete Zimmer been in the game, as he will be tomorrow.

Will Badgers Let Down?

Though the Wisconsin team will be fired with a desire to make Dr. Spears' return to the conference the sensation of the season, a let down from their great game against Minnesota, plus a touch of overconfidence, might operate against the Badgers in favor of Chicago. The Maroons will have as much win for the coach spirit as any team ever had.

Improvement in the Maroon offense is certain to result from the fact that Stagg this week has had all his backs working in their regular positions. The attack has been slowed up and the blocking has been ragged in the last two games because the available backs, due to injuries, had to take unfamiliar posts in an offense that requires precision. During the week Stagg has added several plays to the team's repertory, which may catch the Badgers flatfooted.

Remember That 1899 Game?

Should the Maroons win, the victory would be at least as gratifying to Stagg as the famous Chicago-Wisconsin postseason game of 1899 which decided the championship of the west. Despite the presence in the Wisconsin lineup of Pat O'Dea, probably the greatest kicker the game has ever developed, and the fact that field goals then counted as much as touchdowns, the Maroons won the game, 17 to 0, and with it their first title.

Always an occasion for a certain raucous collegiate exuberance, the Wisconsin game will be fairly well attended. General admission tickets in the west stand will go on sale before the game at $1.10. Chicago's sharp reduction in ticket prices, which has been emulated at other schools in recent weeks, is now regarded on the Midway as having been a wise move.

Tonight the Maroon fieldhouse will be the scene of a pre-game pep session, which will be climaxed by the annual appearance of the most promising freshmen talent in their "Yale-Harvard" game.

BADGERS TRY EVERYTHING.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Wisconsin practiced a little of everything pertaining to football this afternoon in the last heavy workout for the game with Chicago Saturday. After a short session of signal practice tomorrow the Badgers will leave Madison at 3 p. m. to play the last game of the season at Stagg field.

Today's training program was long but not strenuous. Coach Spears halted all scrimmage plays before ball carriers reached the secondary defense. He took no chances of exposing the players to injury.

Offensive training consisted chiefly of trick plays in which all men were given individual coaching. A half dozen new plays were given the squad to think over and digest before the kickoff Saturday. These are of a complicated nature intended to bewilder the Maroons. The greatest attention was centered upon pass defense.

Team in Good Condition.

With the exception of two regulars, the Wisconsin team will be in good physical condition. Harold Smith, full back, still suffers from a muscle bruise which may fade away before Saturday. David Tobias, tackle, has an arm injury from which he has been recuperating since the Minnesota game.

Ten members of the Wisconsin delegation to Chicago will play their last conference game Saturday. They are Capt. Greg Kabat, left guard; Frank Molinaro, left tackle; Mickey McGuire and Joseph Linfor, half backs; William Koenig, center; George Thurner and David Tobias, tackles; Nello Pacetti, quarter back, and John Schneller and Ralph Lovshin, ends.

Wisconsin coaches hope there will be sufficient inspiration in the ten Badgers who will be playing their last game to offset the psychological slump following the Minnesota game.

Coach Spears Addresses Badger Alumni Tonight

The annual football dinner of the University of Wisconsin Club of Chicago will be held at the Hamilton club this evening at 6:30 o'clock. The program includes talks by Coach Dr. Clarence Spears of Wisconsin's football team and James Weber Linn of the University of Chicago.

SOCCER TEAMS MEET.

Teams of the German-American Athletic association and Czecho-Slovak Soccer Football league will meet at the Schwabenfield, California avenue and Roscoe street, next Thursday. Junior teams of both organizations will play a preliminary game.

N. U. Out to Show It's Good Team Despite Four Defeats

Whether or not Northwestern should rate as a tail-end team in the Big Ten conference will be determined at Dyche stadium tomorrow when the Wildcats meet Iowa in the season's closing game.

The Purple eleven has a spotty record to show for its campaign against the Big Ten's best teams, and there is controversy on the question if it is better than its showing. Four defeats, three of them from conference schools, are on the books for the team that had lost only one game to Big Ten opponents in 1930 and 1931. The high spot on the Wildcat record this year is the 7 to 7 tie with Purdue.

Oddly enough, Purdue has been the only team to outplay Northwestern decisively. On statistics and in the general run of the game Purdue was far superior to Northwestern, while the Wildcats outgained Michigan and played Minnesota about even.

Iowa Sees Chance to Win.

Iowa has not won a game in the Big Ten since 1929. The touchdown the Hawkeyes scored on Minnesota recently was their first against a conference team in three years.

Tomorrow, however, Iowa sees an excellent chance to break into the win column in the final standing. With a new coach, Ossie Solem, and a team that has been developing power week by week, its hopes are high. The Hawkeyes' confidence was increased with the knowledge that Capt. Ernest [Pug] Rentner would not play.

Coach Dick Hanley has been schooling Harry Leeper, Rentner's successor, in the art of batting down or intercepting opponents' passes. Last night's drill went into this phase of the game intensively.

Olson Gives N. U. Edge.

There are a number of factors that will tend to throw the odds to Northwestern in this game, of which Ollie Olson's kicking is probably the biggest. Despite having one kick blocked in last Saturday's game with Notre Dame, Olson managed to build up an average of 40 yards. His first half average was 44 yards.

The best punter Iowa has to compete with Olson is George Teyro. Olson's big difficulty has been the fact that, after he places his punts far down the field, the receiver has been able to get away for a long return.

The probable Northwestern starting lineup will see Manake and Fencl at the ends, Heuss and Gonya at tackles, Dilley and Kawal as guards, MacDonald at center, Potter at quarter back, Sullivan and Leeper the half backs, and Olson at full back.

It Is a Lightweight Team.

This is a light lineup, for there isn't a man in the list who comes within ten pounds of 200. Fencl and Sullivan both weigh less than 170, Leeper, Olson, Kawal, Dilley and Manske all weigh in at about that figure, and Gonya, at 190, is the heaviest.

With a cut in the admission price admitting persons to a section of the west stands and high school students to the upper deck, it was estimated yesterday that 25,000 will attend tomorrow's game.

LAKE FOREST TO LOSE GUARD FOR AUGUSTANA GAME

John Ashton, veteran guard on the Lake Forest college football team, will be out of the lineup in the Augustana game tomorrow at Rock Island, Ill. Ashton is recovering from an appendix operation at the Alice Home hospital. Ashton was the outstanding lineman on the Lake Forest team for three years. He also is basketball captain.

"Punk" Bonnie, regular tackle, also may be out of the game with Augustana because of a sprained back.

EXPECT 10,000 TO SEE BATTLE FOR PREP CROWN

Morgan Park, Englewood to Clash Tomorrow.

A capacity crowd of 10,000 is expected to watch Englewood play Morgan Park for the Chicago Public High School league football championship at White City stadium, 63d street and South Park avenue, tomorrow afternoon. More than 15,000 jammed Mills stadium to see Harrison Tech defeat Schurz in last year's final game.

While several schools reported poor attendance at their games this season, Englewood and Morgan Park, in their drives to sectional titles, attracted good crowds at all their league contests. The crowd expected at tomorrow's game will be the smallest to witness the title battle in several years.

Bowlin Misses Drill.

Morgan Park, its practice curtailed because of snow and a muddy field during the early part of the week, went through a short drill yesterday afternoon. Capt. Dick Bowlin, star left half back, again was absent. According to Dr. Russell Robinson, Bowlin is suffering from an ear infection, but will be able to play tomorrow. It will be Morgan Park's first appearance in a title game.

Englewood's speedy back field, composed of Capt. Pete Rozgus, diminutive quarter back; George Appel, veteran full back; Steve Garbier, right half back, and George May, left half back, went through an hour's signal drill at Normal park. Because of the muddy condition of the field scrimmage was not ordered by Coach Chuck Palmer.

The stands at White City are expected to be filled also on Sunday, when Mount Carmel meets St. Mel for the Chicago Catholic High School league championship. Mount Carmel, defending champion, because of its brilliant record in qualifying for the finals, will rule the favorite over St. Mel, which will appear in a title game for the first time in its history.

Mount Carmel Undefeated.

The unbeaten York squad, 1930 champion, is expected to regain the West Suburban league title when it meets West Chicago at Elmhurst tomorrow. Led by Capt. Voelz, full back, and Bob Kennedy, quarter back, York has scored three victories and was tied twice.

Carnera Picks on a Man His Size Tonight

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The two largest heavyweights in the boxing business—Primo Carnera and Jose Santa—will launch themselves upon each other tomorrow night in a ten round match in Madison Square Garden.

For the first time in his rambling career Carnera must make physical concessions to an opponent. Santa, discovered in Portugal after Carnera started the craze for supersized gladiators, is 6 feet 8 inches tall.

Carnera stands a mere 6 feet 6½ inches, but he makes up this disadvantage by outweighing the Portuguese 260 pounds to 251. Otherwise their fantastic measurements are almost the same, including items such as 84 inches of reach for Carnera and 83½ for Santa.

Santa has been thumped around considerably and his crowning achievement was a six round knockout of Hans Birkie, the durable German. Carnera, who fought his best engagement in knocking out Victorio Campolo in two rounds in the Garden two years ago, has done little since Jack Sharkey walloped him in the summer of 1931.

Sullivan, Von Steuben Tie in Junior Prep Swim Meet

Sullivan and Von Steuben each scored 21 points to tie for first place in the third annual junior high school swimming championship meet at the Lincoln Turner society pool, Sheffield and Diversey avenues yesterday. Amundsen was third with 13, while Parker finished fourth with 10 points. Three meet records were broken.

Entry List for Dog Show Passes 1,000

There will be 16 different classes—bull terriers, wire and smooth fox terriers, Boston terriers, bulldogs, collies, Irish terriers, chows, Scottish terriers, cocker spaniels, Pomeranians, Doberman Pinschers, Pekingese, springer spaniels, pointers and setters, German shepherds, and Great Danes.

Some of the nation's most prominent judges will pass on the merits of the dogs. They are: Bulldogs, Frank Addyman, Ardsley, N. Y.; bull terriers, Arthur Gale III., St. Louis, Mo.; collies, Horace G. Lepman, Chicago; cocker spaniels, Townsend Scudder, Glenhard, L. I., N. Y.; Dobermann Pinschers, Frank Addyman, Ardsley, N. Y.; Irish terriers, J. R. Mack, Libertyville, Ill.; Scotch terriers, John Walsh, Chicago; Boston terriers, Mrs. Laura B. Bailey, Detroit, Mich.; wire and smooth fox terriers, F. N. Hall, Dallas, Tex.; Pomeranians, Harry Osborne, Chicago; chows, Mrs. J. C. Seibert, Chicago; Pekingese, Mrs. A. Loebrich, Chicago; Great Danes, Harry Osborne, Chicago; German shepherds, Lloyd E. Brackett, Allegan, Mich.; English springer spaniels, A. C. Gifford, Oshkosh, Wis.; pointers and setters, Edmond Tyler, Chicago.

LEVANDOWSKI K. O.'S DOKTOR IN FIFTH ROUND

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Martin Levandowski of Grand Rapids knocked out Joe Doktor of Buffalo, N. Y., in the fifth round of a scheduled ten round bout here tonight. Doktor was on the floor five times altogether and was saved by the bell in the fourth. Levandowski weighed 176 pounds; Doktor, 186.

Results of other bouts on the card: Leon Jasinski, 172, Grand Rapids, knocked out Mayo Boyd, 163, Cleveland [2]; Johnny Mitchell, 126, Detroit, won a decision from Billy Lee, 125, Cleveland [4].

promise. The thermometer, which was hovering around the zero mark at one time yesterday, rose into the 30s today, but an overcoat is still comfortable, with no prospects that either players or spectators will be overcome by the heat.

Minnesota's practice this afternoon, limbering up outdoors and the bulk of the work in the fieldhouse, was chiefly defense against anticipated passes and runs by Harry Newman, Michigan's scoring star.

MICHIGAN SQUAD LEAVES.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A last look at Minnesota's plays was given both the first and second Michigan teams in Yost field house this afternoon, after which the squad of 26, with coaches, trainers and managers, entrained for Minneapolis.

But it was not all defensive work that the regular team did. It spent some little time running signals under the tutelage of Director Fielding H. Yost, who has kept pretty much out of the picture this season, but, scenting a conference title and a claim to national honors, wants nothing left undone that might help trip up the Gophers.

To Spring New Plays.

The squad has quite an assortment of new plays, most of them tricky formations that might be counted on to aid the scoring column rather than the number of first downs. It was mostly on these that Yost coached the team. Yost's work was done while Kipke was completing the defensive workout with the reserve team.

It had been expected that all of this week's work would be done indoors, but as a means of acquainting the squad with outside air, Kipke put it through a short but intensive workout with the tackling dummy in the snow. Thus it was fundamental play that ended the team's work for the year.

Mrs. Tunney Back in N. Y. After Two Operations

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Gene Tunney, wife of the former heavyweight champion, returned on the Europa tonight apparently fully recovered from two mastoid operations in Paris.

She was accompanied by her son, Gene Jr., whose first birthday is tomorrow; her mother, Mrs. George Lauder, and a French physician. Tunney went down the bay on a customs cutter to greet them.

Gelbert, Cards' Shortstop, Wounded While Hunting

Chambersburg, Pa., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Charles Gelbert, shortstop for the St. Louis National League Baseball club, was accidentally wounded while hunting yesterday. Gelbert today was taken to a hospital with a bullet wound in his left leg. His condition was reported as not serious.

Bears Move Corbett Up to 1st Team

George Corbett, former Millikin half back, who is playing his first season in the National league, will be in the Bear back field against Brooklyn at Wrigley field Sunday. Corbett, one of the few survivors of 20 former college stars who tried out with the Bears this season, has developed sufficiently to work regularly in the back field.

Jules Carlson and Joe Kopcha, who have been on the injured list for three weeks, are reported in condition again by Trainer Andy Lotshaw, but Coach Jones probably will not use them against Brooklyn unless replacements fail, although Carlson and Kopcha will be available Sunday. They have been working out this week.

Red Grange put in full time yesterday and in all probability will be in the lineup Sunday. Red's injury, a turned ankle, wasn't serious, but had he been allowed to play last week the injury might have been aggravated.

Grange was anxious to compete against Dutch Clark of the Spartans, but he is even more anxious to face Friedman.

Hawks Whip Toronto, 3-1; First Victory

Jackson probably never will know why he failed to hook one past the big toe on Gardiner's right foot, but the toe was there for a great save. A few seconds later Conacher fed the rubber to Jackson in front of the net, but again Gardiner punted out of danger.

Score Goal No. 2.

Things kept up that way during the first three quarters of the session, with the Hawks interjecting occasional flurries of their own. Then at 15:10 the Hawks added goal No. 2. Ripley, March and Romnes got the puck past the blue line and started a series of short passes. Despite the deceptive character of the passing, Chabot was set when Romnes squared away for his shot. This preparation on the part of the enemy goalie did not disturb Doc. He picked out a spot where there was no part of Mons. Chabot's anatomy and angled his shot home.

The champions broke loose for a goal in 6:50 of the third period. There was a mixup behind the Hawk goal, from which Blair succeeded in passing to a point six feet in front of the cage. Here Gracie picked it up and shot for the tabulation.

A tie seemed imminent when Doraty got a closeup shot, but Gardiner was equal to the occasion. The Leafs continued to carry the battle to the Hawks past the half time mark when McFadyen got the rubber in the Chicago defense zone, raced along the left boards, but was checked just as he was about to shoot. Cook picked up the puck while Donnie was circling the cage and passed to McFadyen, who slanted one past Chabot for counter No. 3.

CANADIENS WIN, 1 TO 0

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A spectacular goal by Wildor Larochelle on a pass by Pete Lepine with less than two minutes to go gave the Montreal Canadiens a 1 to 0 victory over the Detroit Red Wings in a National Hockey league game here tonight.

Larochelle broke up a scoreless tie after 8 minutes, 11 seconds of overtime.

body. Special trains will bring several hundred at least, among which will be 60 members of the reserve varsity, starting with the fifth team and finishing with the ninth. The tenth to the twelfth varsity teams will remain at home. Fifty-three student managers, from freshmen to seniors, also will be guests of Notre Dame Saturday. These unsung workmen are taking a postman's holiday to watch the performance of the managers in charge of the 40 players who will meet the Navy.

NOTRE DAME ENTRAINS.

Hunk Anderson put the men through their final drill in the gymnasium this afternoon, as snow prevented the squad from working on Cartier field. There was dummy scrimmage on both offensive and defensive maneuvers.

The squad will arrive in Cleveland early tomorrow and will work out in the stadium in the afternoon. Hunk Anderson was undecided about the lineup, withholding his final decision until he can get a look at the field.

May Start Mixed Lineup.

"The weather and the field will have the most to do in deciding our starting team," he said. "I'll probably start a mixed team picked from my first and second elevens. Just who'll be in that lineup won't be decided before Saturday."

MIDDIES GET SENDOFF.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Leaving this evening for Cleveland, where they meet Notre Dame on Saturday, members of the Naval academy football team were given a rousing sendoff by their comrades.

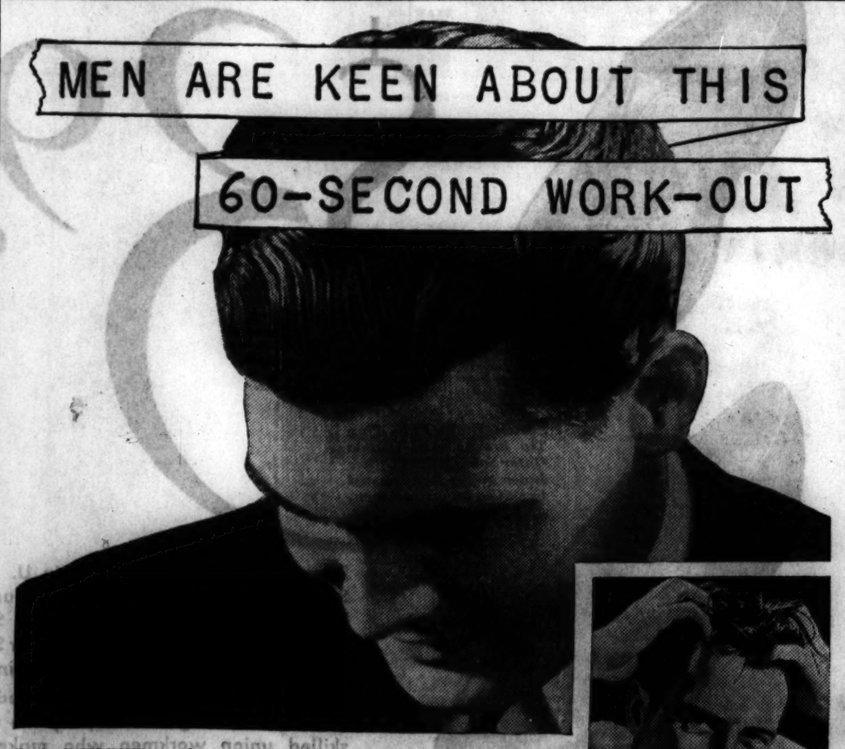
The team had its practice this afternoon and the supper hour was advanced so that the regiment could march to the gates and give an expression of its loyalty to the team.

The coaches and players realize the power of the opponent they will meet Saturday, but feel that the team has been improving steadily and is ready to play a better game than at any time this season. Head Coach Miller approved this statement, but felt that his team was not the equal of Notre Dame in the matter of reserves.

In the back field the team has considerable reserve strength with three sets of backs. In the line, however, the second string is far below the varsity.

MEN ARE KEEN ABOUT THIS

60-SECOND WORK-OUT



WHETHER you have a shock of dry, unruly hair — or thin, wispy hair — there's a splendid Vitalis method by which you can have healthy, vigorous, well-groomed hair!

A brisk scalp workout—twice a week—with Vitalis, puts life into that tight, dry scalp which is at the root of the trouble. Natural, necessary oils are restored to scalp and hair. Loose dandruff is corrected. Your hair becomes rich-looking and virile—and stays in place. But without an objectionable "patent-leather" look!

Massage Vitalis briskly into your scalp—twice a week—until it's a-tingle! Comb it. Brush it. You will have a healthy scalp—and hair that stays put!

Vitalis FOR YOUR HAIR

Ask Your Barber

The man to tell you about your hair is the barber. Ask him about Vitalis for a healthy scalp and handsome hair.

SWEARS HOOVER SHARES BLAME IN STONE CRASH

Norcott Cites Forecast of Slump's End.

A share of the blame for the $14,000,000 failure of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, was thrown by indirection upon President Hoover by Henry F. Norcott, president of the company, in his testimony yesterday in the Federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward. Norcott and eight other Stone officials are on trial on charges of using the mails to defraud. It was Norcott's second day on the witness stand.

"Did you, on March 6, 1930, read a press statement by the President that the depression would be over in two months?" Norcott was asked by Defense Attorney Charles F. Rathbun.

Demands to Know Which President.

"Just a minute," Prosecutor Dodd Healy said. "To what President do you refer?"

"The story was printed in the papers," Attorney Rathbun answered. "Every one read it, every one knows the name of the President."

"I object unless you tell who said it, where and at what time," Prosecutor Joseph A. Struett said.

"I told you as closely as I could," Attorney Rathbun insisted. "Every one knows who the President is."

"Yes," Judge Woodward ruled, "Let him answer."

"Did you, on March 6, 1930, read a press statement by the President that the depression would be over in two months?" Norcott was asked again.

"Yes," he replied.

"And did you believe it?" his attorney inquired.

"O, yes," the witness replied.

James G. Alexander's Name Barred.

Attempts by the witness, under questioning by Attorney Rathbun, to bring the name of James G. Alexander, former financial adviser of the Stone company, into the case failed when Judge Woodward sustained objections of the prosecution that Alexander is not a defendant.

On cross-examination, Norcott was questioned concerning the government charge that $200,000 borrowed by the Stone company for three days at the end of 1929 to appear in the company's statement as cash on hand. He said that he was not familiar with the transaction.

"I placed full confidence in Charles D. Pack.r Jr. [treasurer of the company], who handled the deal," Norcott said.

JOHN J. BEILMAN, ATTORNEY, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

John J. Beilman, 66 years old, an attorney in Chicago for 38 years, died yesterday of heart disease in his home at 5136 Cornell avenue.

Attorney Beilman was associated in the practice of law for some time with William A. Rittenhouse, now first assistant state's attorney. He served as an assistant corporation counsel under Edward J. Brundage. In recent years he had been a member of the firm of Day and Beilman.

Attorney Beilman is survived by his widow, Hattie; two daughters, Mrs. Harry Goldstein and Mrs. A. Miller, and a son, Allen. Funeral services will be held this afternoon in the chapel at 936 East 47th street, with burial in Waldheim cemetery.

Harry S. Griffin, Former Woolworth Executive, Dies

Winchester, Mass., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Harry Sherman Griffin, 63, retired executive buyer for the F. W. Woolworth company, died at his home today. He had attained prominence in recent years as a breeder of prize Guernsey cattle at his farm in Nabnasset. He was born in Topeka, Kas.

DR. C. F. LITTLE, AGED CHICAGO U. ALUMNUS, DIES

Manhattan, Kas., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Dr. Charles Frederick Little, 96, said by relatives to have been the oldest alumnus of the University of Chicago, died today. He had practiced medicine here forty-six years.

Born in Milford, N. H., Dr. Little studied medicine at Rush Medical college, Chicago, which later became a part of the University of Chicago.

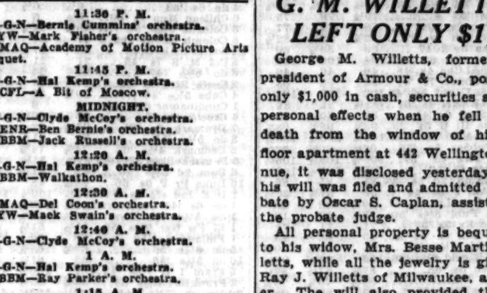
William A. Milne, Former Aid of Hoover, Dies in Ohio

Columbus, O., Nov. 17.—(AP)—William A. Milne, 60, an aid to President Hoover when the latter was federal food administrator during the war, died here today after a six month illness of heart disease.

IT WILL SPILL ON TWO FINGERS!



Ever try to balance a pitcher of water on two fingers? Look out for a wetting if you do! You need the support of two other fingers for safety!

And it's no different with radio tubes. The delicate arrangement of vital elements needs four-square support—the kind it gets in Eveready Raytheons, with four pillars!

All other radio tubes have only two supports. Thus the vital accuracy of their elements is constantly exposed to becoming unbalanced from jolts, jars and vibrations, inside and outside the set. And once these lose their accuracy, tone spills—just like the water in the pitcher.

In Eveready four-pillar Tubes you get guarded accuracy—uninterrupted true tone, longer life. They cost no more. Accept no less. Ask your dealer about them!

ESTATE HEIRS TOLD HIRT'S DIED AT SAME INSTANT

Dr. C. W. Robinson, coroner at Kempville, Tenn., has decided that Joseph F. Hirt, president of the Forest Products Engineering company, and his wife, Inez, were killed at the same instant in the airplane crash there on Nov. 10. His ruling would be construed to mean that Thomas De Blois, 1901 Granville avenue, Hirt's partner, will inherit the latter's entire estate, Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the Probate judge, said yesterday. It is said to be recognized in law that when a man and woman die simultaneously the man, having under ancient theory the greater vitality, is presumed to have died last, thereby becoming the inheritor of the wife's estate.

The coroner's ruling was sought after attorneys raised the question of whether De Blois or the heirs of Mrs. Hirt would inherit her share of her husband's estate. Under Hirt's will all his property is given to De Blois, with the exception of Mrs. Hirt's one-third dower share. The Hirts had no children.

The attorneys suggested that if Hirt died first Mrs. Hirt's share would automatically be inherited by her heirs. If Hirt's death occurred after that of his wife, however, she would have possessed none of his property.

New York, Nov. 17.—While speculative issues lapsed into a period of receding prices and extreme dullness, high grade bonds, notably United States governments and utilities continued the firm tone established yesterday. Trading volume, however, was reduced.

That politics is having little curtailing effect on investment demand was indicated by widespread preference of buyers for loans of the high grade category, while speculative activity dwindled to small proportions.

Gains today in United States governments amounted to less than one eighth of a point in most instances, but were large enough to maintain the uptrend which has predominated during the greater part of this week. Dealers called attention to the thinness of the market, which has greatly aided the recent recovery.

Utility Issues Sold.

Well sustained demand for prime utility bonds continued inviting to new security flotations. Coming on top of the offering of $27,500,000 of Toledo Edison bonds early this week, it was learned today that J. P. Morgan & Co. and associates had placed privately an issue of $4,500,000 of Niagara Falls Power company 5 per cent bonds.

German Bonds Weak.

Weakness in German bonds in today's market, which was forecast earlier by substantial declines on the London market, had the effect of discouraging bidders for foreign bonds in general. The result was that the usual grist of small offerings could be executed only at lower prices. These declines, however, were not serious.

German issues were influenced first by reports of an impending resignation of the Von Papen cabinet, and then, from midday to the close, by the announcement that what was expected earlier in the day had actually happened. In addition to the reich bonds, weakness developed in German Agricultural Bank 7s and 6½s and Berlin 6s. Australians sold lower. Canadian government bonds were quiet and steady, but Canadian National railways issues again lost 1 to 2 points.

Montgomery Ward.

Will you kindly give me your opinion of the common stock of Montgomery Ward & Co.?—C. S. M.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Inc., started as a mail order house, catering to rural trade. It became evident in 1926 that the changing status of the farmer and the growth of good roads would have an adverse effect on mail order business.

To meet this change a system of chain stores was developed in 1926. The company expanded aggressively. Stores operated at the close of 1927 numbered 50, and by the end of 1929 had increased to 285. The high point was about 550.

This venture brought new problems. Large investments were required. Inventories had to be increased. Many rental contracts were made in 1928 and 1929 at boom prices.

Since 1929 consolidation has taken place. Many unprofitable outlets have been discontinued. Economies and reorganization of personnel have been effected.

Sales increased uninterruptedly from $68,522,000 in 1921 to $267,325,000 in 1929. Reduced purchasing power of the farmer and lower commodity prices have since had their effect. For the first ten months of 1932 sales were $142,463,000, against $179,059,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. Sales for 1931 were $198,119,000, against $249,097,000 for 1930.

Loss for the first nine months of 1932 was $4,298,000, against loss of $2,693,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. On sales of $14,638,000 in September, 1932, profit was $295,000. It appears that the company can make a profit on monthly sales of $13,000,000. Last year monthly volume of $18,500,000 was necessary to make a profit.

Loss in 1931 was $8,712,000, against net income of $423,000, or $2.06 per class A share, for 1930. Net income for 1929 was $13,435,000. Surplus deductions in 1931 included $5,383,000 to write off expenses of opening stores; $2,350,000 estimated loss on lease rentals, etc., and $1,081,000 possible loss on receivables.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $101,723,000 and current liabilities were $6,919,000. Working capital was $94,804,000.

Long term debt is $2,958,000. There are outstanding 205,000 shares of no par class A and 4,514,198 shares of no par common. Nothing is being paid on the class A.

The company is primarily dependent on rural business. A return to substantial profits will probably have to await increased purchasing power of the farmer. The management has in the last two years reorganized and revalued assets. There are still problems, but it appears that the company has been readjusted to a depression basis and is in a position to take advantage of any improvement.

Both the class A and common are speculative.

Each Faction to Elect Third of Directors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—After days of charge and countercharge of the two factions, one led by E. L. Cord and the other by Lamotte Cohu, president, for control of Aviation corporation and its operating subsidiary American Airways, reached an agreement late tonight.

The compromise provides that the board of directors shall be reduced to 15, that five shall be selected by Cord and his group, that five shall be chosen by the present board, which Cord is seeking to control, and that a third shall be appointed by mutual agreement between the two factions.

Fight Over Merger.

The present quarrel between Cord, who became a director last spring, and the controlling directors arose through a plan of the board to purchase the assets of North American Aviation through a stock issue. The issue of more stock would lessen Cord's influence in the corporation and he promptly protested.

The fight had reached a stage today in which Cohu started suit for libel, asking $1,000,000 against E. F. Hutton & Co., New York brokers, in which papers were served today.

The action was based on alleged "misstatements and untruths" supposed to have been contained in a booklet issued by Hutton, entitled "E. L. Cord and the Future of Aviation." This booklet was distributed in soliciting proxies for the Cord faction.

Joint Statement.

"An arrangement has been arrived at by representatives of both contending groups of directors of the Aviation corporation looking to a settlement of the existing controversy. The arrangement will be submitted shortly to the board of directors for its approval.

"It is proposed that the board be reduced to fifteen in number, one-third to be selected by the present board other than the Cord interests, one-third by the Cord group, and one-third independent prominent men mutually agreed to by both groups.

"All matters at issue will be resolved by the new board and litigation ended."

CANADIANS MOVE TOWARD POOL ON NEWSPRINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 17.—Leaders in the Canadian newsprint industry gathered here today for what is expected to be the last stage in the deliberations that have been going on for some time to bring some degree of stability to the present chaotic conditions existing in the industry.

The conference of leaders adjourned last Friday, after agreeing to a pool arrangement. More detailed plans of the pool scheme were under consideration at today's meeting, it is understood.

Unless unforeseen difficulties are encountered, it is hoped that a plan will be put into effect within the next two weeks, with an announcement made in the next day or two. Contributions of the various producers to a pooling plan have formed the important differences of opinion.

NORTHWEST BANK GROUP PROPOSES CAPITAL CHANGE

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Directors of the Northwest Bancorporation voted today to change its capital stock from shares of $50 par value to shares without par value and to set aside a reserve fund of $14,000,000.

The change in par value eliminates from the capital structure allowance for good will of the Bancorporation and the 127 affiliated banks and trust companies in eight northwest states.

Internat'l Harvester Votes Usual 30 Cents Dividend

Directors of International Harvester company declared a regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share on common stock, maintaining the rate of $1.20 annually established three months ago, when the payment was reduced from 45 cents quarterly.

THIS SHOULD SILENCE ANY ONE—CONVENTION WITHOUT SPEECHES

The Ohio Valley Improvement association met yesterday, but instead of the usual two day session, ran through its business in jig time and adjourned in a few hours.

There were no speeches, no badges, no luncheons, no entertainment, and, since resolutions were presented verbally, no stenographic reports.

All of this saved the association more than $1,000 in expenses, said William C. Culkins, secretary, and the delegates were so pleased they intend to recommend the plan to other organizations.

Unhampered by formalities, the convention in rapid fire order voiced its opposition to proposals to collect tolls from boats using locks and dams of the Ohio river; to require those boats to hold certificates as common carriers and submit to regulation of the interstate commerce commission, and that railroads be given the right to publish temporary tariffs to meet changing conditions.

Pomerene Hits Banks Denying Sound Loans

Boston, Mass., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, today assailed as "parasites" banks which, while being 75 per cent or more liquid, refuse to make loans when proper security is offered.

Chairman Pomerene estimated that approximately 10 per cent of the banks of the country fell into this class and said "were it not for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the entire country would be at their mercy." Pomerene's attack was made in the course of an address on the operations of the Reconstruction Finance corporation delivered before the eighth New England conference, sponsored by the New England council.

He estimated "that 90 per cent of the banks, all things considered, have done their full duty to their depositors and borrowers and to the communities which they serve."

Ely Hits Low Wages.

Speaking on the same program, Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts said that if "southern textile states—and others" did not raise their labor legislation standards toward those of Massachusetts, the Bay state would be forced to lower its standards to place its industries in competition with those of outside states.

He expressed the hope that other states would see fit to bring their laws into conformity with the laws Massachusetts has enacted to protect labor, and suggested that within the next year, by conference and otherwise, a higher plane of understanding of the needs of the working people of the United States would be reached in textile and other industrial states. This, he said, might lead to increased wages, but he added, "the buying power of the American people must be lifted before we are out of the difficulties of the present times."

No Time to Deny Loans.

Chairman Pomerene said in part: "I measure my words. The bank that is 75 per cent liquid or more and refuses to make loans when proper security is offered, under present circumstances, is a parasite in the community and deserves the condemnation of every thinking man and woman.

"This is no time for financial institutions to refuse to loan their moneys when reasonably secured. The money in their vaults was earned by the people and belongs to them. It is the very life blood of commerce. What right have they to refuse to loan it back to men keeping wives and children from starvation and freezing?

"If the Reconstruction Finance corporation would continue to make loans in normal times as they do now the banks which are 75 to 85 per cent liquid or over would maintain a lobby in Washington to secure the repeal of the Reconstruction Finance corporation act. Now they can function and aid in the restoration of normal business conditions. Were it not for the Reconstruction Finance corporation the entire country would be at their mercy."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—In sympathy with the severe fall of 2⅞ cents in the pound sterling, the Japanese yen eased off ½ cent today, reaching a new low at 20.20. The closing price, 20.25 cents represented a net loss of ⅝ cent. Business in the exchange continued to be negligible.

Recent weakness in the yen has been caused chiefly by the budgetary difficulties of the Japanese government which is facing a deficit of possibly 1,000,000,000 yen, about $202,500,000 at current rates of exchange.

Although there has been much talk of possible inflation in Japan and many observers consider this the only way out, no signs of it have yet appeared. The latest statement of the Bank of Japan shows note circulation of 1,008,630,000 yen against 1,000,483,000 yen on Dec. 12, 1931, the day before the gold standard was abandoned. Government and other deposits have decreased slightly in the last year.

PUBLIX FORMS 4 SUBSIDIARIES IN NEW SETUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—The Paramount Publix corporation today formed four new subsidiaries to carry on certain of its corporations in pursuit of its program to reorganize departmental activities in the interest of greater efficiency and economy. The new subsidiaries will be qualified in certain states and the parent company withdrawn and, in addition, certain companies formed in some states for local purposes will be eliminated.

These moves are part of the decentralization policy which Paramount Publix is pursuing following the recent shakeup in the management of the company.

Reserve Banks Report Cash Flowing Back

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—In the week ended on Wednesday $22,000,000 of the $67,000,000 of additional money drawn into circulation in the two preceding weeks to meet first of the month and election day demands flowed back to the banks, the report of the federal reserve system published today shows.

This return of money from circulation was considerably below the normal movement, due to the outbreak of banking disturbances in Pittsburgh which resulted in a temporarily increased demand for cash.

Gold Gain Is $14,000,000.

Monetary gold stocks of the country rose $14,000,000 in the week, bringing the net recovery from the low of June 15 to $375,000,000. The twelve federal reserve banks combined added $17,000,000 to their gold reserves, which brought them to $3,027,069,000, which was within $5,132,000 of the high for the year reported on April 6, and showed a recovery of $466,474,000 from the year's low June 15.

Despite the rise in the system's gold holdings and a fall of $16,000,000 in federal reserve note circulation, the reserve ratio was unchanged at 62.4 per cent due to a gain of $55,000,000 in deposit liabilities, the result of an increase of $57,000,000 in member bank reserve deposits, all of which occurred in New York City.

Outstanding Credits Up.

Total reserve bank credit outstanding showed a minor rise of $9,000,000 in the week, although the system's holdings of bills and securities fell $3,000,000, discounts being down $3,800,000 and holdings of bills bought in the open market up $500,000.

Brokers' loans reported by member banks in New York City fell $16,000,000 in the week ended on Wednesday to a total of $344,000,000, which was the smallest since Aug. 17. Loans made by the reporting banks for their own accounts were off $15,000,000, loans for the account of out of town banks were down $1,000,000 and for the account of others unchanged.

MAKERS OF BAR FIXTURES READY TO START WORK

The prospect that congress will soon legalize the manufacture and sale of beer is fermenting activity in many different quarters.

The latest to report preparations for a change are manufacturers of bar fixtures.

R. F. Bensinger, president of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company, said yesterday that he expects his company will have an early opportunity to utilize its facilities in the manufacture of fixtures suited to needs developing under the new order.

Prior to the passage of the 18th amendment the company was one of the world's largest makers of bar fixtures. Mr. Bensinger expressed the belief that the old saloon has gone for good, but he believes that there will be a real demand for fixtures to be used in the sale of beverages. During the years in which the company manufactured bar fixtures it employed from 1,000 to 2,000 mechanics and laborers, mostly skilled craftsmen, and the annual pay roll approached a million dollars, he said.

Hops Dealers Hoping, Too.

Another sign of the times is the increased activity in the hops market. Dealers report that a more active interest has been manifest recently and that prices have advanced materially during the last week. The bullish attitude has been encouraged, it is stated, by the recent government estimate placing production in the principal growing states of the country for 1932 at 25,000,000 pounds. This is 600,000 pounds less than last year and 5,000,000 pounds less than the average production in the last five years.

Postal Savings Unwanted.

Chicago banks loaded with more cash than they can profitably invest have been turning back millions of dollars that the postal savings system had on deposit with them.

This, according to officials of the postal savings system, has created a new problem for the system. Heretofore, it has been the policy to keep postal savings on deposit with banks in the locality in which the savings originate.

Now that the Chicago banks don't want all of these funds, says Mads Madsen, who is cashier of the Chicago postal savings office, there's nothing to do but take the excess cash over to the federal reserve bank. Presumably a credit is entered and the money deposited in banks in other parts of the country.

Mr. Madsen says also that the increase in postal savings in Chicago has recently shown a tendency to flatten out. Balance on deposit Nov. 15 amounted to $74,066,000, compared with $73,871,000 on Nov. 1. Individual accounts on Nov. 1 totaled 140,444. On July 1, 1932, there were 120,993 accounts and a balance on deposit of $64,864,000. On Jan. 1, 1930, there were 9,452 accounts and $3,424,000 of deposits.

NEW YORK WILL SELL $30,400,000 OF BONDS DEC. 14

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—State Controller Morris S. Tremaine announced today that New York state would market a new issue of $30,400,000 of bonds on Dec. 14, of which $15,400,000 would represent the first installment of the issue of $30,000,000 of emergency relief bonds which the voters of the state authorized on Nov. 8.

Banks to Act on Savings Rate Cut Next Week

The proposal to reduce interest on savings deposits from 3 per cent to 2½ per cent will be formally taken up by the Chicago Clearing House association early next week.

R. F. Clarke, president of the association, said yesterday that the meeting would be held either Monday or Tuesday.

Member banks of the association, it was reported yesterday, have been asked to waive the customary week's notice of a special meeting. This step would make it possible for the association to dispose of the matter at the meeting next week.

Those who are sponsoring the interest rate reduction are anxious to have formal action taken soon so that the new rate can be put in force on Jan. 1. If that is to happen notices to depositors, according to law, must be mailed on or before Dec. 1.

According to information in the financial district the Chicago Clearing House association will decide upon the 2½ per cent rate for interest on savings. Earlier rates of 2 per cent or 2¼ per cent had been talked of, but the banks are understood to have decided definitely for 2½ per cent.

BENDIX VOTES CHANGE TO CUT TRANSFER TAX

Stockholders of the Bendix corporation at a special meeting yesterday approved proposed changes in capitalization designed to enable stockholders to escape unnecessary taxation.

The authorized capital of the corporation was reduced $10,488,315 to $62,441,575. This reduces the amount of capital represented by each share from $25 to $5. Stockholders also voted to change the no par common stock to $5 par value stock.

STOCK LEADERS SAG A LITTLE IN DULL MARKET

Rails Hardest Hit as Loadings Drop.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—Germany's latest political upset and the fresh break in grain prices failed to shake stock market trading out of its lethargy today. A batch of cheerful dividend news, including an extra payment in one case, a resumption of payment in another and the authorization of the regular disbursement by the big International Harvester company was likewise ignored. The market simply refused to be disturbed.

Dealings were even duller than those of yesterday. There was no evidence of an iota of public interest and the professionals were content to mark time and await further developments. Prices therefore held to an extremely narrow range, the back-and-forth changes of a majority of them being in small fractions. Minus signs predominated in the final table, but the losses were so inconsequential as to leave the situation about where it was at the close of the preceding session.

Rails Sell Off.

Preliminary reports foreshadowing a drop of more than seasonal proportions in the weekly freight carloadings figures to be made public next Saturday brought a little more selling into the railroad group than in some others and losses of a point or so were sustained by Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, Union Pacific, Southern railway, and New York Central. The liquidation here as elsewhere was not of a character calculated to alarm, being more of a dribble than any attempt at selling pressure.

Even stocks like Case and Auburn, which are accustomed to swing wide around the corners, refused to budge very far from low. Both these issues finished within a fraction of their previous close.

Industrial Leaders Sag.

The industrial leaders like American Can, United States Steel and General Electric sagged below their starting points most of the day and received scant attention from the floor traders playing for pin money on the quick turn.

Gold stocks showed a flurry of strength in the forenoon, but it soon petered out. Homestake got another life toward the close, however, and finished the undisputed kingpin of the day's performance with a net gain of nearly 8 points.

A report that tobacco withdrawals during August were about 6 per cent under those of last year had an unsettling effect on the tobacco shares. American Tobacco was the "weak sister" of the group.

Oil shares were sluggish but steady and the motors could do nothing at all.

The copper shares were out of favor and report had it that the selling was coming from foreign sources.

United Aircraft Earns 56c Per Share in Nine Months

United Aircraft and Transport corporation yesterday reported net profit of $1,671,487 for the nine months ended Sept. 30, equal to 56 cents a common share, against $2,390,672, or 89 cents a share, in the corresponding 1931 period.

Canadian Rail Chief Assails Political Rule

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 18.—President E. W. Beatty of the Canadian Pacific railway today vigorously protested before the senate railway committee against creation of an arbitral tribunal to enforce economies on the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways. Beatty's company is privately owned, while the Canadian National belongs to the people of Canada. The C. P. R. president strongly favored unification of the two systems under private ownership and operation.

EDWARD W. BEATTY.

His principal points were:

"The C. P. R. favors a statutory direction to coöperate with the Canadian National in the interests of economy.

"Maximum economies of $84,000,000, however, can only be obtained by amalgamation of the two systems.

Objects to Board.

"The C. P. R. has no major project in connection with its railway or subsidiary enterprises in contemplation.

"The C. P. R. is startled by the suggestion that questions of administration policy and finance may be forced upon it by an arbitral board not responsible to its shareholders.

"Under such a tribunal the C. P. R. would be completely divested of control of its property in favor of an outside authority.

"There is no danger of a monopoly of transportation in Canada, with highways and waterways competition.

"As to coöperation and competition: You cannot fight and kiss at the same time, unless you are married, and that is consolidation.

Passenger Earnings.

"Passenger earnings could be pooled with the consent of the dominion railway commission.

"Objection to the proposed arbitral tribunal is 'not a matter of vanity but a matter of right'; the C. P. R. has charter rights which parliament should not violate."

Mr. Beatty said, however, that 5,000 miles of line could be dropped if the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National were brought under joint management. It could be done only by unification, he said. The lines involved would be 65 per cent Canadian National, 34 per cent Canadian Pacific and one per cent commonly owned. Under separate management the total possible to abandon would be 1,740 miles, Mr. Beatty said.

The government's attitude in respect to the legislation now before parliament was indicated by Arthur Meighen, leader in the senate, who brushed aside the bogey Mr. Beatty feared in connection with the proposed arbitral tribunal.

Bankruptcy Petition Lists $1,051,687 Debt, $335 Assets

Walter J. McDonnell, a solicitor, 8136 South Lincoln street, formerly in the real estate business, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District court yesterday through Attorney J. V. Cunningham, listing liabilities of $1,051,687 and nominal assets of $335. Of the liabilities more than $900,000 is secured by real estate collateral.

THANKSGIVING TRIP FARES CUT BY RAILROADS

Pullman Rates Also Reduced.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

All the railroads running out of Chicago will offer reduced fares over the Thanksgiving holiday, in an endeavor to stimulate passenger travel.

Each of the passenger associations serving the various parts of the country is establishing its own rates, which vary from the others.

The Western Passenger association, whose membership embraces lines running west from Chicago, has announced a rate of one fare plus 25 cents for round trip tickets. These tickets will be good in coaches or Pullman cars.

Coöperating with the railroads, the Pullman company is offering fares at one and a half times the regular single fare charge for the round trips for these excursions only.

Limits of Excursions.

The limits of these excursion rates are the western borders of the two Dakotas, Wyoming, Utah, and east of Albuquerque, N. M. Tickets will be placed on sale Nov. 22, 23, and 24, and the time limit for the return is Nov. 30.

All points reached by roads of the Western Passenger association are included in the excursion rates, and in addition the fares will apply to certain points in the territory served by the roads of the southwest. This includes Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana west of the Mississippi.

"We all hope that these rates will greatly stimulate travel," was the statement made by the office of H. W. Siddall of the Western Passenger association. "They are the lowest fares for first class passenger travel we have ever put into effect over the Thanksgiving holiday."

Rates to East Low.

Railroads of the Central Passenger association, running east from Chicago, are putting a round trip fare into effect which is 75 per cent of a single fare. This excursion rate will be good only in coaches.

The territory embraced includes a portion of Illinois, all of Indiana, all of Ohio, and the lower peninsula of Michigan. The eastern limit runs through Buffalo and Pittsburgh. Tickets for this excursion will be sold after 3 a. m. Nov. 23 and will be good on all trains of Nov. 24. The return limit is Nov. 27.

Excursion rates for the southeastern territory will not be blanket, but will operate between Chicago and certain points in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana [east of the Mississippi], Mississippi, North and South Carolina, and Tennessee. As an example, a round trip fare to Birmingham, Ala., for coach travel will be $15 and for tickets good in sleeping cars it will be $18.04.

Tickets will be placed on sale after 3 a. m. Nov. 22 and will be good on all trains of Nov. 23. The return limit is Nov. 29.

PRICES OF CORN AND WHEAT SAG IN GRAIN MARTS

Decline Is Laid to Lack of Aggressive Support.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices on a gold basis in leading markets, computed from rates of exchange at the time they closed, follow:

	Thurs-day.	Wednes-day.
Chicago, December	43⅞	44⅞
Winnipeg, December	39¾	40¾
Liverpool, December	50⅝	51⅝
No. 3 Manitoba	54⅜	55¼
Buenos Aires, February	40¼	40¼
Rotterdam, November	46⅞	46⅞

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Scattered liquidation by holders of December wheat and corn was strongly in evidence Thursday on the leading grain exchanges, and, with a lack of aggressive support, wheat prices in Chicago dropped 1⅝@2c and corn 1⅜@1¾c from Wednesday's finish, with the close at the bottom.

At no time did the markets show a tendency to rally. Wheat finished with December at 43@43⅛c, coming within 1¼c of the all time record low of 41⅝c, established on Nov. 3, while May was 48¼@48⅝c and July 49¼@49⅝c.

Weakness in the sterling and Canadian exchange rates served to attract further attention to the world's financial condition, but the dominating influence in causing the decline in wheat was the lack of aggressive support. This made it hard for those who were liquidating holdings in the December to operate without affecting the market, and the nearby future went to around 5¼c under May against 5c on Wednesday. Cash interests bought December and sold May, changing over hedges.

Argentine Wheat Crop Large.

Sentiment among wheat traders has been inclined to be bearish for several days, as it was felt that the impending liquidation by the longs in the December delivery would likely develop at any time. Weakness in Liverpool had some effect during the day, the English market closing 1@1¼c per bu lower on old style contracts, with the March at 48¼c. Trading in new style wheat there, which calls for the seller of the future to pay the import duty, started Thursday, with March closing at 50¾c or 2c over the old style. The import duty on non-empire grain is around 4c per bu.

Toward the last there was further bearish comment on a Broomhall estimate that Argentina had a prospective exportable surplus of 189,000,000 bu wheat, including carryover. This compared with 130,000,000 bu the previous season.

Buying of wheat futures at Winnipeg against sales at Chicago tended to check the declining tendency in the former market, but it closed ⅞@1c lower, with December at 45⅝c in Canadian funds and at 39¾c on a gold basis. Export demand was less active, with sales of 500,000 bu in all positions, largely via Vancouver.

Corn Nears Season's Low.

Liquidation was on in December corn from start to finish, with the price dropping to 24⅝@24¾c at the last, coming within 1c of the inside figure of the season. The nearby future went to 5⅝c under the May, against 5¼c on Wednesday. Net losses for the day were 1¾@1⅝c, with May closing at 30@30⅛c, and July at 31¾c. Cash corn has shown much more strength than the futures. Two weeks ago bids for No. 4 grades to arrive were 4@4½c under December when the latter was selling around 24c, while yesterday the bids were 1⅜@2¼c under the future. The advance of virtually 2½c per bu in the cash grain has failed to increase country offerings to arrive to any great extent, with only 52,000 bu reported as bought by local handlers yesterday. Shipping sales were 101,000 bu.

Less Interest in Barley.

While Washington reports indicated that there was a probability of the prohibition act being modified to permit the manufacture of real beer during the coming short session of congress there was less interest taken in barley. The May closed 1⅝c lower at 32½c, while the December was 30c. Oat were relatively firm early, with changing between December and May at 2c difference furnishing the bulk of the trading. Later the weakness in corn had some effect and the close was ⅝@⅞c lower, with December finishing at 16¼@16⅝c, while May was 18⅛c and July 19c. Rye was off 1¼@1⅝c at the last, with December 28¼c and May 32c at the last.

BULGE IN COTTON MEETS FREE SELLING

A disposition on the part of cotton traders to secure profits on any little rally made a nervous market with a narrow range of prices and the close at indeterminate figures. Futures in Chicago closed 2 points net lower to 6 points higher, with New Orleans unchanged to 1 lower, and New York off 3@5 points. Spots were unchanged in all markets, New York being 6.40c; New Orleans 6.35c, Galveston and Houston 6.25c. Liverpool closed 2@3 points net higher and is due 1@2 points net lower today.

New York reported that Russia was buying, the first demand from that source in some time. New Orleans reports amid the actual movement of cotton showed further signs of shrinkage. Port receipts were 44,307 bales against 42,928 bales last year. Exports for the season since Aug. 1 aggregate 2,559,089 bales, compared with 2,374,497 bales last year. Prices follow:

PRICES OF HOGS RETREAT AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

Cattle Receipts Smaller; Lambs Decline.

The hog market slipped back rapidly after scoring an early gain of 10c yesterday. Before the finish prices were $3.10@10c under the preceding session and as much as 15@20c lower than yesterday's opening quotations.

Lightest weight hogs obtained the biggest premiums on the bulge, underweights on the pig orders outselling all others. The latter topped the market at $3.75, while few hogs exceeding 300 lbs in weight were eligible to more than $3.50 at the low point at the close of the session. The general average for the whole day remained unchanged at $3.50.

After the break demand picked up and all interests were more aggressive on closing rounds. Only pen holders remained at the finish. Practically all of the high quality lights weighing under 180 lbs that were suitable for the eastern trade cleaned during the early rounds. The packing interest sacrificed itself mostly on the 200@300 lb butchers which comprised the bulk of local droves.

Cattle Receipts Small.

Little dependable demand met yesterday's small supply of cattle. Fresh receipts were smallest for Thursday in four weeks, but this failed to revive the activity that featured the live stock trade a week ago. Bulk of offerings had to be peddled on a "catch as catch can" market at the lowest prices of the week. Numerous instances of additional declines were unadvertised in sales of $5.00@7.00 kinds that made up the bulk of the steer supply.

Yearling stock that sold to the best advantage on last week's rising market, were hit hardest on the break. Yesterday's selling indicated declines of 75c to $1.00 in four days. Light and medium weight steers also took a hard jolt and have gone down 50@75c since last week's close. Weighty beeves that were a drug on last week's market at lower prices, while all other classes were advancing, lost only 25@ 50c this week. A load of choice 1,208 lb Illinois steers sold yesterday at $7.75, the top, to the Hygrade. Few others were good enough to bring $7.00. The poultry season always looms up as a bearish factor in live stock at this time of year, but has little effect after Thanksgiving.

Lambs Lower Again.

Further declines were registered in lambs yesterday, but the most of the loss was attributed to the poorer quality of offerings. Top sales dropped to $5.65, the lowest they have been since Oct. 31. At the close of last week top slaughter lambs reached $6.50. Current quotations are 50@75c under the close of last week. Sellers expect to halt the break before the end of the week.

Supplies have been held down the last few days to avert congestion in the wholesale markets during the poultry season. The market for lambs has been lower every day this week. Country buyers continued aggressive at fully steady prices, paying up to $5.35 for best grades of feeding lambs again yesterday. Matured sheep and yearlings sold steady.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,000 cattle, 18,000 hogs and 8,000 sheep, against 1,166 cattle, 20,709 hogs and 11,419 sheep the previous Friday, and 1,907 cattle, 29,657 hogs and 13,567 sheep a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today and prices were unchanged with no sales reported. Buyers were believed willing to pay 3.07c, but nothing was firmly offered below 3.10c. Early steadiness in futures was followed by reactions under liquidation and hedge selling, with the market closing 1 point higher to 1 point net lower. The market opened unchanged to 2 points higher on covering and buying by trade interests as it was roused by the steady London cables. December contracts after selling at .90c eased off to .88c, while May, which at one time was .92c, reacted to .90c.

PROPOSALS FOR PAVING.

Sealed proposals will be received by the South Park Commissioners, 5720 Wilson and Cottage Grove avenue, until 12:00 o'clock noon, Nov. 25, 1932, for constructing pavement and concrete work at 55th street entrance into Burnham Park, Chicago, all in accordance with specifications for same which can be obtained at the office of the South Park Commissioners, located at 5720 Wilson and Cottage Grove avenue, upon application.

Only bids from those of record in the office of the South Park Commissioners as having received specifications will be considered.

All specifications including bidding sheets must be identified by the stamp of the Secretary of the South Park Commissioners thereon. No bid will be considered which is not submitted on a bidding sheet received from the South Park Commissioners, and identified as above described.

Bidding blanks to be used will be found in the specifications. A deposit to the amount of five per cent (5%) of the aggregate amount of the highest proposal named in the submitted bid either in currency or certified check, payable to the South Park Commissioners, must accompany such proposal as a guarantee of the good faith of the bidder.

The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract and give a surety bond for 25% of the amount of his contract.

which envelope will be delivered to the Secretary of the South Park Commissioners at 57th street and Cottage Grove avenue before the time limit stated above.

The South Park Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all proposals.

By order of M. E. CONNELLY, Secretary.
Chicago, Nov. 18, 1932.
